This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

+ Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.

+ Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.

+ Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.

+ Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

PREFACE.

THE experience of twenty-six years, and the united approbation of the most judicious instructers in our country, give ample testimony to the excellence of Adam's Latin Grammar. And it is worthy of remark, that, amidst the changes of almost every thing connected with education, this work has maintained its popularity throughout the country since the year 1799, when it was recommended by the University at Cambridge. But several typographical errors, which were adopted from that Edinburgh edition, from which the first American edition was copied, have been transmitted through subsequent editions to the present time with such scrupulous exactness, that they have now become canonized, and are received as authority. Besides these, other errors have been creeping in, till a thorough revision of the work has become necessary.

At the time this book was first compiled, the state of education in Scotland may have been such as to render the connexion of the Latin with the English necessary, in the manner they were blended by Dr. Adam; but that necessity does not exist in this country, where English grammar is separately taught from the more complete systems of Lowth and Murray. For this reason, and because what is not used in a manual becomes a hindrance, the portion pertaining exclusively to English grammar has been omitted in this edition; and some few additions and alterations have been made which were deemed important. But in all cases where it was practicable, the words of the original grammar have been preserved.

The following are some of the principal alterations in the present edition. The powers and sounds of the letters are explained—a few concise rules are given for the right

Pronunciation of Latin—the quantity of the penultimate vowel is marked in every word throughout the book, where it is not determined by being placed before another vowel, a double consonant, or two single ones. The rules for pronunciation are founded on the system of Walker; and are agreeable to the usage of the University at Cambridge. They are general, and perhaps may admit of some exceptions. But it is hoped they will do something towards bringing about a greater uniformity of pronunciation; an object greatly to be desired. For the vicious pronunciation, arising from an entire neglect of the subject in some schools, and from the whimsical peculiarities of others, affords no little trouble and vexation to the tutor, when all the varieties of it are brought together in collegiate recitations. Besides, it is all-important that a correct pronunciation should be adopted from the beginning. So strong is the force of habit, that it has been found almost impossible to correct the pronunciation of boys who have been allowed to pronounce incorrectly in the commencement of their studies. This is of much more importance than most persons imagine. All parents are not sensible, when they allow their children to learn their Latin grammar first at home, without attention to this subject, or to commence the study of Latin with persons avowedly unfit to carry them through the course proposed, that they are preparing years of labour for the instructer to whom they are ultimately destined. But it is nevertheless true, that years have been spent in correcting habits of corrupt pronunciation formed in a few months; and sometimes it has been found impossible to correct them altogether.

The article on Gender, which was very incomplete in the original, has been written anew, and remarks on it, which were scattered in different places, have been brought together. The English has been added to the Nouns and Verbs used as paradigms. A greater variety of Nouns of the third declension are declined as paradigms; and several defective, irregular, and compound words have also been declined. The lists of Defective Nouns have been carefully revised and corrected. In declining the Adjectives, all unnecessary repetition has been avoided, and an example in ns added. The table of Numeral Adjectives has been somewhat enlarged by the addition of the higher numerical letters. A few additional observations on the Pronouns have been subjoined. A paradigm has been given, in each of the four conjugations, of a Verb displayed in all its parts, and with the corresponding English annexed to all. An example of a Verb in io, of the third conjugation, has been added to the paradigms. In giving the English, a little more precision has been attempted than is observed in the original; particularly in the imperfect and future of the Indicative. A Synopsis of all the Modes and Tenses is subjoined to each Voice. The Formation of the Tenses, it is hoped, will be found more intelligible and practically useful than before. Some slight alterations have been made in the subsequent matter, in order to render more prominent certain portions which were thought confused and indistinct. To the Prosody has been added a Metrical Key, or explanation of the various metres and combinations of metres used by Horace, with an Index (after the plan of Dr. Carey) to all the Odes. The remarks, which stood at the end, upon English Versification, with the Latin rules of Prosody from Ruddiman, have been omitted as useless in that place. Instead of these are substituted a List of Latin Authors, arranged according to the golden, silver, and brazen ages of Roman literature; also Tables exhibiting the value of the Coins, Weights, and Measures, used by the Romans; with some Remarks on the method of computing Sesterces, and on the grammatical solution of expressions relating to them, which are drawn from the best treatises on these difficult subjects, and may assist young students to gain a more exact knowledge of them, than is to be derived from any other book in common use; and, lastly, Lyne's Rules for Construction, and for Position.

The editor hopes that this excellent compendium will be found to have derived some additional value, in a practical point of view, from the changes above-mentioned. The more he has examined the work, and compared it with other Latin Grammars, the higher it has risen in his estimation There is contained in this little manual almost every thing that is necessary for the student at school or at college; while at the same time the volume is so small as to be convenient for use, even where an abridgment would be sufficient. This is an important consideration; for no abridgment or compend should ever be put into the hands of a scholar, who is afterwards to use the original work. The force of first impressions, and of local associations, renders it almost impossible to use a different Grammar from that first learned, with the same readiness. The page, the situation on the page, the type, and other circumstances connected with it in the memory, all contribute to facilitate the turning to any rule or observation desired. And no small loss of time is occasioned by that confusion which results from having learned two or three Grammars of the same language. Even a different paging in different editions of the same Grammar should be carefully avoided, unless there be some good reason for the change.

THE EDITOR.

PRONUNCIATION OF LATIN.

It must be kept in mind, whilst applying the rules which follow, that Accent and Quantity are wholly distinct from each other, and must not be confounded; and also, that the quantity of the vowels in Latin is not supposed to be expressed by the long or the short sounds we give them in English. For, in that case, we should make short all vowels long by position; as we uniformly give the short sound to the first syllable of such words as the following; vannus, pigmus, penna, longus, &c. In other words we give the long sound to vowels that are short in quantity; as in the first syllable of fĕro, tŭli, dătum, &c. all of which are short in quantity. Indeed, the sound of a vowel depends very much upon its situation in a word, and the place of the accent, as may be seen in the following words, and many others; dĕcus, rĕgo, ĕques; in each of which we give the long sound to the first vowel, though short in quantity, but the short sound to the same vowels when the words become trisyllables; as, *dĕcŏris, rĕgĕre, ĕquĭtis; notwithstanding they remain short as before.

For these seeming inconsistencies we can only answer by saying, we know not how the Romans sounded these vowels under like circumstances; and as we probably never shall know, it seems most rational to give vowels in Latin the same sound we should give them in our own language when similarly situated. If we take, then, the analogy of the English for our guide, the way is plain, and leads, perhaps, to a result as satisfactory as could be obtained by a more intricate process.

* This illustrates a pretty general rule, with respect to the sound of vowels, viz. that in words of two syllables, the first, being always accented, has the long sound before a single consonant; whereas in trisyllables, when the first is accented, it is generally pronounced with the short sound; as, Cæsar, Castris.

Rules for the Accent.

I. In all words of two syllables, the first is accented, without regard to quantity; as, hómo, béllum, érat.

II. In words of more than two syllables, if the penult be long in quantity, it is accented; if short, the antepenult is accented; as, radĭcis, amĭcus; témpŏris, cónsŭlis.

Obs. In prose, when the penult is common, the antepenult receives the accent; but in poetry it is placed where the verse requires it.

Rules for the Sound of the Vowel.

I. Every vowel has either the long or the short sound which it has in English, except a in the end of a word of more than one syllable; where it is sounded broad, like ah in Ramah; as, fama, penna.

The diphthongs æ & œ, ending a syllable with the accent on it, are pronounced like the long English e; as, Cæsar, Œta, as if written Ceesar, Eta; and like short e, when they are followed by a consonant in the same syllable; as, Dædălus, Œdĭpus, as if written Deddălus, Eddĭpus.

II. In monosyllables, when the vowel is the final letter, it has the long sound; as, da, me, si, do, tu; but otherwise the short sound; as, ac, sed, in, ob, huc.

Obs. All terminations in es, and plural cases in os, both in monosyllables and polysyllables, are in England and in this country usually pronounced long; as, es, pes, homĭnes; nos, hos, popŭlos.

III. If the penult be accented, its vowel before another vowel, or a single consonant, is long in its sound; but before two consonants or the double consonant x, it has the short sound; as, māter, fīdes, pietātis; which are long: tandem, longus, mundus, respondens, buxus; which have the short sound.

IV. If the antepenult be accented, its vowel has the short sound; as, ātăvis, ēdīte, régĭbus, temporĭbus.

Exc. 1. When u comes before a single consonant, and when any accented vowel comes before another vowel, it has the long sound; as, júdĭces, consúlĭbus; océănus, paríĕtes, mulíĕres.

Exc. 2. When the vowel of the penult is e or i before another vowel, the antepenultimate vowel, except i, has the long sound; as, dóceo, aggrédior, palátium.

V. An accented vowel before a mute and a liquid has usually the long sound; as, sácra, muliébrĭbus, pátria.

OF

LATIN GRAMMAR.

GRAMMAR is the art of speaking and writing correctly.

Latin Grammar is the art of speaking and writing the Latin language correctly.

The Rudiments of Grammar are plain and easy instructions, teaching beginners the first principles and rules of it.

Grammar treats of sentences, and the several parts of which they are compounded.

Sentences consist of words; words consist of one or more syllables; syllables of one or more letters. So that Letters, Syllables, Words, and Sentences, make up the whole subject of Grammar.

LETTERS.

A letter is the mark of a sound, or of an articulation of sound.

That part of Grammar, which treats of letters, is called Orthography.

The letters in Latin are twenty-five: A, a; B, b; C, c; D, d; E, e; F, f; G, g; H, h; I, i; J, j; K, k; L, l; M, m; N, n; O, o; P, p; Q, q; R, r; S, s; T, t; U, u; V, v; X, x; Y, y; Z, z.*

Letters are divided into Vowels and Consonants.

Six are vowels; a, e, i, o, u, y. All the rest are consonants.

* In English there is one letter more, viz. W.

A vowel makes a full sound by itself; as, a, e.

A consonant cannot make a perfect sound without a vowel; as, b, d.

A vowel is properly called a simple sound; and the sounds formed by the concourse of vowels and consonants, articulate sounds.

Consonants are divided into Mutes, Semi-vowels, and Double Consonants.

A mute is so called, because it entirely stops the passage of the voice; as, p in ap.

The mutes are, p, b; t, d; c, k, q, and g; but b, d, and g, perhaps may more properly be termed Semi-mutes; because their sounds may be continued, whereas the sound of p, t, and k, cannot be prolonged.

A semi-vowel, or half vowel, does not entirely stop the passage of the voice; thus, al.

The semi-vowels are l, m, n, r, s, f. The first four of these are called Liquids, particularly l and r; because they flow softly and easily after a mute in the same syllable; as, bla, stra.

The mutes and semi-vowels may be thus distinguished. In naming the mutes, the vowel is put after them; as, pe, be, &c. but in naming the semi-vowels, the vowel is put before them; as, el, em, &c.

The double consonants are, x, z, and, according to some grammarians, j. X is made up of cs, ks, or gs.

c, before a, o, u, is sounded hard like k: before e, i, y, æ, œ, soft like s.

g, before a, o, u, is sounded hard, as in the English words gave, gone; before e, i, and y, or another g followed by e, soft like j; as in gemma, gigno, agger.

In Latin, z, and likewise k and y, are found only in words derived from the Greek.

ch have the power of k.

h, by some, is not accounted a letter, but only a breathing.

ti, before a vowel, and unaccented, have the sound of si or ci; as in ratio, *prudentia.

Except in Greek words; as, asphaltion; and when preceded by s or x, as, istius, mixtio; or in the beginning of words, as, tiāra; or in infinitives formed by paragoge, as flectier, mittier.

* Pronounced ra-she-o, pru-den-she-a.

DIPHTHONGS.

A diphthong is two vowels joined in one sound.

If the sound of both vowels be distinctly heard, it is called a Proper Diphthong; if not, an Improper Diphthong.

The proper diphthongs in Latin are commonly reckoned three; au, eu, ei; as in aurum, Eurus, omneis. To these some, not improperly, add other three; namely, ai, as in Maia; oi, as in Troia; and ui, as in Harpuia, or in cui, and huic, pronounced as monosyllables.

The improper diphthongs in Latin are two; ae, or when the vowels are written together, æ; as, aetas, or ætas; oe, or œ; as, poena, or pœna; in both of which the sound of the e only is heard. The ancients commonly wrote the vowels separately; thus, aetas, poena.

SYLLABLES.

A syllable is the sound of one letter, or of several letters, pronounced by one impulse of the voice; as, a, ad, hunc.

In Latin there are as many syllables in a word, as there are vowels or diphthongs in it; unless when u with any other vowel comes after g, q, or s; as in lingua, qui, suadeo; where the two vowels are not reckoned a diphthong, because the sound of the u vanishes, or is little heard.

Words consisting of one syllable are called Monosyllables; of two, Dissyllables; and of more than two, Polysyllables. But all words of more than one syllable are commonly called Polysyllables.

In dividing words into syllables, we are chiefly to be directed by the ear. Compound words should be divided into the parts of which they are made up; as, ăb-ūtor, ĭn-ops, propĕr-ea, et-ĕnim, vel-ut, &c.

Observe, a long syllable is marked with a horizontal line, [–]; as in amāre; or with a circumflex accent, [^]; as in amâris. A short syllable is marked with a curved line, [⏑]; as in omnĭbŭs.

What pertains to the quantity of syllables and to verse will be treated of hereafter.

WORDS.

Words are articulate sounds, significant of thought.

That part of Grammar which treats of words is called Etymology, or Analogy.*

All words whatever are either simple or compound, primitive or derivative.

The division of words into simple and compound is called their Figure; into primitive and derivative, their Species, or sort.

A simple word is that which is not made up of more than one; as, pius, pious; ĕgo, I; dŏceo, I teach.

A compound word is that which is made up of two or more words; or of one word and some syllable added; as, impius, impious; dēdŏceo, I unteach; ĕgŏmet, I myself.

A primitive word is that which comes from no other; as, pius, pious; disco, I learn; dŏceo, I teach.

A derivative word is that which comes from another word; as, piĕtas, piety; doctrīna, learning.

The different classes into which we divide words are called Parts of Speech.

PARTS OF SPEECH.

The parts of speech in Latin are eight; viz.

1. Noun, Pronoun, Verb, Participle; declined:

2. Adverb, Preposition, Interjection, and Conjunction; undeclined.†

* All words may be divided into three kinds; namely, 1. such as mark the names of things; 2. such as denote what is affirmed concerning things; and 3. such as are significant only in conjunction with other words; or what are called Substantives, Attributives, and Connectives. Thus in the following sentence, "The diligent boy reads the lesson carefully in the school, and at home," the words boy, lesson, school, home, are the names we give to the things spoken of; diligent, reads, carefully, express what is affirmed concerning the boy; the, in, and, at, are only significant when joined with the other words of the sentence.

† Those words or parts of speech are said to be declined, which receive different changes, particularly on the end, which is called the Termination of words

NOUN.

A noun is either substantive or adjective.*

SUBSTANTIVE.

A Substantive, or noun, is the name of any person, place, or thing; as, boy, school, book.

Substantives are of two sorts; proper and common names.

Proper names are the names appropriated to individuals; as the names of persons and places; such are Cæsar, Rome.

Common names stand for whole kinds, containing several sorts; or for sorts, containing many individuals under them; as, animal, man, beast, fish, fowl, &c.

Every particular being should have its own proper name; but this is impossible, on account of their innumerable multitude; men have therefore been obliged to give the same common name to such things as agree together in certain respects. These form what is called a genus, or kind; a species, or sort.

A proper name may be used for a common, and then in English it has the article joined to it; as, when we say of some great conqueror, "He is an Alexander;" or, "the Alexander of his age."

To proper and common names may be added a third class of nouns, which mark the names of qualities, and are called abstract nouns; as, hardness, goodness, whiteness, virtue, justice, piety, &c.

When we speak of things, we consider them as one or more. This is what we call Number. When one thing is spoken of, a noun is said to be of the singular number; when two or more, of the plural.

The changes made upon words are by grammarians called Accidents. Of old, all words, which admit of different terminations, were said to be declined. But Declension is now applied only to nouns. The changes made upon the verb are called Conjugation.

* The adjective seems to be improperly called noun: it is only a word added to a substantive or noun, expressive of its quality; and therefore should be considered as a different part of speech. But as the substantive and adjective together express but one object, and in Latin are declined after the same manner, they have both been comprehended under the same general name.

LATIN NOUNS.

A Latin noun is declined by Genders, Cases, and Numbers.

There are three genders; Masculine, Feminine, and Neuter.

The cases are six; Nominative, Genitive, Dative, Accusative, Vocative, and Ablative.*

There are two numbers; Singular and Plural.

There are five different ways of varying or declining nouns, called the first, second, third, fourth, and fifth declensions.

The different declensions may be distinguished from one another by the termination of the genitive singular. The first declension has æ diphthong; the second has i; the third has is; the fourth has ûs; and the fifth has ëi, in the genitive.

Although Latin nouns be said to have six cases, yet none of them have that number of different terminations, both in the singular and plural.

GENERAL RULES OF DECLENSION.

1. Nouns of the neuter gender have the Accusative and Vocative like the Nominative, in both numbers; and these cases in the plural end always in a.

2. The Dative and Ablative plural end always alike.

3. The Vocative, for the most part in the singular, and always in the plural, is the same with the Nominative.†

---

* Various methods are used, in different languages, to express the different connexions or relations of one thing to another. In the English, and in most modern languages, this is done by prepositions, or particles placed before the substantive; in Latin by declension, or by different cases; that is, by changing the termination of the noun; as, rex, a king, or the king; rēgis, of a king, or of the king.

Cases are certain changes made upon the termination of nouns, to express the relation of one thing to another.

They are so called, from cădo, to fall; because they fall, as it were, from the nominative; which is therefore named cāsus rectus, the straight case; and the other cases, cāsus oblīqui, the oblique cases.

† Greek nouns in s generally lose s in the Vocative; as, Thomas, Thoma; Anchises, Anchise; Păris, Pari; Panthus, Panthu; Pallas, -antis, Palla, names of men. But nouns in es of the third declension oftener retain the s; as, ô Achilles, rarely -e; O Socrătes, seldom -e; and sometimes nouns in is and as; as, O Thais, Mysis, Pallas, -ădis, the goddess Minerva, &c.

4. Proper names for the most part want the plural:
Unless several of the same name be spoken of; as, duŏdĕcim Cæsăres, the twelve Cæsars.

The cases of Latin nouns are thus expressed in English;
1. With the indefinite article, a.

GENDER.

Things considered according to their kinds are either male, or female, or neither of the two; and on this distinction of the sexes did gender originally depend. Males were said to be of the masculine gender; females of the feminine gender; and all other things of neuter gender; or, as the word implies, of neither gender.

But in Latin, although males are masculine, and females feminine, there are many nouns having no sex, which are said to be of different genders, chiefly from being joined with an adjective of one termination and not of another. Thus penna, a pen, is said to be feminine, because it is always joined with an adjective of that termination which is applied to females; as, bŏna penna, a good pen, and not bŏnus penna. The gender of these nouns depends on their termination and different declension.

The gender, as depending on the sex, has been called natural gender; on termination and declension, grammatical gender.

Grammarians distinguish the genders by the pronoun hic, to mark the masculine; hæc, the feminine; and hoc, the neuter.

Nouns which are used to signify either the male or the female are said to be of the common gender; that is, are either masculine or feminine, according to the sense. Such nouns as are not found uniformly of the same grammatical gender, but sometimes of one gender and sometimes of another, are said to be of the doubtful gender.

The common gender differs from the doubtful in this, that, as the signification of the noun includes the two sexes, it is always put in the masculine when applied to a male, and in the feminine when applied to a female; as, hic conjux, a husband; hæc conjux, a wife; and is confined to the masculine and feminine gender. Whereas a noun of the doubtful gender, being so only by usage, and not in sense, may be either masculine or feminine; as, hic finis, or hæc finis; feminine or neuter; as, hæc Præneste, or hoc Præneste; or may be either masculine, feminine, or neuter; as, penus, pecus, and others.

General Rules concerning Gender.

1. Names of males are masculine; as, Hŏmērus, Homer; păter, a father; poēta, a poet.

2. Names of females are feminine; as, Hĕlĕna, Helen; mŭlier, a woman; uxor, a wife; māter, a mother; sŏror, a sister; Tellus, the goddess of the earth.

3. Nouns which signify either the male or female, are of the common gender; that is, with reference to the sex, either masculine or feminine; as, hic bos, an ox; hæc bos, a cow; hic părens, a father; hæc părens, a mother.*

4. Nouns which are sometimes found in one gender and sometimes in another, without reference to the sense, are of the doubtful gender; as, dies, a day, either masculine or feminine; vulgus, the rabble, either masculine or neuter

* The following list comprehends most nouns of the common gender.

Adŏlescens, Jŭvĕnis, } a young man or woman.
Affĭnis, a relation by marriage.
Auctor, an author.
Augur, a soothsayer.
Cănis, a dog or bitch.
Cĭvis, a citizen
Cliens, a client.
Cŏmes, a companion.
Conjux, a husband or wife.
Convīva, a guest.
Dux, a leader.

Infans, an infant.
Interpres, an interpreter.

OBSERVATIONS.

Obs. 1. The names of brute animals commonly follow the gender of their termination.

Such are the names of wild beasts, birds, fishes, and insects, in which the distinction of sex is either not easily discerned, or seldom attended to. Thus, passer, a sparrow, either male or female, is masculine, because nouns in er are masculine; so ăquĭla, an eagle, either male or female, is feminine, because nouns in a of the first declension are feminine. These are called epicene, or promiscuous nouns. When any particular sex is marked, we usually add the word mas or fœmĭna; as, mas passer, a male sparrow; fœmĭna passer, a female sparrow.

Obs. 2. A proper name, for the most part, follows the gender of the general name under which it is comprehended.

Thus, the names of months, winds, rivers, and mountains, are masculine; because mensis, ventus, mons, and fluvius, are masculine; as, hic Aprĭlis, April; hic Aquĭlo, the north wind; hic Africus, the south-west wind; hic Tĭbĕris, the river Tiber; hic Othrys, a hill in Thessaly. But many of these follow the gender of their termination; as, hæc Matrŏna, the river Marne in France; hæc Ætna, a mountain in Sicily; hoc Sōracte, a hill in Italy.

Sacerdos, a priest or priestess. Sus, a swine. Vātes, a prophet.
Testis, a witness. Vindex, *an avenger.

But antistes, cliens, and hospes, also change their termination to express the feminine; thus, antistĭta, clienta, hospĭta: in the same manner with leo, a lion; leæna, a lioness; ĕquus, ĕqua; mūlus, mūla; and many others.

There are several nouns, which, though applicable to both sexes, admit only a masculine adjective; as, advĕna, a stranger; agrĭcŏla, a husbandman; assecla, an attendant; accŏla, a neighbour; exul, an exile; latro, a robber; fur, a thief; ŏpĭfex, a mechanic; &c. There are others, which, though applied to persons, are, on account of their termination, always neuter; as, scortum, a courtezan; mancĭpium, servĭtium, a slave, &c.

In like manner, ŏpĕræ, slaves, or day labourers; vigĭliæ, excŭbiæ, watches; noxæ, guilty persons; though applied to men, are always feminine.

* Conjux, atque părens, infans, patruelis, et hæres,
Affinis, vindex, judex, dux, miles, et hostis,
Augur, et antistes, juvenis, conviva, sacerdos,
*Muni*queceps, vates, adolescens, civis, et auctor,
Custos, nemo, comes, testis, sus, *bos*que, *canis*que,
*Interpres*que, cliens, princeps, præs, martyr, et obses.

In like manner, the names of countries, towns, trees, and ships, are feminine, because terra or rĕgio, urbs, arbor, and nāvis, are feminine; as, hæc Egyptus, Egypt; Sāmos, an island of that name; Cŏrinthus, the city Corinth; pōmus, an apple-tree; Centaurus, the name of a ship. Thus also the names of poems, hæc Ilias -ădos, and Odyssēa, the two poems of Homer; hæc Ænēis, -ĭdos, a poem of Virgil; hæc Eunūchus, one of Terence's comedies.

The gender, however, of many of these depends on the termination; thus, hic Pontus, a country of that name; hic Sulmo, -ōnis; Pessĭnus, -untis; Hydrus, -untis, names of towns; hæc Persis, -ĭdis, the kingdom of Persia; Carthāgo, -ĭnis, the city Carthage; hoc Albion, Britain: hoc Cære, Reāte, Prænestе, Tĭbur, Ilium, names of towns. But some of these are also found in the feminine; as, Gelidâ Prænestе. Juvenal. iii. 190; Alta Ilion. Ovid. Met. xiv. 466.

The following names of trees are masculine, ŏleaster, ŏleastri, a wild olive-tree; rhamnus, the white bramble.

The following are masculine or feminine; cȳtĭsus, a kind of shrub; rŭbus, the bramble-bush; larix, the larch-tree; lōtus, the lote-tree; cupressus, the cypress-tree. The first two, however, are oftener masculine; the rest oftener feminine.

Those in um are neuter; as buxum, the bush, or box-tree; lĭgustrum, a privet; so likewise are sŭber, -ĕris, the cork-tree; sălix, -ĭcis, the osier; rōbur, -ŏris, oak of the hardest kind; ăcer, -ĕris, the maple tree.

The place where trees or shrubs grow is commonly neuter; as, arbustum, quercētum, escŭlētum, sălictum, frŭtĭcētum, &c. a place where trees, oaks, beeches, willows, shrubs, &c. grow; also the names of fruits and timber; as, pōmum or mālum, an apple; pĭrum, a pear; ĕbĕnum, ebony, &c. But from this rule there are various exceptions.

EXCEPTIONS.

Exc. 1. The following nouns are masculine: Hadria, the Hadriatic sea; cŏmēta, a comet; planēta, a planet; and sometimes, talpa, a mole; and dāma, a fallow-deer. Pascha, the passover, is neuter.

Exc. 2. The ancient Latins sometimes formed the genitive singular in āi; thus, aula, a hall, gen. aulāi: and sometimes likewise in as, which form the compounds of fămĭlia usually retain; as māter-fămĭlias, the mistress of a family; genit. matris-familias; nom. plur. matres-familias, or matres-familiārum.

Exc. 3. The following nouns have more frequently ābus in the dative and ablative plural, to distinguish them in these cases from masculines in us, of the second declension:

Anĭma, the soul, the life.	Fīlia, & Nāta, a daughter.
Dea, a goddess.	Lĭberta, a freed woman.
Famŭla, a female servant.

Thus, deābus, filiābus, rather than filiis, &c.

GREEK NOUNS.

Nouns in AS, ES, and E, of the first declension, are Greek. Nouns in AS and ES are masculine; nouns in E are feminine.

Nouns in as are declined like penna; only they have am or an in the accusative; as, Ænēas, Æneas, the name of a man; gen. Ænēæ, dat. -æ, acc. -am or -an, voc. -a, abl. -â. So Bŏreas, -æ, the north wind; tiāras, -æ, a turban. In prose they have commonly am, but in poetry oftener an, in the accusative. Greek nouns in a have sometimes also an in the acc. in poetry; as Ossa, acc. -am or -an, the name of a mountain.

Nouns in es and e are thus declined:

Anchīses, Anchises, the name of a man.

Singular.

Nom. Anchīsēs,	Acc. Anchīsen,
Gen. Anchīsæ,	Voc. Anchīse, or -a,
Dat. Anchīsæ,	Abl. Anchīse, or -â.

Pēnĕlŏpe, Penelope, the name of a woman.

Singular.

Nom. Pēnĕlŏpe,	Acc. Penelŏpen,
Gen. Penelŏpes,	Voc. Penelŏpe,
Dat. Penelŏpe,	Abl. Penelŏpe.

These nouns, being proper names, want the plural, unless when several of the same name are spoken of, and then they are declined like the plural of penna.*

The Latins frequently turn Greek nouns in es and e into a; as, Atrĭda, for Atrīdes; Persa, for Perses, a Persian; geometra, for -trēs, a geometrician; Circa, for Circe; epitŏma, for -me, an abridgment; grammătĭca, for -ce, grammar; rhētŏrĭca, for -ce, oratory. So Clinia, for Clinias, &c.

SECOND DECLENSION.

Nouns of the second declension end in er, ir, ur, us, um; os, on. (os and on are Greek terminations.)

Nouns in um and on are neuter; the rest are masculine.

TERMINATIONS.

Abl. genĕris, with, from,	or by	sons-in-law.

* The accusative of nouns in es and e is found sometimes in em. We sometimes find the genit. plural contracted; as, Cælicŏlum, for Cælicolārum; Æneădum, for -ārum.

After the same manner decline, sŏcer, -ĕri, a father-in-law; puer, -ĕri, a boy: So furcĭfer, a villain; Lucĭfer, the morning star; ădulter, an adulterer; armĭger, an armour-bearer; presbўter, an elder; Mulcĭber, a name of the god Vulcan; vesper, the evening; and Iber, -ēri, a Spaniard, the only noun in er which has the gen. long, and its compound Celtĭber, -ēri: Also, vir, vĭri, a man, the only noun in ir; and its compounds, lĕvir, a brother-in-law; semĭvir, duumvir, triumvir, &c. And likewise sătur, -ŭri, full, (of old, satŭrus) an adjective.

But most nouns in er lose the e in the genitive; as,

In like manner feminines in ys, ȳdos, have ȳdem or ȳda, not ym or yn in the accusative, as, chlămys, -ȳdem or ȳda, not chlamyn, a soldier's cloak.

4. But all Greek nouns in is or ys, whether masculine or feminine, having is or os pure in the genitive, form the accusative by changing s of the nominative into m or n; as, metamorphōsis, -eos, or -ios, metamorphōsim or -in, a change. Tēthys, -yos or -yis, Tethym or -yn; the name of a goddess.

5. Nouns ending in the diphthong eus, have the accusative in ea; as, Thēseus, Thesea; Tydeus, Tydea.

Nouns which have em or im in the accusative, make their ablative in e or i; as, turris, turre, or turri; but restis, a rope, and cŭtis, the skin, have e only.*

So names of months, Aprīlis, -i; Dēcember, -bri, &c. ---

* Several nouns which have only em in the accusative, have e or i in the ablative; as, fīnis, supellex, vectis, pŭgil, a champion; mūgil or mugĭlis; so rus, occĭput: Also names of towns, when the question is made by ubi; as, habĭtat Carthagĭne or Carthagĭni, he lives at Carthage. Duo and tres are thus declined:

	Plural.				Plural.
N.	duo,	duæ,	duo,	N. tres,		tria,
G.	duōrum,	duārum,	duōrum,	G.	trium,
D.	duōbus,	duābus,	duōbus,	D.	tribus,
A.	duos or duo,	duas,	duo,	A. tres,		tria,
V.	duo,	duæ,	duo,	V. tres,		tria,
A.	duōbus,	duābus,	duōbus.	A.	tribus.

In the same manner with duo, decline ambo, both.

All the cardinal numbers from quatuor to centum, including them both, are indeclinable; and from centum to mille, are declined like the plural of bonus; thus, ducenti, -tæ, -ta; ducentōrum, -tārum, -tōrum, &c.

Mille is used either as a substantive or adjective; when taken substantively it is indeclinable in the singular number, and in the plural has millia, millium, millĭbus, &c.

Mille, an adjective, is commonly indeclinable, and, to express more than one thousand, has the numeral adverbs joined with it; thus, mille homĭnes, a thousand men; mille homĭnum, of a thousand men, &c. Bis mille homĭnes, two thousand men; ter mille homĭnes, &c. But with mille, a substantive, we say, mille homĭnum, a thousand men; duo millia homĭnum, tria millia, quatuor millia, centum or centēna millia homĭnum; decies centēna millia, a million; vicies centēna millia, two millions, &c.

2. The Ordinal numbers are, prīmus, first; sĕcundus, second, &c.; declined like bonus.

3. The Distributive are, singŭli, one by one; bīni, two by two, or by twos, &c.; declined like the plural of bonus.

4. The Multiplicative numbers are simplex, simple; duplex, double, or two-fold; triplex, triple, or three-fold; quadruplex, four-fold, &c.; all of them declined like felix; thus, simplex, -ĭcis, &c.

The interrogative words to which these numerals answer, are quot, quŏtus, quŏtēni, quŏties, and quŏtuplex.

Quot, how many? is indeclinable: So tot, so many; tŏtidem, just so many; quotquŏt, quotcunque, how many soever; aliquot, some.

The following Table contains a list of the Ordinal and Distributive Numbers, together with the Numeral Adverbs, which are often joined with the Numeral Adjectives.

Pulvis, and cinis, are sometimes feminine. Semis is also sometimes neuter, and then it is indeclinable. Pubis and impūbis are properly adjectives; thus, Puberĭbuscaulem foliis, a stalk with downy leaves. Virg. Æn. xii. 413. Impūbe corpus, the body of a boy not having yet got the down (pubes, -is, f.) of youth. Horat. Epod. 5. 13. Exsanguis, bloodless, an adjective, has exsanguis in the genitive.

Custos, -ōdis, a keeper; also fem.
Mīnos, -ōis, a king of Crete.
Tros, Trōis, a Trojan.
Bos, bŏvis, m. or f an ox or cow.

Exc. 3. Os, ossis, a bone; and ōs, ōris, the mouth, are neuter.

Exc. 4. Some Greek nouns have ōis, as heros, -ōis, a hero, or great man: So Mīnos, a king of Crete; Tros, a Trojan; thos, a kind of wolf.

US.

11. Nouns in us are neuter, and have their genitive in ŏris; as, pectus, pectŏris, the breast; tempus, tempŏris, time. So,

Corpus, a body.
Dēdĕcus, disgrace.
Făcĭnus, a great action.

Exc. 1. The following neuters have ĕris:

Vulnus, a wound.

Thus acĕris, funĕris, &c. Glŏmus, a clew, is sometimes masculine, and has glomi, of the second declension. Vĕnus, the goddess of love, and vĕtus, old, an adjective, likewise have ĕris.

Exc. 2. The following nouns are feminine, and form the genitive variously:

Incus, -ūdis, an anvil.

Intercus, -ūtis, an hydropsy.

Intercus is properly an adjective, having aqua understood.

Exc. 3. Monosyllables of the neuter gender have ŭris in the genitive; as,

Crus, crūris, the leg.
Jus, jūris, law or right; also broth.
Pus, pūris, the corrupt matter of any sore.
Rus, rūris, the country.
Thus, thūris, frankincense.

Œdĭpus, the name of a man, has Œdipŏdis; sometimes it is of the second declension, and has Œdĭpi. The compounds of pus have ŏdis; as, tripus, masc. a tripod, tripŏdis; but lāgŏpus, -ŏdis, a kind of bird, or, the herb hare's foot, is fem. Names of cities have untis; as, Trapēzus, Trapezuntis; Opus, Opuntis; Hierĭchus, -untis, Jericho.

YS.

12. Nouns in ys are all borrowed from the Greek, and are for the most part feminine. In the genitive they have sometimes yis, or yos; as,

Hæc chĕlys, chelyis, or -yos, a harp; Cāpys, Capyis, or -yos, the name of a man; sometimes they have ўdis, or ўdos; as, hæc chlāmys, chlamўdis, or chlamўdos, a soldier's cloak; and sometimes ўnis or ўnos; as, Trāchys, Trachўnis, or Trachўnos, the name of a town.

ÆS, AUS, EUS.

13. The nouns ending in æs, and aus, are,

Fraus, fraudis, f. fraud.	Præs, prædis, m. or f. a surety.

Substantives ending in the syllable eus are all proper names, and have the genitive in eos; as, Orpheus, Orpheos; Tereus, Tereos. But these nouns are also found in the second declension, where eus is divided into two syllables: thus, Orphĕus, genit. Orphĕi, or sometimes contracted Orphei, and that into Orphī.

S with a consonant before it.

14. Nouns ending in s with a consonant before it, are feminine; and form the genitive by changing the s into is or tis; as,

Trabs, trăbis, a beam; scobs, scōbis, saw-dust; hiems, hiĕmis, winter; gens, gentis, a nation; stips, stĭpis, alms; pars, partis, a part; sors, sortis, a lot; mors, -tis, death.

Adeps, adĭpis, fatness.	Serpens, -tis, a serpent.
Rŭdens, -tis, a cable.	Stirps, stirpis, the root of a tree.
Scrobs, scrōbis, a ditch.	Stirps, an offspring, always fem.

Animans, a living creature, is found in all the genders, but most frequently in the feminine or neuter.

Exc. 3. Polysyllables in eps change e into i; as, hæc forceps, forcĭ-

2. The following want the comparative.

			Nūpĕrus, nuperrĭmus, late.
			Săcer, sacerrĭmus, sacred.

3. The following want the superlative:

Adŏlescens, adolescentior, young.	Opīmus, opimior, rich.
	Prōnus, pronior, inclined downwards.

To supply the superlative of jŭvĕnis, or ădŏlescens, we say minĭmus natu, the youngest; and of senex, maxĭmus natu, the oldest.

Most adjectives in ĭlis, ālis, and bĭlis, also want the superlative; as, cīvĭlis, civilior, civil; rēgālis, regalior, regal; flēbĭlis, -ior, lamentable. So, juvenilis, youthful; exĭlis, small, &c.

To these add several others of different terminations. Thus arcānus, -ior, secret; declīvis, -ior, bending downwards; longinquus, -ior, far off; prŏpinquus, -ior, near.

Antĕrior, former; dēquior, worse; sŏlior, better. are only found in the comparative.

4. Many adjectives are not compared at all; such are those compounded with nouns or verbs; as, versĭcŏlor, of divers colours; pestĭfer, poisonous: also adjectives in us pure, in īvus, īnus, orus, or ĭmus, and diminutives; as, dŭbius, doubtful; vācuus, empty; fŭgātīvus, that flieth away; indŭtīnus, early; cānōrus, shrill; lēgĭtĭmus, lawful; tĕnellus, somewhat tender; majuscŭlus, &c.; together with a great many others of various terminations; as, almus, gracious; præcox, -ŏcis, soon or early ripe; mītrus, ĕgēnus, lăcer, mĕmor, sospes, &c.

This defect of comparison is supplied by putting the adverb magis before the adjective, for the comparative degree; and valde or maxĭme for the superlative; thus, egēnus, needy, magis egēnus, more needy; valde or maxĭme egēnus, very, or most needy. Which form of comparison is also used in those adjectives which are regularly compared.

PRONOUN.

A Pronoun is a word which stands *instead of a noun.

The simple pronouns in Latin are eighteen; ĕgo, tu, sui;

* Thus, I stands for the name of the person who speaks; thou, for the name of the person addressed.

Pronouns serve to point out objects, whose names we either do not know, or do not want to mention. They also serve to shorten discourse, and prevent the too frequent repetition of the same word; thus, instead of saying, When Cæsar had conquered Gaul, Cæsar turned Cæsar's arms against Cæsar's country, we say, When Cæsar had conquered Gaul, he turned his arms against his country.

Apex, the tuft or tassel on the top of a priest's cap, the cap itself, the top of any thing.
Caudex, the trunk of a tree.
Cīmex, a bug.

Vortex, a whirlpool.

Vervex, a wether sheep, has vervēcis; fœnīsex, a mower of hay, fœnīcis; rēsex, m. -ĕcis, a vine branch cut off.

To these masculines add,

Cĭlix, -ĭcis, a cup.
Călyx, -ўcis, the bud of a flower.
Coccyx, -ўgis, or ўcis, a cuckoo.
Fornix, -ĭcis, a vault.
Oryx, -ўgis, a wild goat.
Phœnix, -ĭcis, a bird so called.
Trādux, -ūcis, a graff or offset of a vine; also fem.

But the following polysyllables in ax and ex are feminine:

Climax, -ăcis, a ladder.
Forfex, -ĭcis, a pair of scissors.
Hălex, -ēcis, a herring.

Sūpellex, supellectĭlis, household furniture.

Exc. 2. A great many nouns in x are either masculine or feminine as,

Rūmex, -ĭcis, sorrel, an herb.
Sandix, -ĭcis, a purple colour.
Vārix, -ĭcis, a swollen vein.

Exc. 3. The following nouns depart from the general rule in forming the genitive:

Aquĭfex, -ĕgis, a well-maker.
Conjunx, or -ux, -ŭgis, a husband or wife.
Frux (not used), frūgis, f. corn.
Grex, grĕgis, m. or f. a flock.
Lex, lēgis, f. a law.
Phălanx, -angis, f. a phalanx
Rēmex, -ĭgis, a rower.
Rex, rēgis, a king.
Nix, nĭvis, f. snow.
Sĕnex, sĕnis, & -ĭcis, (an adj.) old.

Exc. 4. Greek nouns in x, both with respect to gender and manner of declension, are as various as Latin nouns; thus, bŏmbyx, bombўcis, a silk-worm, masc. but when it signifies silk, or the yarn spun by the worm, it is feminine; ŏnyx, masc. or fem. onўchis, a precious stone; and so sardŏnyx; lărynx, laryngis, fem. the top of the wind-pipe; Phryx, Phrўgis, a Phrygian; sphinx, -ngis, a fabulous hag; strix, -ĭgis, f. a screech-owl; Styx, -ўgis, f. a river in hell; Hўlax, -ctis, the name of a dog; Bibrax, Bibractis, the name of a town, &c.

The dative singular anciently ended also in e; as, Esuriente leōne ex ore exculpĕre prædam, To pull the prey out of the mouth of a hungry lion. Lucil. Hæret pede pes, Foot sticks to foot. Virg. Æn. x. 361. for esurienti and pedi.

Ipse is often joined to ego, tu, sui; and has in Latin the same force with self in English, when joined with a possessive pronoun; as ego ipse, I myself.

* In those cases where the word is not repeated, it is the same in all genders, both in the pronouns and adjectives.

EXCEPTIONS IN THE ABLATIVE SINGULAR.

Exc. 1. Neuters in e, al, and ar, have i in the ablative; as, sēdīle, sedīli; anĭmal, animāli; calcar, calcāri. Except proper names; as, Præneste, abl. Præneste, the name of a town; and the following neuters in ar:

Far, farre, corn.	Nectar, -āre, drink of the gods.
Hĕpar, -ăte, the liver.	Par, păre, a match, a pair.
Jūbar, -āre, a sun beam.	Sal, săle, or -i, m. or n. salt.

Exc. 2. Nouns which have im or in in the accusative, have i in the ablative; as, vis, vim, vi; but cannăbis, Bætis, and Tigris, have e or i.

Nouns which have em or im in the accusative, make their ablative in e or i; as, turris, turre, or turri; but restis, a rope, and cŭtis, the skin, have e only.*

Exc. 3. Adjectives used as substantives have commonly the same ablative with the adjectives; as, bĭpennis, -i, a halbert; mŏlāris, -i, a millstone; quadrĭrēmis, -i, a ship with four banks of oars. So names of months, Aprīlis, -i; Dēcember, -bri, &c. But rūdis, f. a rod given to gladiators when discharged; jŭvĕnis, a young man, have e only; and likewise nouns ending in il, x, ceps, or ns; as,

Infans, an infant.	Sĕnex, an old man.	Vigil, a watchman.

Exc. 4. Nouns in ys, which have ym in the accusative, make their ablative in ye, or y; as, Atys, Atye, or Aty, the name of a man.

NOMINATIVE PLURAL.

1. The nominative plural ends in es, when the noun is either masculine or feminine; as, sermōnes, rupes.

Nouns in is and es have sometimes in the nominative plural also eis or is; as, puppes, puppeis, or puppis.

2. Neuters which have e in the ablative singular, have a in the nominative plural; as, capĭta, itinĕra: but those which have i in the ablative, make ia; as, sedīlia, calcāria.

* Several nouns which have only em in the accusative, have e or i in the ablative; as, fīnis, supellex, vectis, pŭgil, a champion; mūgil or mugĭlis; so rus, occĭput: Also names of towns, when the question is made by ubi; as, habĭtat Carthagĭne or Carthagĭni, he lives at Carthage. So, civis, classis, sors, imber, anguis, avis, postis, fustis, amnis, and ignis; but these have oftener e. Canālis has only i. The most ancient writers made the ablative of many other nouns in i; as, æstāti, cani, lapĭdi, ovi; &c.

2. With some other parts of speech; as, hujusmŏdi, cujusmŏdi, &c. mēcum, tēcum, sēcum, nobiscum, vobiscum, quocum, or quīcum, and quibuscum: eccum, eccam; eccos, eccas, and sometimes ecca in the nom. sing of ecce and is. So ellum, of ecce and ille.

3. With some syllable added; as, tute of tu and te, used only in the nom. egŏmet, tūtĕmet, suīmet, through all the cases, thus, meīmet, tuīmet, &c. of ego, tu, sui, and met. Instead of tumet in the nom. we say, tutĕmet: Hiccine, hæccine, &c. in all the cases that end in c; of hic and cine: Meāpte, tuāpte, suāpte, nostrāpte, vestrāpte, in the ablat. fem. and sometimes meopte, tuopte, &c. of meus, &c. and pte: hicce, hæcce, hocce; hujusce, hisce, hosce; of hic and ce: whence hujuscĕmŏdi, ejuscemŏdi, cujuscemŏdi. So, IDEM, the same, compounded of is and dem, which is thus declined:

Singular.

N.	īdem,	eădem,	ĭdem,
G.		ejusdem,
D.		eīdem,
A.	eundem,	eandem,	ĭdem,
V.	īdem,	eădem,	ĭdem,
A.	eōdem,	eâdem,	eōdem.

Plural.

N.	iīdem,	eædem,	eădem,
G.	eorundem,	earundem,	eorundem,
D.		eïsdem, or iisdem,
A.	eosdem,	easdem,	eădem,
V.	iīdem,	eædem,	eădem,
A.		eïsdem, or iisdem.

The pronouns which we find most frequently compounded, are quis and qui.

Quis in composition is sometimes the first, sometimes the last, and sometimes likewise the middle part of the word compounded; but qui is always the first.

1. The compounds of quis, in which it is put first, are quisnam, who? quispiam, quisquam, any one; quisque, every one; quisquis, whosoever; which are thus declined:

	Nom.			Gen.	Dat.
Quisnam,	quænam,	quodnam	or quidnam;	cujusnam;	cuinam;
Quispiam,	quæpiam,	quodpiam	or quidpiam;	cujuspiam;	cuipiam;
Quisquam,	quæquam,	quodquam	or quidquam;	cujusquam;	cuiquam;
Quisque,	quæque,	quodque	or quidque;	cujusque;	cuique;
Quisquis,	———	quidquid	or quicquid;	cujuscujus;	cuicui.

And so in the other cases according to the simple quis. But quisquis has not the fem. at all, and the neuter only in the nominative and accusative. Quisquam has also quicquam for quidquam; accusative, quenquam, without the feminine. The plural is scarcely used.

2. The compounds of quis, in which quis is put last, have qua in the nom. sing. fem.; and in the nominative and accusative plur. neut. as, aliquis, some; ecquis, who? of et and quis; also, nequis, siquis, numquis which for the most part are read separately; thus, ne quis, si quis, num quis. They are thus declined:

	Nom.			Gen.	Dat.
Aliquis,	aliqua,	aliquod	or aliquid;	alicujus;	alicui;
Ecquis, ecqua	or ecquæ,	ecquod	or ecquid;	eccujus;	eccui;
Si quis,	si qua,	si quod	or si quid;	si cujus;	si cui;
Ne quis,	ne qua,	ne quod	or ne quid;	ne cujus;	ne cui;
Num quis,	num qua,	num quod	or num quid;	num cujus;	num cui.

3. The compounds which have quis in the middle, are, ecquisnam, who? unusquisque, gen. uniuscujusque, every one. The former is used only in the nom. sing. and the latter wants the plural.

4. The compounds of qui are quicunque, whosoever; quīdam, some; quilibet, quivis, any one, whom you please; which are thus declined:

	Nom.		Gen.	Dat.
Quīcunque,	quæcunque,	quodcunque;	cujuscunque;	cuicunque;
Quīdam,	quædam,	quoddam or quiddam;	cujusdam;	cuidam;
Quilībet,	quælibet,	quodlibet or quidlibet;	cujuslibet;	cuilibet;
Quivis,	quævis,	quodvis or quidvis;	cujusvis;	cuivis.

Obs. 1. All these compounds have seldom or never queis, but quibus, in their dat. and abl. plur.; thus, aliquibus, &c.

Obs. 2. Quis, and its compounds, in comic writers, have sometimes quis in the feminine gender.

Obs. 3. Quidam has quendam, quandam, queddam or quiddam, in the acc. sing. and quorundam, quarundam, quorundam, in the genitive plural, s being put instead of m, for the better sound.

Obs. 4. Quod, with its compounds, aliquod, quodvis, quoddam, &c. are used, when they agree with a substantive in the same case; quid, with its compounds, aliquid, quidvis, &c. for the most part have either no substantive expressed, or govern one in the genitive. For this reason, they are by some reckoned substantives.

Obs. 5. Aliquis and Quidam may be thus distinguished; the former denotes a person or thing indeterminately; the latter, determinately.

Obs. 6. Uter refers to two, and is therefore joined to comparatives.

Obs. 7. Quis may refer to many, and is therefore joined with superlatives.

Obs. 8. Hic and Ille are often found to refer to two words going before them. Hic usually to the latter; Ille to the former.

Obs. 9. As demonstratives, Hic refers to the person nearest to me; Iste to the person nearest to you; Ille to any intermediate person.

Obs. 10. Ille denotes honour; Iste, contempt; as, ille vir; iste homo.

Obs. 11. Tuus is used when we speak to one; as, Sumne, Coriolāne, in tuis castris captiva an mater? Vester, when we speak to more than one; as, Cives, miseremini cæli vestri.

Obs. 12. Alter is in general applied to one of two; Alius to one of many.

VERB.*

A verb is a word which expresses what is affirmed of things; as, The boy reads. The sun shines. The man loves.

Or, A verb is that part of speech which signifies to be, to do, or to suffer.

Verbs, with respect to their signification, are divided into three different classes, Active, Passive, and Neuter; because we consider things either as acting, or being acted upon; or as neither acting, nor being acted upon; but simply existing, or existing in a certain state or condition, as in a state of motion or rest; &c.

1. An Active verb expresses an action, and necessarily supposes an agent, and an object acted upon; as, amāre, to love; amo te, I love thee.

2. A verb Passive expresses a passion or suffering, or the receiving of an action; and necessarily implies an object acted upon, and an agent, by which it is acted upon; as, amāri, to be loved; tu amāris a me, thou art loved by me.

3. A Neuter verb properly expresses neither action nor passion, but simply the being, state, or condition of things; as, dormio, I sleep; sedeo, I sit.

The verb is also called Transitive, when the action passes over to the object, or has an effect on some other thing; as, scribo litĕras, I write letters: but when the action is confined within the agent, and passes not over to any object, it is called Intransitive; as, ambŭlo, I walk; curro, I run; which are likewise called Neuter verbs. Many verbs in Latin and English are used both in a transitive and in an intransitive or neuter sense; as, sistĕre, to stop; incipĕre, to begin; durāre, to endure, or to harden, &c.

* It is called a Verb or Word by way of eminence, because it is the most essential word in a sentence, without which the other parts of speech can form no complete sense. Thus, the diligent boy reads his lesson with care, is a perfect sentence; but if we take away the affirmation, or the word reads, it is rendered imperfect, or rather becomes no sentence at all; thus, the diligent boy his lesson with care.

A verb therefore may be thus distinguished from any other part of speech: Whatever word expresses an affirmation, or assertion, is a verb; or thus, Whatever word, with a substantive noun or pronoun before or after it, makes full sense, is a verb; as, stones fall, I walk, walk thou. Here fall and walk are verbs, because they contain an affirmation; but when we say, a long walk, a dangerous fall, there is no affirmation expressed; and the same words walk and fall become substantives or nouns. We often find likewise in Latin the same word used as a verb, and also as some other part of speech; thus, amor, -ōris, love, a substantive; and amor, I am loved, a verb.

Verbs which simply signify being are likewise called Substantive verbs; as, esse, or existĕre, to be, or to exist. The notion of existence is implied in the signification of every verb; thus, I love, may be resolved into I am loving.

When the meaning of a verb is expressed without any affirmation, or in such a form as to be joined to a substantive noun, partaking thereby of the nature of an adjective, it is called a Participle; as, amans, loving; amātus, loved. But when it has the form of a substantive, it is called a Gerund, or a Supine; as, amandum, loving; amātum, to love; amātu, to love, or to be loved.

A verb is varied or declined by Voices, Modes, Tenses, Numbers, and Persons.

There are two voices; the Active and Passive.

The modes are four; Indicative, Subjunctive, Imperative, and Infinitive.

The tenses are five; the Present, the Preter-imperfect, the Preter-perfect, the Preter-pluperfect, and the Future.

The numbers are two; Singular and Plural.

The persons are three; First, Second, and Third.

1. Voice expresses the different circumstances in which we consider an object; whether as acting, or being acted upon. The Active voice signifies action; as, amo, I love; the Passive, suffering, or being the object of an action; as, amor, I am loved.

2. Modes or moods are the various manners of expressing the signification of the verb.

The Indicative declares or affirms positively; as, amo, I love; amābo, I shall or will love; or asks a question; as, an tu amas? dost thou love?

The Subjunctive is usually joined to some other verb, and cannot make a full meaning by itself; as, si me obsecret, redibo, if he entreat me, I will return. Ter.

The Imperative commands, exhorts, or entreats; as, ama, love thou.

The Infinitive simply expresses the signification of the verb, without limiting it to any person or number; as, amāre, to love.

3. Tenses or Times express the time when any thing is supposed to be, to act, or to suffer.

Time in general is divided into three parts, the present, past, and future.

Past time is expressed three different ways. When we speak of a thing, which was doing, but not finished at some former time, we use the Preter-imperfect, or past time not completed; as, scribēbam, I was writing.

When we speak of a thing now finished, we use the Preter-perfect, or past time completed; as, scripsi, I wrote, or have written.

When we speak of a thing finished at or before some past time, we use the Preter-pluperfect, or past time more than completed; as, scripsĕram, I had written.

Future time is expressed two different ways. A thing may be considered either as simply about to be done, or as actually finished, at some future time; as, scribam, I shall write, or, I shall [then] be writing; scripsĕro, I shall have written.

4. Number marks how many we suppose to be, to act, or to suffer.

5. Person shows to what the meaning of the verb is applied, whether to the person speaking, to the person addressed, or to some other person or thing.

Verbs have two numbers and three persons, to agree with substantive nouns and pronouns in these respects: for a verb properly hath neither numbers nor persons, but certain terminations answering to the person and number of its nominative.

A verb is properly said to be conjugated, when all its parts are properly classed, or, as it were, yoked together, according to Voice, Mode, Tense, Number, and Person.

THE DIFFERENT CONJUGATIONS.

Conjugation is the regular distribution of the various parts of verbs, according to the different voices, modes, tenses, numbers, and persons.

There are four conjugations of verbs in Latin; distinguished by the vowel preceding re of the infinitive mode.

The first conjugation makes āre long; as, Amāre.

The second conjugation makes ēre long; as, Docēre.

The third conjugation makes ĕre short; as, Legĕre.

The fourth conjugation makes īre long; as, Audīre.

Except dăre, to give, which has ă short, and also its compounds; thus Circumdăre, to surround; circumdămus, -dătis, -dăbam, -dăbo, &c.

The different conjugations are likewise distinguished from one another by the different terminations of the following tenses:

Observe. Verbs in io of the third conjugation have iunt in the third person plur. of the present indic. active, and iuntur in the passive; and so in the imperative, iunto and iuntor. In the imperfect and future of the indicative they have always the terminations of the fourth conjugation, iēbam and iam; iēbar and iar, &c.

The terminations of the other tenses are the same through all the Conjugations. Thus,

These Tenses, in the Passive Voice, are formed by the Participle Perfect, and the auxiliary verb sum, which is also used to express the Future of the Infinitive Active.

SUM is an irregular verb, and thus conjugated:

* Shall and will are always employed to express future time.

Will, in the first person singular and plural, promises or threatens; in the second and third persons, only foretells: shall, on the contrary, in the first person, simply foretells; in the second and third persons, promises, commands, or threatens. But the contrary of this holds, when we ask a question; thus, "I shall go," "you will go;" express event only; but "will you go?" imports intention; and "shall I go?" refers to the will of another.

IMPERFECT. might, could, would, or should.

PARTICIPLE.

FUTURE. Futūrus, -a, um, About to be.

Obs. 1. The personal pronouns, which in English are, for the most part, added to the verb, in Latin are commonly understood; because the several persons are sufficiently distinguished from one another by the different terminations of the verb, though the persons themselves be not expressed. The learner, however, at first may be accustomed to join them with the verb; thus, ego sum, I am; tu es, thou art, or you are; ille est, he is; nos sumus, we are; &c. So ego amo, I love; tu amas, thou lovest, or you love; ille amat, he loveth or loves; nos amāmus, we love; &c.

Obs. 2. In the second person singular in English, we commonly use the plural form, except in solemn discourse; as, tu es, thou art, or much oftener, you are; tu eras, thou wast, or you were; tu sis, thou mayest be, or you may be; &c. So, tu amas, thou lovest, or you love; tu amābas, thou lovedst, or you loved; &c.

FORMATION OF VERBS.

There are four principal parts of a verb, from which all the rest are formed; namely, O of the present, I of the perfect indicative, RE of the infinitive, and UM of the supine.* A verb is commonly said to be conjugated when only these parts are mentioned, because from them all the rest are derived.

The first person of the Present indicative is called the Theme, or the Root of the verb; because from it the other three principal parts are formed.

All the letters which come before -āre, -ēre, -ĕre, or -īre, of the infinitive, are called radical letters, because they always remain the same. By putting these before the terminations, all the parts of any regular verb may be readily formed, except the compound tenses.

* 1. From o are formed am and em.
2. From i; ram, rim, ro, sse, and ssem.
3. U, us, and rus, are formed from um.
4. All other parts from re do come.

FORMATION OF THE TENSES IN THE ACTIVE VOICE.

Indicative Mode.

The Imperfect is formed from the present by changing o, in the first conjugation, into ābam; as, am-o, -ābam; in the second, into bam; as, doc-eo, -ēbam; in the third and fourth, into ēbam; as, leg-o, -ēbam; audi-o, -ēbam.

The Pluperfect is formed from the perfect by changing i into ĕram; as, amāv-i, -ĕram; docu-i, -ĕram.

The Future is formed from the present by changing o, in the first conjugation, into ābo; as, am-o, -ābo; in the second, into bo; as, doc-eo, -ēbo; in the third and fourth into am; as, leg-o, -am; audi-o, -am.

Subjunctive Mode.

The Present is formed from the present indicative by changing o, in the first conjugation, into em; as, am-o, -em; in the second, third, and fourth, into am; as, doce-o, -am; leg-o, -am; audi-o, -am

The Imperfect is formed from the present infinitive by adding m; as, amāre, amārem.

The Perfect is formed from the perfect indicative by changing i into ĕrim; as, amāv-i, -ĕrim.

The Pluperfect is formed from the perfect indicative by changing i into issem; as, amāv-i, -issem.

The Future is formed from the perfect indicative by changing i into ĕro; as, amāv-i, -ĕro.

Imperative Mode.

The Present is formed from the present infinitive by taking away re; as, amare, ama; docēre, doce.

Infinitive Mode.

The Present is formed from the present indicative by changing o, in the first conjugation, into āre; as, am-o, -āre; in the second and fourth into re; as, doce-o, -re; audi-o, -re; in the third by changing o or io into ĕre; as, leg-o, -ĕre; cap-io, -ĕre.

The Future is formed from the supine, by changing m into rus and adding esse or fuisse; as, amatu-m, -rus, esse or fuisse amatūrus.

The Perfect is formed from the perfect indicative by changing i into isse; as, amav-i, -isse.

The Gerunds are formed from the participle present by changing s into dum, di, and do.

The Participle Present is formed from the present indicative by changing o, in the first conjugation, into ans; as, am-o,

-ans; in the second, into ns; as, doce-o, -ns; in the third and fourth, into ens; as, lego, -ens; audi-o, ens.

The Participle Future is formed from the Supine by changing m into rus; as, amatu-m, -rus.

FORMATION OF TENSES IN THE PASSIVE VOICE.

The tenses of the Indicative and Subjunctive modes are formed from those of the active that end in o, by adding r; or from those that end in m, by changing m into r; as, amo, amem; amor, amer.

The Perfect and Pluperfect Indicative, and the Perfect, Pluperfect, and Future Subjunctive, are composed of the perfect participle declined with the tenses of the verb sum.

The Imperative is the same as the infinitive active.

The Infinitive Present is formed from the active by changing e in the first, second, and fourth conjugations, into i; as, amār-e, amar-i; docēr-e, docēri; audīr-e, audīri; and in the third, ĕre, into i; as, leg-ĕre, legi.

The Infinitive Future is composed of the former supine and *iri; as, amātum iri.

The Perfect participle is formed from the former supine by changing m into s; as, amātum, amātus.

The Future Partioiple is formed from the present active by changing s into dus; as, amans, amandus.

SIGNIFICATION OF THE TENSES IN THE VARIOUS MODES.

The tenses formed from the present of the indicative or infinitive, signify in general the continuance of an action or passion, or represent them as present at some particular time: the other tenses express an action or passion completed; but not always so absolutely, as entirely to exclude the continuance of the same action or passion; thus, Amo, I love, do love, or am loving; amābam, I loved, did love, or was loving, &c.

Amāvi, I loved, did love, or have loved, that is, have done with loving, &c.

In like manner, in the passive voice; Amor, I am loved, I am in loving, or in being loved, &c.

Past time in the passive voice is expressed several different ways, by means of the auxiliary verb sum, and the participle perfect; thus:

Indicative Mode.

Perfect. Amātus sum, I am, or have been loved, or oftener, I was loved.
Amātus fui, I have been loved, or I was loved.

Pluperfect. Amātus eram, I was, or had been loved.
Amātus fuĕram, I had been loved.

Subjunctive Mode.

Perfect. Amātus sim, I may be, or may have been loved.
Amātus fuĕrim, I may have been loved.

* Iri is the infinitive passive of eo.

Pluperfect. Amātus essem, I might, could, would, or should be, or have been loved.

Amātus fuissem, I might, could, would, or should have been loved; or I had been loved.

Future. Amātus fuĕro, I shall have been loved.

The verb sum is also employed to express future time in the indicative mode, both active and passive; thus:

Amatūrus sum, I am about to love, I am to love, I am going to love, or I will love. We chiefly use this form, when some purpose or intention is signified.

Amātus ero, I shall be loved.

Obs. 1. The participles amātus and amatūrus are put before the auxiliary verb, because we commonly find them so placed in the classics.

Obs. 2. In these compound tenses the learner should be taught to vary the participle like an adjective noun, according to the gender and number of the different substantives to which it is applied; thus, amātus est, he is or was loved, when applied to a man; amāta est, she was loved, when applied to a woman; amātum est, it was loved, when applied to a thing; amāti sunt, they were loved, when applied to men, &c. The connecting of syntax, so far as is necessary, with the inflection of nouns and verbs, seems to be the most proper method of teaching both.

Obs. 3. The past time and participle perfect in English are taken in different meanings, according to the different tenses in Latin which they are used to express. Thus, "I loved," when put for amābam, is taken in a sense different from what it has when put for amāvi; so amor, and amātus sum, I am loved; amābar and amātus eram, I was loved; amer, and amātus sim, &c. In the one, loved is taken in a present, in the other, in a past sense. This ambiguity arises from the defective nature of the English verb.

Obs. 4. The tenses of the subjunctive mode may be variously rendered, according to their connexion with the other parts of a sentence. They are often expressed in English as the same tenses of the indicative, and sometimes one tense is apparently put for another.

Thus, Quasi intellĭgant, qualis sit, As if they understood, what kind of person he is. Cic. In facĭnus jurāsse putes, You would think, &c. Ov. Elŏquar an sileam? Shall I speak out, or be silent? Nec vos arguĕrim, Teucri, for arguam. Virg. Si quid te fugĕrit, ego periĕrim, for perĭbo. Ter. Hunc ego si potui tantum sperāre dolōrem; Et perferre, soror, potĕro: for potuissem and possem. Virg. Singŭla quid referam? Why should I mention every thing? Id. Prædicĕres mihi, You should have told me before hand. Ter. At tu dictis, Albāne, manēres, Ought to have stood to your word. Virg. Citius crediderim, I should sooner believe. Juv. Hausĕrit ensis, The sword would have destroyed. Virg. Fuĕrint irāti. Grant or suppose they were angry. Si id fecisset, If he did or should do that. Cic. The same promiscuous use of the tenses seems also to take place sometimes in the indicative and infinitive; and the indicative to be put for the subjunctive; as, Animus meminisse horret, luctūque refŭgit, for refŭgit. Virg. Fuĕrat melius, for fuisset. Id. Invidiæ dilapsa erat, for fuisset. Sall. Quamdiu in portum venis? for venisti. Plaut. Quem nox navĭgo Ephĕsum, for navigābo. Id. Tu si, hic sis, aliter sentĭas. Ter. for esses and sentires. Cato affirmat, se vivo, illum non triumphāre, for triumphatūrum esse. Cic. Persuādet Castĭco, ut occupāret, et occŭpet. Cæs.

Obs. 5. The future of the subjunctive, and also of the indicative, is often rendered by the present of the subjunctive in English; as, nisi hoc faciet, or fecĕrit, unless he do this. Ter.

Obs. 6. Instead of the imperative we often use the present of the subjunctive; as, valeas, farewell; huc venias, come hither, &c. And also the future both of the indicative and subjunctive; as, non occīdes, do not kill; ne fecĕris, do not do; valĕbis, meque amābis, farewell, and love me. Cic.

The present time and the preter-imperfect of the infinitive are both expressed under the same form. All the varieties of past and future time are expressed by the other two tenses. But in order properly to exemplify the tenses of the infinitive mode, we must put an accusative, and some other verb before each of them; thus:

Dicit me scribĕre; he says that I write, do write, or am writing.
Dixit me scribĕre; he said that I wrote, did write, or was writing.
Dicit me scripsisse; he says that I wrote, did write, or have written.
Dixit me scripsisse; he said that I had written.
Dicit me scriptūrum esse; he says that I will write.
Dixit nos scriptūros esse; he said that we would write.
Dicit nos scriptūros fuisse; he says that we would have written.
Dicit litĕras scribi; he says that letters are written, writing, or in writing.
Dixit litĕras scribi; he said that letters were writing, or written.
Dicit litĕras scriptas esse; he says that letters are, or were written.
Dicit litĕras scriptas fuisse; he says that letters have been written.
Dixit litĕras scriptas fuisse; he said that letters had been written.
Dicit litĕras scriptum iri; he says that letters will be written.
Dixit litĕras scriptum iri; he said that letters would be written.

The future, scriptum iri, is made up of the former supine, and the infinitive passive of the verb eo, and therefore never admits of any variation.

The future of the infinitive is sometimes expressed by a periphrăsis, or circumlocution; thus, scio fore or futūrum esse ut scribant,—ut litĕræ scribantur; I know that they will write,—that letters will be written. Scivi fore or futūrum esse ut scribĕrent,—ut litĕræ scriberentur; I knew that they would write, &c. Scivi futūrum fuisse ut litĕræ scriberentur, I knew that letters would have been written. This form is necessary in verbs which want the supine.

Obs. 7. The different tenses, when joined with any expediency or necessity, are thus expressed:

Scribendum est mihi, pŭĕro, nobis, &c. litĕras; I, the boy, we, &c. must write letters.
Scribendum fuit mihi, pŭĕro, nobis, &c. I must have written, &c.
Scribendum erit mihi; I shall be obliged to write.
Scio scribendum esse mihi litĕras; I know that I must write letters.
——scribendum fuisse mihi;——that I must have written.
Dixit scribendum fore mihi; he said that I should be obliged to write.

Or with the participle in dus:

Litĕræ sunt scribendæ mihi, pŭĕro, hominĭbus, &c. or, a me, pŭĕro, &c. letters are to be, or must be written by me, by the boy, by men, &c.; So, litĕræ scribendæ erant, fuĕrunt, erunt, &c. Si litĕræ scribendæ sint, essent, forent, &c. Scio litĕras scribendas esse; I know that letters are to be, or must be written. Scivi litĕras scribendas fuisse; I knew that letters ought to have been, or must have been written.

FORMATION OF THE PRETERITE AND SUPINE.

GENERAL RULES.

1. Compound and simple verbs form the preterite and supine in the same manner; as,

Vŏco, vŏcāvi, vŏcātum, to call; so, rĕvŏco, revŏcāvi, revŏcātum, to recall.

Exc. 1. When the simple verb in the preterite doubles the first syllable of the present, the compounds lose the former syllable; as, pello, pĕpŭli, to beat; rĕpello, rĕpŭli, never repĕpŭli, to beat back. But the compounds of do, sto, disco, and posco, follow the general rule; thus, ēdisco, ēdĭdĭci, to get by heart; dēposco, dēpŏposci, to demand: so, præcurro, præcŭcurri; rĕpungo, rĕpŭpŭgi.

Exc. 2. Compounds which change a of the simple verb into i, have e in the supine: as, facio, fēci, factum, to make; perficio, perfēci, perfectum, to perfect. But compound verbs ending in do and go; also the compounds of hăbeo, plăceo, săpio, sălio, and stătuo, observe the general rule.

2. Verbs which want the preterite, want likewise the supine.

DEPONENT AND COMMON VERBS.

A deponent verb is that which, under a passive form, has an active or neuter signification; as, Lŏquor, I speak; mŏrior, I die.

A common verb, under a passive form, has either an active or passive signification; as, Crīmĭnor, I accuse, or I am accused.

Most deponent verbs of old were the same with common verbs. They are called Deponent, because they have laid aside the passive sense.

Deponent and common verbs form the participle perfect in the same manner as if they had the active voice; thus, Lætor, lætāri, lætātus, to rejoice; vĕreor, vĕrēri, verĭtus, to fear; fungor, fungi, functus, to discharge an office; pŏtior, pŏtīri, pŏtītus, to enjoy, to be master of.

The learner should be taught to go through all the parts of deponent and common verbs, by proper examples in the several conjugations; thus, Lætor, of the first conjugation, like amor:

Divertor, diverti, to turn aside, to take lodging.
Defĕtiscor, defĕtisci, to be weary, or faint.

The verbs which do not fall under any of the foregoing rules are called Irregular.

IRREGULAR VERBS.

The irregular verbs are commonly reckoned eight; sum, eo, queo, vŏlo, nōlo, mālo, fĕro, and fio, with their compounds.

But properly there are only six; nolo and malo being compounds of volo.

SUM has already been conjugated. After the same manner are formed its compounds, ad-, ab-, de-, inter-, ob-, præ-, sub-, super-sum, and insum, which wants the preterite; thus, adsum, adfui, adesse, &c.

PROSUM, to do good, has a d where sum begins with e.

The compounds of Eo are conjugated after the same manner; ăd-, ăb-, ex-, cŏ-, in-, inter-, ŏb-, rĕd-, sŭb-, pĕr-, præ-, ante-, prōd-eo; only in the perfect, and the tenses formed from it, they are usually contracted; thus, Adeo, adii, seldom adīvi, aditum, adire, to go to; perf. Adii, adiisti, or adisti, &c. adiĕram, adiĕrim, &c. So likewise VENEO, venii, ——, to be sold, (compounded of venum and eo.) But AMBIO, -īvi, -ītum, -īre, to surround, is a regular verb of the fourth conjugation.

Eo, like other neuter verbs, is often rendered in English under a passive form; thus, it, he is going; ĭvit, he is gone; ĭvĕrat, he was gone; ĭĕrit, he may be gone, or shall be gone. So, vĕnit, he is coming; vēnit, he has come; vēnĕrat, he was come, &c. In the passive voice these verbs for the most part are only used impersonally; as, itur ab illo, he is going; ventum est ab illis, they are come. We find some of the compounds of eo, however, used personally; as, pericŭla adeuntur, are undergone. Cic. Libri sibyllini aditi sunt, were looked into. Liv. Flumen pedĭbus transīri potest. Cæs. Inimicitiæ subeantur. Cic.

QUEO, I can, and NEQUEO, I cannot, are conjugated the same way as eo; only they want the imperative and the gerunds; and the participles are seldom used.

In like manner are conjugated the compounds of fĕro; as, affĕro, attŭli, allātum; auferŏ, abstŭli, ablātum; differo, distŭli, dilātum; conferŏ, contŭli, collātum; inferŏ, intŭli, illātum; offĕro, obtŭli, oblātum; effĕro, extŭli, elātum. So, circum-, per-, trans-, de-, pro-, ante-, præ-, re-fĕro. In some writers we find adfĕro, adtŭli, adlātum; conlātum; inlātum; obfĕro, &c. for affĕro, &c.

Obs. 1. Most part of the above verbs are made irregular by contraction. Thus, nolo is contracted for non volo; malo for magis volo; fero, fers, fert, &c. for feris, ferit, &c. Feror, ferris or ferre, fertur, for ferrĕris, &c.

Obs. 2. The imperatives of dīco, dūco, and făcio, are contracted in the same manner with fer: thus we say, dic, duc, fac; instead of dīce, dūce, făce. But these often occur likewise in the regular form.

Supine.

Factu.

The compounds of făcio which retain a, have also fio in the passive, and fac in the imperative active; as, calefacio, to warm, calefio, calĕfac: but those which change a into i, form the passive regularly, and have fĭce in the imperative; as, conficio, confĭce; conficior, confĭci, confectus. We find, however, confit, it is done, and confĭĕri; defit, it is wanting; infit, he begins.

To irregular verbs may properly be subjoined what are commonly called NEUTER PASSIVE Verbs, which, like fio, form the preterite tenses according to the passive voice, and the rest in the active. These are, sŏleo, solēre, solĭtus, to use; audeo, audēre, ausus, to dare; gaudeo, gaudēre, gavīsus, to rejoice; fīdo, fidĕre, fisus, to trust. So, confīdo, to trust; and diffīdo, to distrust; which also have confīdi, and diffīdi. Some add mœreo, mœrēre, mœstus, to be sad; but mœstus is generally reckoned an adjective. We likewise say jūrātus sum and cænātus sum, for jurāvi and cænāvi, but these may also be taken in a passive sense.

To these may be referred verbs wholly active in their termination, and passive in their signification; as, vapŭlo, -āvi, -ātum, to be beaten or whipped; vēneo, to be sold; exŭlo, to be banished, &c.

DEFECTIVE VERBS.

Verbs are called Defective, which are not used in certain tenses, numbers, and persons.

These three, ōdi, cœpi, and mĕmĭni, are only used in the preterite tenses; and therefore are called Preteritive Verbs; though they have sometimes likewise a present signification; thus,

Odi, I hate, or have hated, oděram, oděrim, odissem, oděro, odisse. Participles, osus, osūrus; exōsus, perōsus.

Cœpi, I begin, or have begun, cœpĕram, -ĕrim, -issem, -ĕro, -isse. Supine, cœptu. Participles, cœptus, cœptūrus.

Mĕmĭni, I remember, or have remembered, memineram, -ĕrim, -issem, -ĕro, -isse. Imperative, memento, mementōte.

Instead of odi, we sometimes say, osus sum: and always exōsus, perōsus sum, and not exōdi, perōdi. We say, opus cœpit fiĕri, or cœptum est.

To these some add nōvi, because it frequently has the signification of the present I know, as well as, I have known, though it comes from nosco, which is complete.

Fŭro, to be mad, dor, to be given, and for, to speak, as also der and fer, are not used in the first person singular; thus we say, daris, datur; but never dor.

Of verbs which want many of their chief parts, the following most frequently occur: Aio, I say; inquam, I say; fŏrem, I should be; ausim, contracted for ausus sim, I dare; faxim, I'll see to it, or I will do it; ave and salve, save you, hail, good-morrow: cedo, tell thou, or give me; quæso, I pray.

Ind. Fut. ——Salvēbis.

Imp. second pers. sing. Cedo, plur. cedīte.

Ind. pres. first pers. sing. Quæso, plur. quæsūmus.

Most of the other Defective verbs are but single words, and rarely to be found, but among the poets: as, infit, he begins; defit, it is wanting. Some are compounded of a verb and the conjunction si; as, sis, for si vis, if thou wilt; sŭltis, for si vultis; sodes, for si audes; equivalent to quæso, I pray; capsis, for cape si vis.

IMPERSONAL VERBS.

A verb is called Impersonal, which has only the terminations of the third person singular, but does not admit any person or nominative before it.

Impersonal verbs, in English, have before them the neuter pronoun it, which is not considered as a person; thus, dēlectat, it delights; dēcet, it becomes; contingit, it happens; ēvĕnit, it happens:

Most Latin verbs may be used impersonally in the passive voice, especially Neuter and Intransitive verbs, which otherwise have no passive; as, pugnātur, fāvētur, currĭtur, vēnītur; from pugno, to fight; faveo, to favour; curro, to run; venio, to come:

Fut.	Pugnātum iri.	Fautum iri.	Cursum iri.	Ventum iri.

Obs. 1. Impersonal verbs are scarcely used in the imperative; but instead of that we use the subjunctive; as, delectet, let it delight; &c. nor in the supines, participles, or gerunds, except a few; as, pænĭtens, -dum, -dus, &c. Indūci ad pudendum et pigendum. Cic. In the preterite tenses of the passive voice, the participle perfect is always put in the neuter gender.

Obs. 2. Grammarians reckon only ten real impersonal verbs, and all in the second conjugation; dĕcet, it becomes; pœnĭtet, it repents; oportet, it behoves; misĕret, it pities; piget, it irketh; pŭdet, it shameth; lĭcet, it is lawful; lĭbet or lūbet, it pleaseth; tædet, it wearieth; lĭquet, it appears. Of which the following have a double preterite; misĕret, miseruit, or misertum est; piget, piguit, or pigĭtum est; pudet, puduit, or pudĭtum est; licet, licuit, or licĭtum est; libet, libuit, or libĭtum est; tædet, tæduit, tæsum est, oftener pertæsum est. But many other verbs are used impersonally in all the conjugations.

In the first, Jŭvat, spectat, vŏcat, stat, constat, præstat, restat, &c.

In the second, Appāret, attĭnet, pertĭnet, dĕbet, dŏlet, nŏcet, lătet, lĭquet, păret, plăcet, displĭcet, sĕdet, sŏlet, &c.

In the third, Accĭdit, incĭpit, desĭnit, suffĭcit, &c.

In the fourth, Convĕnit, expĕdit, &c.

Also, irregular verbs, Est, obest, prōdest, pŏtest, intĕrest, supĕrest; fit, prætĕrit, nĕquit, and nequĭtur, subit, confert, rĕfert, &c.

Obs. 3. Under impersonal verbs may be comprehended those which express the operations or appearances of nature; as, Fulgŭrat, fulmĭnat, tŏnat, grandĭnat, gĕlat, pluit, ningit, lucescit, advesperascit, &c.

Obs. 4. Impersonal verbs are applied to any person or number, by putting that which stands before other verbs, after the impersonals, in the cases which they govern; as, placet mihi, tibi, illi, it pleases me, thee, him; or I please, thou pleasest, &c. pugnātur a me, a te, ab illo, I fight, thou fightest, he fighteth, &c. So, Currĭtur, venītur a me, a te, &c. I run, thou runnest, &c. Favētur tibi a me, Thou art favoured by me, or I favour thee, &c.

Obs. 5. Verbs are used personally or impersonally, according to the particular meaning which they express, or the different import of the words with which they are joined: thus, we can say, ego placeo tibi, I please you; but we cannot say, si places audīre, if you please to hear, but si placet tibi audīre. So we can say, multa homĭni contingunt, many things happen to a man; but instead of ego contĭgi esse domi, we must either say, me contĭgit esse domi, or mihi contĭgit esse domi, I happened to be at home. The proper and elegant use of Impersonal verbs can only be acquired by practice.

REDUNDANT VERBS.

Those are called Redundant Verbs, which have different forms to express the same sense: thus, assentio and assentior, to agree; fabrĭco and fabrĭcor, to frame; mereo and mereor, to deserve, &c. These verbs, however, under the passive form have likewise a passive signification.

Several verbs are used in different conjugations.

cornīcor, &c. I imitate or resemble my father, a Grecian, an owl, a crow, &c. from pater, Græcus, bubo, cornix.

Of those derived from other verbs, the following chiefly deserve attention; namely, Frequentatives, Inceptives, and Desideratives.

1. FREQUENTATIVES express frequency of action, and are all of the first conjugation. They are formed from the last supine, by changing ātu into ĭto, in verbs of the first conjugation; and by changing u into o, in verbs of the other three conjugations; as, clamo, to cry, clamĭto, to cry frequently; terreo, territo; verto, verso; dormio, dormito.

In like manner, Deponent verbs form Frequentatives in or; as, minor, to threaten; minĭtor, to threaten frequently.

Some are formed in an irregular manner; as, nato from no; noscĭto, from nosco; scitor, or rather sciscĭtor, from scio; pavĭto, from paveo, sector, from sequor; loquĭtor, from loquor So, quærĭto, fundĭto, agĭto, fluĭto, &c.

From Frequentative verbs are also formed other Frequentatives; as, curro, curso, cursĭto; pello, pulso, pulsĭto, or by contraction pulto; capio, capto, captĭto; cano, canto, cantĭto; defendo, defenso, defensĭto; dico, dicto, dictĭto; gero, gesto, gestĭto; jacio, jacto, jactĭto; venio, vento, ventĭto; mutio, musso, (for mutĭto), mussĭto, &c.

Verbs of this kind do not always express frequency of action. Many of them have much the same sense with their primitives, or express the meaning more strongly.

2. INCEPTIVE Verbs mark the beginning or continued increase of any thing. They are formed from the second person singular of the present of the indicative, by adding co: as, caleo, to be hot, cales, calesco, to grow hot. So in the other conjugations, labasco, from labo; tremisco, from tremo; obdormisco, from obdormio. Hisco, from hio, is contracted for hiasco. Inceptives are likewise formed from substantives and adjectives; as, puerasco, from puer; dulcesco, from dulcis; juvenesco, from juvĕnis.

All Inceptives are neuter verbs, and of the third conjugation. They want both the preterite and supine; unless very rarely, when they borrow them from their primitives.

3. DESIDERATIVE Verbs signify a desire or intention of doing a thing. They are formed from the latter supine by adding rio, and shortening the u; as, cænātūrio, I desire to sup, from cænātu. They are all of the fourth conjugation; and want both preterite and supine, except these three, ēsūrio, -īvi, -ītum, to desire to eat; partūrio, -īvi, —, to be in travail; nuptūrio, -īvi, —, to desire to be married.

There are a few verbs in LLO, which are called DIMINUTIVE; as, cantillo, sorbillo, -āre, I sing, I sup a little. To these some add albico, and candĭco, -are, to be or to grow whitish; also, nigrico, fodico, and vellico. Some verbs in SSO are called Intensive; as, Capesso, facesso, petesso, or petisso, I take, I do, I seek earnestly.

II. Verbs are compounded with nouns, with other verbs, with adverbs, and chiefly with prepositions. Many of the simple verbs are not in use; as, Fūto, fendo, specio, gruo, &c. The component parts usually remain entire. Sometimes a letter is added; as, prodeo, for pro-eo; or taken away; as, asporto, omitto, trado, pejĕro, pergo, debeo, præbeo, &c. for absporto, obmitto, transdo, perjūro, perrĕgo, dehibeo, præhibeo, &c. So, demo, promo, sumo, of de, pro, sub, and emo, which anciently signified, to take, or to take away. Often the vowel or diphthong of the simple verb, and the last consonant of the preposition is changed; as, damno, condemno; calco, conculco; lædo, collido; audio, obedio, &c. Affĕro, auferre, collaudo, implico, &c. for adfĕro, abfĕro, conlaudo, inplico, &c.

PARTICIPLE.

A Participle is a kind of Adjective formed from a verb, which in its signification implies time.

It is so called, because it partakes both of an adjective and of a verb, having, in Latin, gender and declension from the one, time and signification from the other, and number from both.

Participles in Latin are declined like adjectives; and their signification is various, according to the nature of the verbs from which they come; only participles in dus, are always passive, and import not so much future time, as obligation or necessity.

Latin verbs have four Participles, the present and future active; as, Amans, loving; ămātūrus, about to love; and the perfect and future passive; as, amātus, loved; amandus, to be loved.

The Latins have not a participle perfect in the active, nor a participle present in the passive voice; which defect must be supplied by a circumlocution. Thus, to express the perfect participle active in English, we use a conjunction, and the pluperfect of the subjunctive in Latin, or some other tense, according to its connexion with the other words of a sentence; as, he having loved; quum amavisset, &c.

Neuter verbs have commonly but two Participles; as, Sĕdens, sessūrus; stans, statūrus.

From some Neuter verbs are formed Participles of the perfect tense; as, Errātus, festinātus, jurātus, laborātus, vigilātus, cessātus, sudātus, triumphātus, regnātus, decursus, desĭtus, emerĭtus, emersus, obĭtus, placĭtus, successus, occāsus, &c. and also of the future in dus; as, Jurandus, vigilandus, regnandus, carendus, dormiendus, erubescendus, &c. Neuter passive verbs are equally various. Veneo has no participle: Fido, only fidens and fisus; soleo, solens, and solĭtus; vapŭlo, vapŭlans, and vapulatūrus; Gaudeo, gaudens, gavīsus, and gavisūrus; Audeo, audens, ausus, ausūrus, audendus. Ausus is used both in an active and passive sense; as, Ausi omnes immāne nefas, ausōque potīti. Virg. Æn. vi. 624.

Deponent and Common verbs have commonly four Participles; as, Loquens, speaking; locutūrus, about to speak; locūtus, having spoken; loquendus, to be spoken. Dignans, vouchsafing; dignatūrus, about to vouchsafe; dignātus, having vouchsafed, being vouchsafed, or having been vouchsafed; dignandus, to be vouchsafed. Many participles of the perfect tense from Deponent verbs have both an active and passive sense; as, Abominātus, conātus, confessus, adortus, amplexus, blandītus, largītus, mentītus, oblītus, testātus, venerātus, &c.

There are several Participles, compounded with in, signifying not, the verbs of which do not admit of such composition; as,

Insciens, inspĕrans, indĭcens for non dicens, inopinans and necopinans, immĕrens; Illæsus, impransus, inconsultus, incustodītus, immetātus, impunītus, imparātus, incomitātus, incomptus, indemnātus, indotātus, incorruptus, interrītus, and imperterrītus, intestātus, inausus, inopinātus, inultus, incensus for non census, not registered; infectus for non factus; invīsus for non visus; indictus for non dictus, &c. There is a different incensus from incendo; infectus from inficio; invīsus from invĭdeo; indictus from indico, &c.

If from the signification of a Participle we take away time, it becomes an adjective, and admits the degrees of comparison; as,

Amans, loving, amantior, amantissĭmus; doctus, learned, doctior, doctissĭmus: or a substantive; as, Præfectus, a commander or governor; consŏnans, f. sc. litĕra, a consonant; continens, f. sc. terra, a continent; confluens, m. a place where two rivers run together; oriens, m. sc. sol, the east; occĭdens, m. the west; dictum, a saying; scriptum, &c.

There are many words in ĀTUS, ĪTUS, and ŪTUS, which, although resembling participles, are reckoned adjectives, because they come from nouns, and not from verbs; as, alātus, barbātus, cordātus, caudātus, cristātus, aurītus, pellītus, turrītus; astūtus, cornūtus, nasūtus, &c. winged, bearded, discreet, &c. But aurātus, ærātus, argentātus, ferrātus, plumbātus, gypsātus, calceātus, clypeātus, galeātus, tunicātus, larvātus, palliātus, lymphātus, purpurātus, prætextātus, &c. covered with gold, brass, silver, &c. are accounted participles, because they are supposed to come from obsolete verbs. So perhaps calamistratus, frizzled, crisped, or curled, crinītus, having long hair, peritus, skilled, &c.

There is a kind of Verbal adjectives in BUNDUS, formed from the imperfect of the indicative, which very much resemble Participles in their signification, but generally express the meaning of the verb more fully, or denote an abundance or great deal of the action; as, vitabundus, the same with valde vitans, avoiding much. Sal. Jug. 60. and 101. Liv. xxv. 13. So, errabundus, ludibundus, populabundus, moribundus, &c.

Gerunds and Supines.

GERUNDS are participial words, which bear the signification of the verb from which they are formed; and are declined like a neuter noun of the second declension, through all the cases of the singular number, except the vocative.

There are, both in Latin and English, substantives derived from the verb, which so much resemble the Gerund in their signification, that frequently they may be substituted in its place. They are generally used, however, in a more undetermined sense than the Gerund, and in English have the article always prefixed to them. Thus, with the Gerund, Delector legendo Cicerōnem, I am delighted with reading Cicero. But with the substantive, Delector lectiōne Cicerōnis, I am delighted with the reading of Cicero.

The Gerund and Future Participle of verbs in io, and some others, often take u instead of e; as, faciundum, -di, -do, -dus; experiundum, potiundum, gerundum, petundum, ducundum, &c. for faciendum, &c.

SUPINES have much the same signification with Gerunds; and may be indifferently applied to any person or number.

They agree in termination with nouns of the fourth declension, having only the accusative and ablative cases.

The former Supine is commonly used in an active, and the latter in a passive sense, but sometimes the contrary; as, coctum non vapulātum, dudum conductus fui, i. e. ut vapulārem, or verberārer, to be beaten. Plaut.

ADVERB.

Those adverbs which are called COMPARATIVE denote,

1. EXCESS; as, valde, maxĭme, magnopĕre, maximopĕre, summopĕre, admŏdum, oppĭdò, perquam, langè, greatly, very much, exceedingly; nimis, nimium, too much; prorsus, penĭtus, omnĭno, altogether, wholly; magis, more; melĭùs, better; pejùs, worse; fortĭùs, more bravely; and optĭmè, best; pessĭmè, worst; fortissĭmè, most bravely; and innumerable others of the comparative and superlative degrees.

DERIVATION, COMPARISON, AND COMPOSITION OF ADVERBS.

Adverbs are derived, 1. from Substantives, and end commonly in TIM or TUS; as, Partim, partly, by parts; nominātim, by name; generātim, by kinds, generally; speciātim, vicātim, gregātim; radĭcĭtus, from the root, &c. 2. From adjectives: and these are by far the most numerous. Such as come from Adjectives of the first and second declension usually end in E; as, liberè, freely; plenè, fully: some in O, UM, and TER; as, falsò, tantùm, gravĭter: a few in A, ITUS, and IM; as, rectà, antiquĭtus, privātim. Some are used two or three ways; as, primum, or -ò; purè, -ĭter; certè, -ò; caute, -tim; humanè, -ĭter, -ĭtus; publicè, publicĭtus, &c. Adverbs from Adjectives of the third declension commonly end in TER, seldom in E; as, turpĭter, felicĭter, acrĭter, parĭter; facĭlè, repente: one in O, omnĭno. The neuter of Adjectives is sometimes taken adverbially; as, recens natus, for recenter; perfĭdum ridens, for perfĭdè, Hor. multa reluctans, for multùm or valdè, Virg. So in English we say, to speak loud, high, &c. for loudly, highly, &c. In many cases a substantive is understood; as, primò, sc. loco: optatò advenis, sc. tempore; hàc, sc. viâ, &c.

3. From each of the pronominal adjectives, ille, iste, hic, is, idem, &c. are formed adverbs, which express all the circumstances of place; as, from ILLE, illic, illuc, illorsum, illinc, and illac. So from QUIS, ubi, quo, quorsum, unde, and quà: also of time; thus, quando, quamdiu, &c.

4. From verbs and participles; as, cæsim, with the edge; punctim, with the point; strictim, closely; from cædo, pungo, stringo: amanter, prŏperanter, dubitanter; distinctè, emendātè; meritò, inopinātò; &c. But these last are thought to be in the ablative, having ex understood.

5. From prepositions; as, intus, intro, from in; clanculum, from clam; subtus, from sub, &c.

Adverbs derived from adjectives are commonly compared like their primitives. The positive generally ends in e, or ter; as, durè, facilè, acriter: the comparative, in ius; as, duriùs, faciliùs, acriùs: the superlative, in ĭme; as, durissĭmè, facillĭmè, acerrĭmè.

If the comparison of the adjective be irregular or defective, the comparison of the adverb is so too; as, benè, meliùs, optĭmè; malè, pejùs, pessĭme; parùm, minùs, minĭmè, & -ĭum; multum, plus, plurĭmùm; prope, propiùs, proxĭmè; ocyùs, ocyssĭme; priùs, primò, -um; nuper, nuperrĭmè; novè, & novĭter, novissĭmè; meritò, meritissĭmò, &c. Those adverbs also are compared whose primitives are obsolete; as, sæpe, sæpiùs, sæpissĭmè; penitùs, penitiùs, penitissĭmè; satis, satiùs; secus, seciùs, &c. Magis, maxĭmè; and potius, potissĭmùm, want the positive.

Adverbs are variously compounded with all the different parts of speech; thus, postridie, magnopĕre, maximopĕre, summopĕre, tantopĕre, multimŏdis, omnimŏdis, quomŏdo, quare; of postĕro die, magno opĕre, &c. Licet, scilicet, videlicet, of ire, scire, vidēre, licet; illico, of in loco; quorsum, of quo versum; comminus, hand to hand, of cum or con and manus; eminus, at a distance, of e and manus; quorsum, of quo versum, denuo, anew, of de novo; quin, why not, but, of qui ne; cur, of cui rei; pedetentim, step by step, as it were, of pedem tendendo; perendie, for perempto die; nimirum, of ne, i. e. non, and mirum; antea, postea, præterea, &c. of ante and ea, &c. Ubivis, quovis, undelibet, quousque, sicut, sicŭti, velut, velŭti, desŭper, insŭper, quamobrem, &c. of ubi and vis, &c. nudiustertius, of nunc dies tertius; identidem, of idem et idem; impræsentiārum, i. e. in tempŏre rerum præsentium, &c.

Obs. 1. The Adverb is not an essential part of speech. It only serves to express shortly, in one word, what must otherwise have required two or more; as, sapienter, wisely, for cum sapientiâ; hic, for in hoc loco; semper, for in omni tempŏre; semel, for unâ vice; bis, for duŏbus vicĭbus; Mehercŭle, for Hercŭles me juvet, &c.

Obs. 2. Some adverbs of time, place, and order, are frequently used the one for the other; as, ubi, where, or when; inde, from that place, from that time, after that, next; hactĕnus, hitherto, thus far, with respect to place, time, or order, &c.

Obs. 3. Some adverbs of time are either past, present, or future; as, jam, already, now, by and by; olim, long ago, some time, hereafter Some adverbs of place are equally various; thus, esse peregrè, to be abroad; ire peregrè, to go abroad; redīre peregre, to return from abroad.

Obs 4. Interrogative adverbs of time and place doubled, or compounded with cunque, answer to the English adjection soever; as, ubiŭbi, or ubicunque, wheresoever; quoquò, quòcunque, whithersoever, &c. The same holds also in interrogative words; as, quotquot, or quotcunque, how many soever; quantusquantus, or quantuscunque, how great soever; utut, or utcunque, however or howsoever, &c

PREPOSITION.

A Preposition is an indeclinable word, which shows the relation of one thing to another.

There are twenty-eight prepositions in Latin, which govern the accusative; that is, have an accusative after them.

Ante,	Before.	Ob,	For.
Adversus, Adversum,	Against, towards.	Propter,	For, hard by.
		Per,	By, through.
Contra,	Against.	Præter,	Besides, except.
Cis, Citra,	On this side.	Pĕnes,	In the power of.
		Post,	After.
Circa, Circum,	About.	Pōne,	Behind.
		Sĕcus,	By, along.
Erga,	Towards.	Sĕcundum,	According to.
Extra,	Without.	Supra,	Above. [side.
Inter,	Between, among.	Trans,	On the farther
Intra,	Within.	Ultra,	Beyond.

The Prepositions which govern the ablative are fifteen; namely:

A, Ab, Abs,	From or by.	De,	Of, concerning.
		E, Ex,	Of, out of.
Absque,	Without.	Pro,	For.
Cum,	With.	Præ,	Before.
Clam,	Without the knowledge of.	Pălam,	With the knowledge of.
Cōram,	Before, in the presence of.	Sine,	Without.
		Tĕnus,	Up to, as far as.

In, In, into. Sub, Under. Sŭper, Above. Subter, Beneath.

Obs. 1. Prepositions are so called, because they are generally placed before the word with which they are joined. Some, however, are put after; as, cum, when joined with me, te, se, and sometimes with quo, qui, and quibus: thus, mecum, tecum, &c. Tenus is always placed after; as, mento tenus, up to the chin. So likewise are versus and usque; and ward, in English; as, toward, eastward, &c.

Obs. 2. Prepositions, both in English and Latin, are often compounded with other parts of speech, particularly with verbs; as, subire, to undergo. In English, they are frequently put after verbs; as, to go in, to go out, to look to, &c.

Prepositions are also sometimes compounded together; as, Ex adversus eum locum. Cic. Ex adversum Athenas. C. Nep. In ante diem quartum Kalendārum Decembris distŭlit, i. e. usque in eum diem. Cic. Supplicatio indicta est ex ante diem quintum idus Octob. i. e. ab eo die, Liv. Ex ante pridie Idus Septembris. Plin. But prepositions compounde together commonly become adverbs or conjunctions; as, propălam, protĭnus, insŭper, &c.

Obs. 3. Prepositions in composition usually retain their primitive signification; as, adeo, to go to: præpōno, to place before. But from this there are several exceptions. 1. IN, joined with adjectives generally denotes privation; as, infīdus, unfaithful: but when joined with verbs, increases their signification; as, indūro, to harden greatly. In some words in has two contrary senses; as, invōcātus, called upon, or not called upon. So, infrænātus, immutātus, insuētus, impensus, inhumātus, intentātus, &c. 2. PER commonly increases the signification; as, Percārus, percĕler, percōmis, percuriōsus, perdifficĭlis, perelĕgans, pergrātus, pergrăvis, perhospitālis, perillustris, perlætus, &c. very dear, very swift, &c. 3. PRÆ sometimes increases; as, Præclārus, prædives, prædulcis, prædūrus, præpinguis, prævalidus; prævăleo, præpolleo; and also EX; as, Exclāmo, exaggĕro, exaugeo, excalefacio, extenuo, exhilāro; but EX sometimes denotes privation; as, Exsanguis, bloodless, pale: excors, exanĭmis, -mo, &c. 4. SUB often diminishes; as, Subalbĭdus, subabsurdus, subamārus, subdulcis, subgrandis, subgrăvis, subnĭger; &c. a little white or whitish, &c. DE often signifies downward; as, Decīdo, decurro, degrăvo, despicio, delābor: sometimes increases; as, deămor, demīror; and sometimes expresses privation; as, Demens, decŏlor, deformis, &c.

Obs. 4. There are five or six syllables, namely, am, di or dis, re, se, con, which are commonly called Inseparable Prepositions, because they are only to be found in compound words: however, they generally add something to the signification of the words with which they are compounded; thus,

Am,	round about.	}	as,	Ambio,	to surround.
Di, Dis,	asunder.			Divello,	to pull asunder.
				Distrăho,	to draw asunder.
Re,	again.			Rĕlĕgo,	to read again.
Se,	aside, or apart.			Sēpōno,	to lay aside.
Con,	together.			Concresco,	to grow together.

INTERJECTION.

An Interjection is an indeclinable word thrown in between the parts of a sentence, to express some passion or emotion of the mind.

Some Interjections are natural sounds, and common to all languages; as, Oh! Ah!

Interjections express in one word a whole sentence; and thus fitly represent the quickness of the passions.

The different passions have commonly different words to express them; thus,

1. JOY; as, evax! hey, brave, lo!
2. GRIEF; as, ah, hei, heu, eheu! ah, alas, woe is me!
3. WONDER; as, papæ! O strange! vah! hah!
4. PRAISE; as, euge! well done!
5. AVERSION; as, apăge! away, begone, avaunt, off, fie, tush!

6. EXCLAIMING; as, Oh, proh! O!
7. SURPRISE or FEAR; as, atat! ha, aha!
8. IMPRECATION; as, væ! woe, pox on't!
9. LAUGHTER; as, ha, ha, he!
10. SILENCING; as, au, 'st, pax! silence, hush, 'st!
11. CALLING; as, eho, ehŏdum, io, ho! soho, ho, O!
12. DERISION; as, hui! away with!
13. ATTENTION; as, hem! ha!

Some interjections denote several different passions; thus, Vah is used to express joy, and sorrow, and wonder, &c.

Adjectives of the neuter gender are sometimes used for interjections; as, Malum! with a mischief! Infandum! O shame! fy, fy! Miserum! O wretched! Nefas! O the villany!

CONJUNCTION.

A conjunction is an indeclinable word, which serves to join sentences together.

Thus, "You and I and the boy read Virgil," is one sentence made up of these three, by the conjunction and, twice employed; I read Virgil; You read Virgil; The boy reads Virgil. In like manner, "You and I read Virgil, but the boy reads Ovid," is one sentence, made up of three, by the conjunctions and and but.

Conjunctions, according to their different meaning, are divided into the following classes:

1. COPULATIVE; as, et, at, atque, que, and; ĕtiam, quŏque, item, also; cum, tum, both, and. Also their contraries, nec, nĕque, neu, neve, neither, nor.
2. DISJUNCTIVE; as, aut, ve, vel, seu, sive, either, or.
3. CONCESSIVE; as, etsi, etiamsi, tametsi, licet, quanquam, quamvis, though, although, albeit.
4. ADVERSATIVE; as, sed, verum, autem, at, ast, atqui, but; tamen, attămen, veruntămen, verumenimvĕro, yet, notwithstanding, nevertheless.
5. CAUSAL; as, nam, namque, enim, for; quia, quippe, quoniam, because; quŏd, that, because.
6. ILLATIVE or RATIONAL; as, ergo, ideo, igĭtur, idcirco, ităque, therefore; quapropter, quocirca, wherefore; proinde, therefore; cum, quum, seeing, since; quandoquidem, forasmuch as.
7. FINAL or PERFECTIVE; as, ut, uti; that, to the end that.
8. CONDITIONAL; as, si, sin, if; dum, modo, dummŏdo, provided, upon condition that; siquĭdem, if indeed.
9. EXCEPTIVE or RESTRICTIVE; as, ni, nisi, unless, except.
10. DIMINUTIVE; as, saltem, certe, at least.
11. SUSPENSIVE or DUBITATIVE; as, an, anne, num, whether; ne, annon, whether, not; necne, or not.
12. EXPLETIVE; as, autem, vero, now, truly; quidem, equidem, indeed.
13. ORDINATIVE; as, deinde, thereafter; denique, finally; insŭper, moreover; cætĕrum, moreover, but, however.
14. DECLARATIVE; as, videlĭcet, scilĭcet, nempe, nimĭrum, &c. to wit, namely.

Obs. 1. The same words, as they are taken in different views, are both adverbs and conjunctions. Thus, an, anne, &c. are either interrog- ative adverbs; as, An scribit? Does he write? or, suspensive conjunctions; as, Nescio an scribat, I know not if he writes.

Obs. 2. Some conjunctions, according to their natural order, stand first in a sentence; as, Ac, atque, nec, neque, aut, vel, sive, at, sed, verum, nam, quandoquidem, quocirca, quare, sin, siquidem, præterquam, &c.; some stand in the second place; as, Autem, vero, quoque, quidem, enim: and some may indifferently be put either first or second; as, Etiam, equidem, licet, quamvis, quanquam, tamen, attamen, namque, quod, quia, quoniam, quippe, utpŏte, ut, uti, ergo, ideo, igĭtur, idcirco, itaque, proinde, propterea, si, ni, nisi, &c.

Hence arose the division of them into Prepositive, Subjunctive, and Common. To the subjunctive may be added these three, que, ve, ne, which are always joined to some other word, and are called Enclitics; because, when put after a long syllable, they make the accent incline to that syllable; as in the following verse, Indoctusque pilæ, discīve, trochīve, quiescit. Horat.

But when these enclitic conjunctions come after a short vowel, they do not affect its pronunciation; thus,

Arbuteos fœtus, montanăque fraga legēbant. Ovid.

SYNTAX,

OR

CONSTRUCTION OF WORDS IN SENTENCES.

SENTENCES.

A SENTENCE is any thought of the mind expressed by two or more words put together; as, I read. The boy reads Virgil.

That part of grammar, which teaches to put words rightly together in sentences, is called Syntax or Construction.

Words in sentences have a twofold relation to one another; namely, that of Concord or Agreement; and that of Government or Influence.

Concord, is when one word agrees with another in some accidents; as, in gender, number, person, or case.

Government, is when one word requires another to be put in a certain case, or mode.

GENERAL PRINCIPLES OF SYNTAX.

1. In every sentence there must be a verb and a nominative expressed or understood.
2. Every adjective must have a substantive expressed or understood.
3. All the cases of Latin nouns, except the nominative and vocative, must be governed by some other word.
4. The genitive is governed by a substantive noun expressed or understood: or by a verbal adjective.
5. The dative is governed by adjectives and verbs.
6. The accusative is governed by an active verb, or by a preposition; or is placed before the infinitive.
7. The vocative stands by itself, or has an interjection joined with it.
8. The ablative is governed by a preposition expressed or understood.
9. The infinitive is governed by some verb or adjective.

All Sentences are either SIMPLE or COMPOUND.

Syntax therefore may be divided into two parts, according to the general division of sentences.

SIMPLE SENTENCES.

A simple sentence is that which has but one nominative, and one finite verb; that is, a verb in the indicative, subjunctive, or imperative mode.

In a simple sentence, there is only one Subject and one Attribute.

The SUBJECT is the word which marks the person or thing spoken of.

The ATTRIBUTE expresses what we affirm concerning the subject; as,

The boy reads his lesson. Here, "the boy," is the Subject of discourse, or the person spoken of: "reads his lesson," is the Attribute, or what we affirm concerning the subject. The diligent boy reads his lesson carefully at home. Here we have still the same subject, "the boy," marked by the character of "diligent," added to it; and the same attribute, "reads his lesson," with the circumstances of manner and place subjoined, "carefully," "at home."

CONCORD.

The following words agree together in sentences. 1. A substantive with a substantive. 2. An adjective with a substantive. 3. A verb with a nominative.

1. Agreement of one Substantive with another.

RULE I. Substantives signifying the same thing agree in case; as,

Cicĕro orātor, Cicero the orator; Cicerōnis oratōris, Of Cicero the orator.
Urbs Athēnæ, The city Athens; Urbis Athēnārum, Of the city Athens.

2. Agreement of an Adjective with a Substantive.

II. An Adjective agrees with a Substantive in gender, number, and case; as,

Bonus vir, a good man;	Boni viri, good men.
Fœmĭna casta, a chaste woman;	Fœmĭnæ castæ, chaste women.
Dulce pomum, a sweet apple;	Dulcia poma, sweet apples.

And so through all the cases and degrees of comparison.

This rule applies also to adjective pronouns, and to participles;

as, Meus liber, my book; ager colendus, a field to be tilled; Plur. Mei libri, agri colendi, &c.

Obs. 1. The substantive is frequently understood, or its place supplied by an infinitive; and then the adjective is put in the neuter gender; as, triste, sc. negotium, a sad thing. Virg.; Tuum scire, the same with tua scientia, thy knowledge. Pers. We sometimes, however, find the substantive understood in the feminine; as, Non posteriōres feram, sup. partes. Ter.

Obs. 2. An adjective often supplies the place of a substantive; as, Certus amīcus, a sure friend; Bona ferīna, good venison; Summum bonum, the chief good: Homo being understood to amīcus, caro to ferīna, and negotium to bonum. A substantive is sometimes used as an adjective; as, incŏla turba vocant, the inhabitants. Ovid. Fast. 3, 582.

Obs. 3. These adjectives, primus, medius, ultĭmus, extrēmus, infĭmus, imus, summus, suprēmus, relĭquus, cætĕra, usually signify the first part, the middle part, &c. of any thing; as, Media nox, the middle part of the night; Summa arbor, the highest part of a tree.

Obs. 4. Whether the adjective or substantive ought to be placed first in Latin, no certain rule can be given. Only if the substantive be a monosyllable, and the adjective a polysyllable, the substantive is elegantly put first; as, vir clarissĭmus, res præstantissĭma; &c.

3. Agreement of a Verb with a Nominative.

III. A Verb agrees with its Nominative in number and person; as,

Ego lego, I read; Nos legĭmus, We read.
Tu scribis, Thou writest or you write; Vos scribĭtis, Ye or you write.
Præceptor docet, The master teaches; Præceptōres docent, Masters teach.
And so through all the modes, tenses, and numbers.

Obs. 1. Ego and nos are of the first person; tu and vos, of the second person; ille and all other words, of the third. The nominative of the first and second person in Latin is seldom expressed, unless for the sake of emphasis or distinction; as, Tu es patrōnus, tu pater. Ter. Tu legis, ego scribo.

Obs. 2. An infinitive, or some part of a sentence, often supplies the place of a nominative; as, Mentīri est turpe, to lie is base; Diu non perlitātum tenuit dictatōrem; the sacrifice, not being attended with favourable omens, detained the dictator for a long time. Liv. 7, 8. Sometimes the neuter pronoun id or illud is added, to express the meaning more strongly; as, Facĕre quæ libet, id est esse regem. Sallust.

Obs. 3. The infinitive mode often supplies the place of the third person of the imperfect of the indicative; as, Milĭtes fugĕre, the soldiers fled, for fugiēbant, or fugĕre cœpērunt. Invidēre omnes mihi, for invidēbant.

Obs. 4. A collective noun may be joined with a verb either of the singular or of the plural number; as, Multitūdo stat, or stant; the multitude stands, or stand.

A collective noun, when joined with a verb singular, expresses many considered as one whole; but when joined with a verb plural, signifies many separately, or as individuals. Hence if an adjective or participle be subjoined to the verb, when of the singular number, they will agree both in gender and number with the collective noun; but if the verb be plural, the adjective or participle will be plural also, and of the same gender with the individuals of which the collective noun is composed; as, Pars erant cæsi: Pars obnixæ trudunt, sc. formicæ. Virg. Æn. iv. 406. Magna pars raptæ, sc. virgines. Liv. 1, 9. Sometimes, however, though more rarely, the adjective is thus used in the singular; as, Pars arduus. Virg. Æn. vii. 624.

Accusative before the Infinitive.

IV. The infinitive mode has an accusative before it; as,

Gaudeo te valēre, I am glad that you are well.

Obs. 1. The particle that in English, is the sign of the accusative before the infinitive in Latin, when it comes between two verbs, without expressing intention or design. Sometimes the particle is omitted; as, Aiunt regem adventāre, They say the king is coming, that being understood.

Obs. 2. The accusative before the infinitive always depends upon some other verb, commonly on a neuter or substantive verb; but seldom on a verb taken in an active sense.

Obs. 3. The infinitive, with the accusative before it, seems sometimes to supply the place of a nominative; as, Turpe est militem fugĕre, That a soldier should fly is a shameful thing.

Obs. 4. The infinitive esse or fuisse, must frequently be supplied, especially after participles; as, Hostium exercitum cæsum fusumque cognōvi. Cic. Sometimes both the accusative and infinitive are understood; as, Pollicĭtus susceptūrum, scil. me esse. Ter.

Obs. 5. The infinitive may frequently be otherwise rendered by the conjunctions, quod, ut, ne, or quin; as, Gaudeo te valēre, i. e. quod valeas, or propter tuam bonam valetudĭnem: Jubeo vos bene sperāre, or ut bene speretis; Prohibeo 'eum exīre, or ne exeat: Non dubĭto eum fecisse, or much better, quin fecĕrit. Scio quod filius amet. Plaut. for filium amāre. Miror, si potuit, for eum potuisse. Cic. Nemo dubĭtat, ut populus Romānus omnes virtūte superārit, for populum Romānum superāsse. Nep. Ex animi sententiā juro, ut ego rempublĭcam non desĕram, for me non desertūrum esse. Liv. xxii. 53.

The same Case after a Verb as before it.

V. Any Verb may have the same Case after it as before it, when both words refer to the same thing; as,

Ego sum discipŭlus,	I am a scholar.
Tu vocāris Joannes,	You are named John.
Illa incēdit regĭna,	She walks as a queen.
Scio illum habēri sapientem,	I know that he is esteemed wise.
Scio vos esse discipŭlos,	I know that you are scholars.

So Redeo irātus, jaceo supplex; Evādent digni, they will become worthy; Rempublĭcam defendi adolescens; nolo esse longus, I am unwilling to be tedious; Malim vidēri timĭdus, quam parum prudens. Cic. Non licet mihi esse negligenti. Cic. Natūra dedit omnĭbus esse beātis. Claud. Cupio me esse clementem; cupio non putāri mendācem; Vult esse medĭum, sc. se, He wishes to be neuter. Cic. Disce esse pater; Hoc est esse patrem? sc. eum. Ter. Id est, domĭnum, non imperatōrem esse. Sallust.

Obs. 1. This rule implies nothing else but the agreement of an adjective with a substantive, or of one substantive with another; for those words in a sentence which refer to the same object, must always agree together, how much soever disjoined.

Obs. 2. The verbs which most frequently have the same case after them as before them, are:

1. Substantive and neuter verbs; as, Sum, fio, forem, and existo; eo, venio, sto, sedeo, evādo, jaceo, fugio, &c.

2. The passive of verbs of naming, judging, &c. as, Dicor, appellor, vocor, nomĭnor, nuncŭpor; to which add, videor, existĭmor, creor, constituor, salūtor, designor, &c.

These and other like verbs, admit after them only the nominative, accusative, or dative. When they have before them the genitive, they have after them an accusative; as, Intĕrest omnium esse bonos, scil. se, it is the interest of all to be good. In some cases we can use either the nom. or accus. promiscuously; as, Cupio dici doctus or doctum, sc. me dici; Cupio esse clemens, non putāri mendax; vult esse medĭus.

Obs. 3. When any of the above verbs are placed between two nominatives of different numbers, they commonly agree in number with the former; as, Dos est decem talenta, Her dowry is ten talents. Ter. Omnia pontus erunt. Ovid. But sometimes with the latter; as, Amantium iræ amōris integrātio est, The quarrels of lovers is a renewal of love. Ter. So when an adjective is applied to two substantives of different genders, it commonly agrees in gender with that substantive which is most the subject of discourse; as, Oppĭdum est appellātum Posidōnia. Plin. Sometimes, however, the adjective agrees with the nearer substantive; as, Non omnis error stultitia est dicenda. Cic.

Obs. 4. When the infinitive of any verb, particularly the substantive verb esse, has the dative before it, governed by an Impersonal verb, or any other word, it may have after it either the dative or the accusative; as, Licet mihi esse beāto, I may be happy; or, licet mihi esse beātum, me being understood; thus, licet mihi (me) esse beātum. The dative before esse is often to be supplied; as, Licet esse beātum. One may be happy, scil. alĭcui, or homīni.

Obs. 5. The poets use certain forms of expression, which are not to be imitated in prose; as, Rettŭlit Ajax Jovis esse pronĕpos, for se esse pronepōtem. Ovid. Met. xii. 141. Cum patĕris sapiens emendatusque vocāri, for te vocāri sapientem, &c. Horat. Ep. 1. 16. 30. Acceptum refĕro veritĭbus esse nocens. Ovid. Tutumque putāvit jam bonus esse socer. Lucan.

GOVERNMENT.

I. THE GOVERNMENT OF SUBSTANTIVES.

VI. One Substantive governs another in the genitive, (when the latter Substantive signifies a different thing from the former;) as,

Amor Dei, The love of God. Lex natūræ, The law of nature.
Domus Cæsăris, The house of Cæsar, or Cæsar's house.

Obs. 1. When one substantive is governed by another in the genitive, it expresses in general the relation of property or possession, and therefore is often elegantly turned into a possessive adjective; as, Domus patris, or paterna, a father's house; Filius heri or herĭlis, a master's son: and among the poets, Labor Herculeus, for Hercŭlis; Ensis Evandrius, for Evandri.

Obs. 2. When the substantive noun in the genitive signifies a person, it may be taken either in an active or a passive sense; thus, Amor Dei, The love of God, either means the love of God towards us, or our love towards him: So carĭtas patris, signifies either the affection of a father to his children, or theirs to him. But often the substantive can only be taken either in an active or in a passive sense: thus, Timor Dei, always implies Deus timētur; and Providentĭa Dei, Deus provĭdet. So, carĭtas ipsius soli, affection to the very soil. Liv. ii. 1.

Obs. 3. Both the former and latter substantive are sometimes to be understood; as, Hectŏris Andromăche, scil. uxor; Ventum est ad Vestæ, scil. ædem or templum; Ventum est tria millia, scil. passuum; three miles.

Obs. 4. We find the dative often used after a verb for the genitive, particularly among the poets; as, cui corpus porrigĭtur, whose body is extended. Virg. Æn. vi. 596.

Obs. 5. Some substantives are joined with certain prepositions; as, Amicitia, inimicitia, pax, cum aliquo; Amor in, vel erga, aliquem; Gaudium de re; Cura de aliquo; Mentio illius, vel de illo; Quies ab armis; Fumus ex incendĭis; Prædātor ex sociis, for sociōrum. Sall. &c.

Obs. 6. The genitive in Latin is often rendered in English by several other particles besides of; as, Descensus Averni, the descent to Avernus; Prudentia juris, skill in the law.

SUBSTANTIVE PRONOUNS are governed in the genitive like substantive nouns; as, pars mei, a part of me.

So also adjective pronouns, when used as substantives, or having a noun understood; as, Liber ejus, illius, hujus, &c. The book of him, or his book, sc. hŏmĭnis: The book of her, or her book, sc. fœmĭnæ. Libri eōrum, or eārum, their books; Cujus liber, the book of whom, or whose book; Quorum libri, whose books, &c. But we always say, meus liber, not mei; pater noster, not nostri; suum jus, not sui.

When a passive sense is expressed, we use mei, tui, sui, nostri, vestri, nostrum, vestrum; but we use their possessives when an active sense is expressed; as, Amor mei, The love of me, that is, The love wherewith I am loved; Amor meus, My love, that is, the love wherewith I love. We find, however, the possessives sometimes used passively, and their primi tives taken actively; as, Odium tuum, Hatred of thee. Ter. Phorm. v. 8. 27. Labor mei, My labour. Plaut.

The possessives meus, tuus, suus, noster, vester, have sometimes nouns, pronouns, and participles after them in the genitive, as, Pectus tuum hominis simplicis. Cic. Phil. ii. 43. Noster duorum eventus. Liv. Tuum ipsius studium. Cic. Mea scripta, timentis, &c. Hor. Solius meum peccātum corrīgi non potest. Cic. Id maximè quemque decet, quod est cujusque suum maximè. Id.

The reciprocals SUI and SUUS are used, when the action of the verb is reflected as it were, upon the nominative; as, Cato interfēcit se, Miles defendit suam vitam: Dicit se scriptūrum esse. We find, however, is or ille sometimes used in examples of this kind; as, Deum agnoscimus ex operibus ejus. Cic. Persuādent Raurācis, ut una cum iis proficiscantur, for una secum. Cæs.

VII. If the latter Substantive have an Adjective of praise or dispraise joined with it, they may be put in the genitive or ablative; as,

Vir summæ prudentiæ, or summâ prudentiâ, A man of great wisdom.
Puer probæ indōlis, or probâ indōle, A boy of a good disposition.

Obs. 1. The ablative here is not properly governed by the foregoing substantive, but by some preposition understood; as, cum, de, ex, in, &c. Thus, Vir summâ prudentiâ is the same with vir cum summâ prudentiâ.

Obs. 2. In some phrases the genitive is only used; as, Magni formīca labōris, the laborious ant; Vir imi subsellii, homo minīmi pretii, a person of the lowest rank. Homo nullius stipendii, a man of no experience in war. Sallust. Non multi cibi hospītem accipies, sed multi joci. Cic. Ager trium jugērum. In others only the ablative; as, Es bono animo, Be of good courage. Mirâ sum alacritāte ad litigandum. Cic. Capite aperto est, His head is bare; obvolūto, covered. Capite et supercilio semper est rasis. Id. Mulier magno natu. Liv. Sometimes both are used in the same sentence; as, Adolescens, eximiâ spe, summæ virtūtis. Cic. The ablative more frequently occurs in prose than the genitive.

Obs. 3. Sometimes the adjective agrees in case with the former substantive, and then the latter substantive is put in the ablative: thus, we say, either, Vir præstantis ingenii, or præstanti ingenio; or, Vir præstans ingenio, and sometimes præstans ingenii. Among the poets the latter substantive is frequently put in the accusative by a Greek construction, secundum, or quod ad being understood by the figure commonly called Synecdōche; as, Miles fractus membra, i. e. fractus secundum or quod ad membra, or habens membra fracta. Horat. Os humerosque deo simīlis. Virg.

Adjectives taken as Substantives.

VIII. An adjective in the neuter gender without a substantive governs the genitive; as,

Multum pecuniæ, Much money. Quid rei est? What is the matter?

Obs. 1. This manner of expression is more elegant than Multa pecunia, and therefore is much used by the best writers; as, Plus eloquen- tiæ, minus sapientiæ, tantum fidei, id negotii; Quicquid erat patrum, reor dicĕres. Liv. Id loci; Ad hoc ætātis, Sallust.

Obs. 2. The adjectives which thus govern the genitive like substantives, generally signify quantity; as, multum, plus, plurĭmum, tantum, quantum, minus, minĭmum, &c. To which add, hoc, illud, istud, id, quid, aliquid, quidvis, quiddam, &c. Plus and quid almost always govern the genitive, and therefore by some are thought to be substantives.

Obs. 3. Nihil, and these neuter pronouns quid, aliquid, &c. elegantly govern neuter adjectives of the first and second declension in the genitive; as, nihil sincēri, no sincerity; but seldom govern in this manner adjectives of the third declension, particularly those which end in is and e; as, Nequid hostīle timērent, not hostĭlis: we find, however, quicquid civĭlis. Liv. v. 3.

Obs. 4. Plural adjectives of the neuter gender also govern the genitive, commonly the genitive plural; as, Angusta viārum, Opāca locōrum, Tellūris operta, loca being understood. So, Amāra curārum, acūta belli, sc. negotia. Horat. An adjective, indeed, of any gender may have a genitive after it, with a substantive understood; as, Amīcus Cæsāris, Patria Ulyssis, &c.

Opus and Usus.

IX. Opus and Usus, signifying need, require the ablative; as,

Est opus pecuniâ, There is need of money; Usus virĭbus, Need of strength.

Obs. 1. Opus and usus are substantive nouns, and do not govern the ablative of themselves, but by some preposition, as pro or the like, understood. They sometimes also, although more rarely, govern the genitive; as, Lectiōnis opus est. Quinct. Opĕræ usus est. Liv.

Obs. 2. Opus is often construed like an indeclinable adjective; as, Dux nobis opus est. We need a general. Cic. Dices nummos mihi opus esse, Id. Nobis exempla opus sunt, Id.

Obs. 3. Opus is elegantly joined with the perfect participle; as, Opus maturāto, Need of haste; Opus consulto, Need of deliberation; Quid facto usus est? Ter. The participle has sometimes a substantive joined with it; as, Mihi opus fuit Hirtio convento, It behoved me to meet with Hirtius. Cic.

Obs. 4. Opus is sometimes joined with the infinitive, or the subjunctive with ut; as, Siquid forte, sit. quod opus sit sciri. Cic. Nunc tibi opus est, ægram ut te adsimŭles. Plaut. Sive opus est imperātre equis. Horat. It is often placed absolutely, i. e. without depending on any other word; as, sic opus est; si opus sit, &c.

II. THE GOVERNMENT OF ADJECTIVES.

1. Adjectives governing the Genitive.

X. Verbal adjectives, or such as imply an operation of the mind, govern the genitive; as,

Avĭdus gloriæ, Desirous of glory. Ignārus fraudis, Ignorant of fraud. Memor beneficiōrum, Mindful of favours.

To this rule belong, I. Verbal adjectives in AX: as, capax, edax, ferax, tenax, pertĭnax, &c. and certain participial adjectives in NS and TUS; as, amans, appĕtens, cupiens, insŏlens, sciens; consultus, doctus, expertus, insuētus, insolĭtus, &c. II. Adjectives expressing various affections of the mind; 1. Desire, as, avārus, cupĭdus, studiōsus, &c. 2. Knowledge, ignorance, and doubting; as, callĭdus, certus, certior, conscius, gnarus, perītus, prudens, &c. Ignārus, incertus, inscius, imprūdens, imperītus, immĕmor, rudis: ambiguus, dubius, suspensus, &c. 3. Care and diligence, and the contrary; as, anxius, curiōsus, solicĭtus, provĭdus, dilĭgens; incuriōsus, secūrus, neglĭgens, &c 4. Fear and confidence; as, formidolōsus, pavĭdus, timĭdus, trepĭdus; impavĭdus, interrĭtus, intrepĭdus. 5. Guilt and innocence; as, noxius, reus, suspectus, compertus; innoxius, innŏcens, insons.

To these add many adjectives of various significations; as, æger animi; ardens, audax, aversus, diversus, egregius, erectus, falsus, felix, fessus, furens, ingens, intĕger, lætus, præstans animi; modĭcus voti; intĕger vitæ; seri studiōrum. Hor. But we say, æger pedĭbus, ardens in cupiditatĭbus, præstans doctrīnâ, modĭcus cultu; Lætus negotio, de re, or propter rem, &c. and never æger pedum, &c.

Obs. 1. Verbals in NS are used both as adjectives and participles; thus, patiens algōris, able to bear cold; and patiens algōrem, actually bearing cold. So, amans virtūtis and amans virtūtem; doctus grammatĭcæ, skilled in grammar; doctus grammatĭcam, one who has learned it.

Obs. 2. Many of these adjectives vary their construction; as, avĭdus in pecuniis. Cic. Avidior ad rem. Ter. Jure consultus & perītus, or juris. Cic. Rudis litterārum, in jure civĭli. Cic. Rudis arte, ad mala Ovid. Doctus Latīnè, Latīnis litĕris. Cic. Assuētus labōre, in omnia. Liv. Mensæ herĭli. Virg. Insuētus morĭbus Romānis, in the dat. Liv. Labōris, ad onĕra portanda. Cæs. Desuētus bello et triumphis, in the dat. or abl. rather the dat. Virg. Anxius, solicĭtus, secūrus, de re aliquâ, dilĭgens, in, ad, de. Cic. Neglĭgens in alĭquem, in or de re: Reus de vi, crimĭnĭbus. Cic. Certior factus de re, rather than rei. Cic.

Obs. 3. The genitive after these adjectives is thought to be governed by causâ, in re, or in negotio, or some such word understood; as, Cupĭdus laudis, i. e. causâ or in re laudis, desirous of praise, that is, on account of, or in the matter of praise. But many of the adjectives themselves may be supposed to contain in their own signification the force of a substantive; thus, studiōsus pecuniæ, fond of money, is the same with habens studium pecuniæ, having a fondness for money.

XI. Partitives, and words placed partitively, comparatives, superlatives, interrogatives, and some numerals, govern the genitive plural; as,

Alĭquis philosophōrum,	Some one of the philosophers.
Senior fratrum,	The elder of the brothers.
Doctissĭmus Romanōrum,	The most learned of the Romans

Quis nostrum?	Which of us?
Una musārum,	One of the muses.
Octāvus sapientūm,	The eighth of the wise men.

Adjectives are called Partitives, or are said to be placed partitively, when they signify a part of any number of persons or things, having after them in English, of or among; as, alius, nullus, solus, &c. quis and qui, with their compounds: also Comparatives, Superlatives, and some Numerals; as, unus, duo, tres; primus, secundus, &c. To these add multi, pauci, plerīque, medius.

Obs. 1. Partitives, &c. agree in gender with the substantive which they have after them in the genitive; but when there are two substantives of different genders, the partitive, &c. rather agrees with the former; as, Indus flumĭnum maxĭmus. Cic. Rarely with the latter; as, Delphīnus animalium velocissĭmum. Plin. The genitive here is governed by ex numĕro, or by the same substantive understood in the singular number; as, Nulla sorōrum, scil. soror, or ex numĕro sorōrum.

Obs. 2. Partitives, &c. are often otherwise construed with the prepositions de, e, ex, or in; as, Unus de fratrĭbus; or by the poets, with ante or inter; as, Pulcherrĭmus ante omnes, for omnium. Virg. Primus inter omnes. Id.

Obs. 3. Partitives, &c. govern collective nouns in the genitive singular, and are of the same gender with the individuals of which the collective noun is composed; as, Vĭr fortissĭmus nostræ civitātis. Cic. Maxĭmus stirpis. Liv. Ultĭmos orbis Britannos. Horat. Od. i. 35, 29.

Obs. 4. Comparatives are used, when we speak of two; Superlatives when we speak of more than two; as, Major fratrum, The elder of the brothers, meaning two; Maxĭmus fratrum, The eldest of the brothers, meaning more than two. In like manner, uter, alter, neuter, are applied with regard to two; quis, unus, alius, nullus, with regard to three or more; as, Uter vestrum, Whether or which of you two, Quis vestrum, Which of you three; but these are sometimes taken promiscuously, the one for the other.

2. Adjectives governing the Dative.

XII. Adjectives signifying profit or disprofit, likeness or unlikeness, &c. govern the dative; as,

Utĭlis bello,	Profitable for war.
Perniciōsus reipublĭcæ,	Hurtful to the commonwealth.
Simĭlis patri,	Like to his father.

Or thus, Any adjective may govern the dative in Latin, which has the signs TO or FOR after it in English.

To this rule belong;

1. Adjectives of profit or disprofit; as, Benignus, bonus, commŏdus, felix, fructuōsus, prosper, salŭber.—Calamitōsus, damnōsus, dirus, exitiōsus, funestus, incommŏdus, malus, noxius, perniciōsus, pestĭfer.

2. Of pleasure or pain; as, Acceptus, dulcis, gratus, gratiōsus, jucundus, lætus, suavis.—Acerbus, amārus, insuāvis, injucundus, ingrātus, molestus, tristis.

3. Of friendship or hatred; as, Addictus, æquus, āmīcus, benevŏlus, blandus, carus, dedĭtus, fidus, fidēlis, lenis, mitis, propitius.—Adversus, æmŭlus, asper, crudēlis, contrarius, infensus, infestus, infĭdus, immītis, inimīcus, inīquus, invīsus, invĭdus, irātus, odiōsus, suspectus, trux.

4. Of clearness or obscurity; as, Apertus, certus, compertus, conspicuus, manifestus, notus, perspicuus.——Ambiguus, dubius, ignōtus, incertus, obscūrus.

5. Of nearness; as, Finitĭmus, propior, proxĭmus, propinquus, socius, vicīnus.

6. Of fitness or unfitness; as, Aptus, appositus, accommodātus, habĭlis, idoneus, opportūnus.——Ineptus, inhabĭlis, importūnus, inconveniens.

7. Of ease or difficulty; as, Facĭlis, levis, obvius, pervius.——Difficĭlis, arduus, gravis, laboriōsus, periculōsus, invius. To these add such as signify propensity or readiness; as, Pronus, proclīvis, propensus, promptus, parātus.

8. Of equality or inequality; as, Æquālis, æquævus, par, compar, suppar.——Inequālis, impar, dispar, discors. Also of likeness or unlikeness; as, Simĭlis, æmŭlus, gemīnus.——Dissimĭlis, absŏnus, aliēnus, diversus, discŏlor.

9. Several adjectives compounded with CON; as, Cognātus, concŏlor. concors, confīnis, congruus, consanguineus, consentaneus, consŏnus, conveniens, contiguus, continuus, contĭnens, contiguous; as, Mari aër contĭnens est. Cic.

To these add many other adjectives of various significations; as, obnoxius, subjectus, supplex, credŭlus, absurdus, decōrus, deformis, præsto, indecl. at hand, secundus, &c.—particularly

Verbals in BILIS and DUS govern the dative; as,

Amandus or amabĭlis omnĭbus, To be loved by all men.

So Mors est terribĭlis malis; Optabĭlis omnĭbus pax; Adhibenda est nobis diligentia. Cic. Semel omnĭbus calcanda est via lethi. Hor. Also some participles of the perfect tense; as, Bella matrĭbus detestāta, hated by. Hor.

Verbals in DUS are often construed with the prep. a; as, Deus est venerandus et colendus a nobis. Cic. Perfect participles are usually so; as, Mors Crassi est a multis deflēta, rather than multis deflēta. Cic. A te invitātus, rogātus, proditus, &c. hardly ever tibi.

Obs. 1. The dative is properly not governed by adjectives, nor by any other part of speech; but put after them, to express the object to which their signification refers.

The particle to in English is often to be supplied; as, Simĭlis patri, Like his father, to being understood.

Obs. 2. Substantives have likewise sometimes a dative after them; as, Ille est pater, dux, or filius mihi, He is father, leader, or son to me; so, Præsidium reis, decus amīcis, &c. Hor. Exitium pecŏri. Virg. Virtutĭbus hostis. Cic.

Obs. 3. The following adjectives have sometimes the dative after them, and sometimes the genitive; Affīnis, simĭlis, communis, par, proprius, finitĭmus, fidus, contermĭnus, superstes, conscius, æquālis, contrarius, and adversus; as, Simĭlis tibi, or tui Superstes patri, or patris; Conscius facinŏri, or facinŏris. Conscius and some others frequently govern both the genitive and dative; as, Mens sibi conscia recti. We say, Simīles, dissimīles, pares, dispăres, æquāles, commūnes, inter se: Par & commūnis cum alīquo. Civĭtas secum ipsa discors; discordes ad alia. Liv.

Obs. 4. Adjectives signifying usefulness, or fitness, and the contrary, have after them the dative or the accusative with a preposition; as,

Utĭlis, inutĭlis, aptus, ineptus, accommodātus, idoneus, habĭlis, inhabĭlis, opportūnus, conveniens, &c. alĭcui rei, or ad alīquid. Many other adjectives governing the dative are likewise construed with prepositions; as, ăttentus quæsītis. Hor. Attentus ad rem. Ter.

Obs. 5. Of adjectives which denote friendship or hatred, or any other affection of the mind towards any one. I. Some are usually construed with the dative only; as, Affabĭlis, arrŏgans, asper, carus, difficĭlis, fidēlis, invīsus, irātus, offensus, suspectus, ALICUI. II. Some with the preposition IN and the accusative; as, Acerbus, animātus, benefĭcus, gratiōsus, injuriōsus, liberālis, mendax, miserĭcors, officiōsus, pius, impius, prolixus, sevĕrus, sordĭdus, torvus, vehĕmens, IN ALIQUEM. III. Some either with the dative, or with the accus. and the preposition IN, ERGA, or ADVERSUS, going before; as, Contūmax, criminōsus, durus, exĭtiabĭlis, gravis, hospitālis, implacabĭlis, (and perhaps also inexorabĭlis & intolerabĭlis) inīquus, sævus, ALICUI or IN ALIQUEM. Benevŏlus, benignus, molestus, ALICUI or ERGA ALIQUEM. Mītis, comis; IN, or ERGA ALIQUEM and ALICUI. Pervĭcax ADVERSUS ALIQUEM. Crudēlis, IN ALIQUEM, seldom ALICUI. Amīcus, æmŭlus, infensus, infestus, ALICUI, seldom in ALIQUEM. Gratus ALICUI, or IN, ERGA, ADVERSUS ALIQUEM. We say alīenus alĭcui or alĭcujus; but oftener ab alīquo, and sometimes alīquo without the preposition.

AUDIENS is construed with two datives; as, Regi dicto audiens erat, he was obedient to the king; not regis; Dicto audiens fuit jussis magistratuum. Nep. Nobis dicto audientes sunt, not dictis. Cic.

Obs. 6. Adjectives signifying motion or tendency to a thing, have usually after them the accusative with the preposition ad or in, seldom the dative; as,

Pronus, propensus, proclīvis, celer, tardus, piger, &c. ad iram, or in iram.

Obs. 7. Propior and proxĭmus, in imitation of their primitive prope, often govern the accusative; as, Propior montem, scil. ad. Sall. Proxĭmus finem. Liv.

Obs. 8. IDEM sometimes has the dative, chiefly in the poets; as, Invītum qui servat, idem facit occidenti. Hor. Jupĭter omnĭbus idem. Virg. Eădem illis censēmus. Cic. But in prose we commonly find, idem, qui, et, ac, atque, and also ut, cum; as, Peripatetĭci, quondam ĭidem erant qui Academĭci. Cic. Est animus erga te, idem ac fuit. Ter. Diānam et Lunam eandem esse putant. Cic. Idem faciunt, ut, &c. In eŏdem loco mecum. Cic. But it would be improper to say of the same person or thing under different names, idem cum; as, Luna eădem est cum Diāna.

We likewise say, alius, ac, atque, or et; and sometimes simĭlis & par

3. Adjectives governing the Ablative.

XIII. These adjectives, dignus, indignus, contentus, prædĭtus, captus, and fretus; also natus, satus, ortus, edĭtus, and the like, govern the ablative; as,

Dignus honōre, Worthy of honour. Captus oculis, Blind. [strength. Contentus parvo, Content with little. Fretus virĭbus, Trusting to his Prædĭtus virtūte, Endued with virtue. Ortus regĭbus, Descended of kings. So generātus, creātus, cretus, prognātus, oriundus, procreātus regĭbus.

Obs. 1. The ablative after these adjectives is governed by some preposition understood; as, Contentus parvo, scil. cum; Fretus virĭbus, scil. in, &c. Sometimes the preposition is expressed; as, Ortus ex concubīna. Sallust. Edĭtus de nymphâ. Ovid.

Obs. 2. Dignus, indignus, and contentus, have sometimes the genitive after them; as, dignus avōrum. Virg. So Macte esto or macti estōte virtūtis or virtūte, Increase in virtue, or Go on and prosper; Jubĕrem macte virtūte esse, sc. te. Liv. ii. 12. In the last example macte seems to be used adverbially.

4. Adjectives governing the Genitive or Ablative.

XIV. Adjectives of plenty or want govern the genitive or ablative; as,

Plenus iræ or irâ, Full of anger, Inops rationis or ratiōne, Void of reason.

So Non inŏpes tempŏris, sed prodĭgi sumus. Sen. Lentŭlus non verbis inops. Cic. Dei plena sunt omnia. Cic. Maxĭma quæque domus servis est plena superbis. Juv. Res est solĭcĭti plena timōris amor. Ovid. Amor et melle et felle est fœcundissĭmus. Plaut. Fœcunda virōrum paupertas fugĭtur. Lucan. Omnium consiliōrum ejus partĭceps. Curt. Homo ratiōne partĭceps. Cic. Nihil insidĭis vacuum. Id. Vacuas cædis habēte manus. Ovid

Some of these adjectives are construed, 1. with the genitive only; as, Benignus, exsors, impos, impŏtens, irrĭtus, liberālis, munĭficus, prælargus.

2. With the ablative only; Beātus, differtus, frugĭfer, mutĭlus, tentus, distentus, tumĭdus, turgĭdus.

3. With the genitive more frequently; Compos, consors, egēnus, ex hæres, expers, fertĭlis, indĭgus, parcus, pauper, prodĭgus, sterĭlis.

4. With the ablative more frequently; Abundans, cassus, exterris, fœtus, frequens, gravis, gravĭdus, jejūnus, liber, locuples, nudus, onerātus, onustus, orbus, pollens, solūtus, truncus, viduus, and captus.

5. With both promiscuously; Copiōsus, dives, fœcundus, ferax, immūnis, inānis, inops, largus, modĭcus, immodĭcus, nimius, opulentus, plenus, potens, refertus, satur, vacuus, uber.

6. With a preposition; as, Copiōsus, firmus, parātus, imparātus, inops, instructus, a re aliquâ; for quod ad rem aliquam attinet, in or with respect to any thing. Extorris ab solo patrio, banished; Orba ab optimatĭbus concio. Liv. So pauper, tenuis, fœcundus, modĭcus, parcus, in re aliquâ. Immūnis, inānis, liber, nudus, solūtus, vacuus, a re aliquâ. Potens ad rem, & in re.

III. THE GOVERNMENT OF VERBS

§ 1. VERBS GOVERNING ONLY ONE CASE.

1. Verbs which govern the Genitive.

XV. Sum, when it signifies possession, property, or duty, governs the genitive; as,

Est regis, It belongs to the king; It is the part or property of a king.

So Insipientis est dicĕre, Non putâram, It is the part or property of a fool, &c. Militum est suo duci parēre. It is the part or duty of soldiers, &c. Laudāre se vani, vituperāre stulti est. Sen. Hominis est errāre; Arrogantis est negligĕre quid de se quisque sentiat. Cic. Pecus est Melibœi. Virg. Hæc sunt hominis. Ter. Paupĕris est numerāre pecus. Ovid. Temerĭtas est florentis ætātis, prudentia senectūtis. Cic.

¶ Meum, tuum, suum, nostrum, vestrum, are excepted; as,

Tuum est, It is your duty. Scio tuum esse, I know that it is your duty.

Obs. 1. These possessive pronouns are used in the neuter gender instead of their substantives, mei, tui, sui, nostri, vestri. Other possessives are also construed in this manner; as, Est regium, est humānum, the same with est regis, est hominis. Et facĕre et pati fortia, Romānum est. Liv. ii. 12.

Obs. 2. Here some substantive must be understood; as, officium, munus, res, negotium, opus, &c. which are sometimes expressed; as, Munus est principum; Tuum est hoc munus. Cic. Neutĭquam officium libĕri esse hominis puto. Ter. In some cases the preceding substantive may be repeated; as, Hic liber est (liber) fratris. In like manner, some substantive must be supplied in such expressions as these; Ea sunt modo gloriōsa, neque patrandi belli, scil. causâ or facta. Sall. Nihil tam æquandæ libertātis est, for ad æquandam libertātem pertĭnet. Liv.

Obs. 3. We say, Hoc est tuum munus, or tui munĕris; So mos est or fuit, or moris, or in more. Cic.

XVI. Miserĕor, miseresco, and satăgo, govern the genitive; as,

Miserēre civium tuōrum, Pity your countrymen.

Satăgit rerum suārum, He has his hands full at home, or has enough to do about his own affairs.

Obs. 1. Several other verbs among the poets govern the genitive by a Greek construction, particularly such as signify some affection of the mind; as, Ango, decipior, desipio, discrucior, excrucio, fallo & fallor, fastidio, invideo, lætor, miror, pendeo, studeo, vereor; as, Ne angas te animi. Plaut. Labōrum decipĭtur. Hor. Discrucior animi. Ter. Pendet mihi animus, pendeo animi vel animo; but we always say, Pendēmus animis, not animōrum, are in suspense. Cic. Justitiæ prius mirer. Virg. In like manner, Abstineo, desĭno, desisto, quiesco, regno: likewise, adipiscor, condīco, credo, frustror, furo, laudo, libĕro, levo, particĭpo, prohibeo as, Abstinēto irārum; Desīne querelārum; Regnāvit populōrum. Hor. Desistēre pugnæ. Virg. Quarum rerum condixit. Liv.

But all these verbs are for the most part differently construed; thus, Angor, desipio, discrucior, fallor, animo. Hoc animum meum excruciat. Fastidio, miror, vereor, aliquem, or aliquid. Lætor aliquā re. Some of them are joined with the infinitive; or with quòd, ut, ne, and the subjunctive.

In like manner we usually say, Desīno aliquid, & ab aliquo, to give over; Desisto incepto, de negotio, ab illâ mente; Quiesco a labōre; Regnāre in equitibus, oppĭdis, sc. in. Cic. Per urbes. Virg. Adipisci id; Frustrāri in re; Furĕre de aliquo. Cic.

Obs. 2. The genitive after verbs, in the same manner as after adjectives, is governed by some substantive understood. This substantive is different according to the different meaning of the verbs; thus, Misereor fratris, scil. causâ; Angor animi, scil. dolōre or anxietāte.

2. Verbs governing the Dative.

XVII. Any verb may govern the dative in Latin, which has the signs TO or FOR after it in English; as,

Finis vēnit imperio,	An end has come to the empire. Liv.
Animus redit hostĭbus,	Courage returns to the enemy. Id.
Tibi seris, tibĭ metis,	You sow for yourself, you reap for yourself. Plaut.

So, Non nobis solum nati sumus. Cic. Multa malè eveniunt bonis. Id. Sol lucet etiam scelerātis. Sen. Hæret latĕri lethālis arundo. Virg.

But as the dative after verbs in Latin is not always rendered in English by to or for; nor are these particles always the sign of the dative in Latin, it will be necessary to be more particular.

I. Sum and its compounds govern the dative (except possum); as,

Præfuit exercitui,	He commanded the army.
Adfuit precĭbus,	He was present at prayers.

¶ EST taken for Habeo, to have, governs the dative of a person; as,

Est mihi liber,	A book is to me, that is, I have a book.
Sunt mihi libri,	Books are to me, i. e. I have books.
Dico libros esse mihi,	I say that I have books.

This is more frequently used than habeo librum; habeo libros. In like manner DEEST instead of careo; as, Liber deest mihi, I want a book; Libri desunt mihi; Scio libros deesse mihi, &c.

II. Verbs compounded with SATIS, BENE, and MALE, govern the dative; as,

Satisfacio, satisdo, benefacio, benedīco, benevŏlo, malefacio, maledīco, tibi, &c.

III. Many verbs compounded with these ten prepositions,

AD, ANTE, CON, IN, INTER, OB, POST, PRÆ, SUB, and SUPER, govern the dative; as,

Obs. 1. Verbs governing the dative only are either neuter verbs, or of a neuter signification. Active verbs governing the dative have also an accusative expressed or understood.

Obs. 2. Most verbs governing the dative only have been enumerated, because there are a great many verbs compounded with prepositions, which do not govern the dative, but are otherwise construed; and still more signifying advantage or disadvantage, &c. which govern the accusative; as, Levo, erĭgo, alo, nutrio, amo, dilĭgo, vexo, crucio, aversor, &c. aliquem, not alĭcui.

Obs. 3. Many of these verbs are variously construed; particularly such as are compounded with a preposition; as,

To these may be added verbs, which chiefly among the poets govern the dative, but in prose are usually construed with a preposition; as, 1. Contendo, certo, bello, pugno, concurro, coeo, alĭcui, for cum alĭquo; 2. Distāre, dissentīre, discrepāre, dissidēre, differre rei alĭcui, for a re aliquâ. We also say, Contendunt, pugnant, distant, &c. inter se; and contendĕre, pugnāre contra, & adversus alĭquem.

Obs. 4. Many verbs vary both their signification and construction; as, Timeo, metuo, formīdo, horreo tibi, de te, & pro te, I am afraid for you, or for your safety; but timeo, horreo te, or a te, I fear or dread you as an enemy: So, Consŭlo, prospicio, caveo tibi, I consult, or provide for your safety; but consŭlo te, I ask your advice; prospicio hoc, I foresee this: Studēre alĭquid, to desire; alĭcui, to favour; alĭcui rei, rem, & in re, to apply to a thing. So, Æmŭlor tibi, I envy; te, I imitate; Ausculto tibi, I obey or listen to; te, I hear; Cupio tibi, I favour, rem, I desire; Fœnĕro, & -or tibi, I lend you on interest; abs te, I borrow Metuisti, ne non tibi istuc fœnerāret, should not return with interest, or bring usury. Ter. And thus many other verbs, which will be afterwards explained.

Obs. 5. Verbs signifying Motion or Tendency to a thing are construed with the preposition ad; as,

Eo, vado, curro, propĕro, festīno, pergo, fugio, tendo, vergo, inclīno, &c. ad locum, rem, or hominem. Sometimes, however, in the poets, they are construed with the dative: as, It clamor cœlo, for ad cœlum. Virg.

3. Verbs governing the Accusative.

XVIII. A Verb signifying actively governs the accusative; as,

Ama Deum, Love God. Reverēre parentes, Reverence your parents.

Obs. 1. Neuter verbs also govern the accusative, when the noun after them has a signification similar to their own; as, Ire iter or viam; Pugnāre pugnam or prœlium; Currĕre cursum; Canĕre cantilēnam; Vivĕre vitam; Ludĕre ludum; Sequi sectam; Somniāre somnium, &c. Or when they are taken in a metaphorical sense; as, Corȳdon ardĕbat Alexin, scil. propter, i. e. vehementer amābat. Virg. Currĭmus æquor, scil. per. Id. So, Comptos arsit adulteri crines. Hor. Saltāre Cyclōpa; Olet hircum; Sulcos et vinēta crepat mera. Hor. Vox hominem sonat; Sudāre mella. Virg. Callēre jura; Mœrēre mortem; Horret irātum mare. Hor.

Sometimes, instead of the accusative, neuter verbs have an ablative; as, Ire itinĕre; dolēre dolōre, vicem ejus; gaudēre gaudio; mori or obīre morte; vivĕre vitâ; ardet virgĭne. Horat. Ludĕre aleam, or -â; manāre, pluĕre, rorāre, stillāre, sudāre, alĭquid or alĭquo. Erubescĕre jura. Virg. origĭne. Tacit. equo vehi. Curt.

Obs. 2. Several verbs are used both in an active and neuter sense; as, Abhorrēre famam, to dread infamy. Liv. a litĭbus: ab uxōre ducendâ, to be averse from. Id. a meis morĭbus abhorret, is inconsistent with. Cic.

Abolēre monumenta viri, to abolish. Virg. illis cladis Caudĭnæ nondum memoria abolevĕrat, was not effaced from, they had not forgotten. Liv.

Suppeditāre copiam dicendi, to furnish; Sumptus illi, or illi sumptībus. Ter. suppedītat æratio, is afforded; Manubiæ in fundamenta vix suppeditārunt, were sufficient. Liv.

Obs. 3. These accusatives, hoc, id, quid, alĭquid, quicquid, nihil, idem, illud, tantum, quantum, multa, pauca, &c. are often joined with neuter verbs, having the prepositions circa or propter understood; as, Id lacrŭmat, Id succenset. Ter.

Obs. 4. The accusative is often understood; Tum prora avertit, sc. se. Virg. Flumĭna præcipĭtant, sc. se. Id. Quòcumque intendĕrat, sc. se, turned or directed himself. Sall. Obiit, sc. mortem. Ter. Cum faciam vitŭlâ, sc. sacra. Virg. Or its place supplied by an infinitive or part of a sentence; as, Reddes dulce loqui, reddes ridēre decōrum; for dulcem sermōnem, decōrum risum. Hor.

XIX. Recordor, memĭni, reminiscor, and *oblivisco*r, govern the accusative or genitive; as,

Recordor lectiōnis, or lectiōnem, I remember the lesson.
Obliviscor injuriæ or injuriam, I forget an injury.

Obs. 1. These verbs are often construed with the infinitive or some part of a sentence; as, Memĭni vidēre virginem. Ter. Oblītus est, quid paulo ante posuisset. Cic.

Obs. 2. Memĭni, when it signifies to make mention, is joined with the genitive, or the ablative with the preposition de; as, Memĭni alicujus, or de alīquo. So, recordor, when it signifies to recollect; as, Velim scire ecquid, de te recordēre. Cic.

4. Verbs governing the Ablative.

XX. Verbs of plenty and scarceness for the most part govern the ablative; as,

Abundat divitiis, He abounds in riches.
Caret omni culpâ, He has no fault.

Verbs of plenty are, Abundo, affluo, exubĕro, redundo, suppedĭto, scateo, &c.; of want, Careo, egeo, indĭgeo, vaco, deficior, destituor, &c.

Obs. 1. Egeo and indigeo frequently govern the genitive; as, Eget æris, He needs money. Hor. Non tam artis indĭgent, quam labōris. Cic.

Obs. 2. The ablative after these verbs is governed by some preposition understood; and sometimes we find it expressed; as, Vacat a culpâ, He is free from fault. Liv.

XXI. Utor, abūtor, fruor, fungor, potior, vescor, govern the ablative; as,

Utĭtur fraude, He uses deceit. Abutĭtur libris, He abuses books.

To these add, gaudeo, creor, nascor, fido, vivo, victito, conste; labōro, for male me habeo, to be ill; pascor, epŭlor, nitor, &c.

Obs. 1. Potior often governs the genitive; as, Potīri urbis. Sall. And we always say, Potīri rerum, to possess the chief command, never rebus; imperio being understood.

Obs. 2. Potior, fungor, vescor, epŭlor, and pascor, sometimes have an accusative; as, Potīri urbem. Cic. Officia fungi. Ter. Munĕra fungi. Tac. Pascuntur silvas. Virg. And in ancient writers utor, abūtor, and fruor; as, Uti consilium. Plaut. Opĕram abutītur. Ter. Depasco and depascor always take an accusative; as, Depascītur artus. Virg.

§ 2. VERBS GOVERNING TWO CASES.

1. Verbs governing two Datives.

XXII. Sum used instead of affĕro (to bring) governs two datives, the one of a person, and the other of a thing; as,

Est mihi voluptāti,	It is, or brings, a pleasure to me.

Two datives are also put after habeo, do, verto, relinquo, tribuo, fore, duco, and some others; as,

Ducītur honōri tibi, It is reckoned an honour to you. Id vertītur mihi vitio, I am blamed for that. So, Misit mihi munĕri; Dedit mihi dono; Habet sibi laudi; Venīre, occurrĕre auxilio alīcui. Liv.

Obs. 1. Instead of the dative, we often use the nominative, or the accusative; as, Est exitium pecŏri, for exitio; Dare aliquid alīcui donum, or dono; Dare filiam ei nuptam, or nuptui. When dare and other active verbs have two datives after them, they likewise govern an accusative either expressed or understood; as, Dare crimīni pi, &c. id.

Obs. 2. The dative of the person is often to be supplied; as, Est exemplo, indicio, præsidio, usui, &c. scil. mihi, alīcui, hominĭbus, or some such word. So, ponĕre, opponĕre pignŏri, sc. alīcui, to pledge. Canĕre receptui, sc. suis militĭbus, to sound a retreat; Habēre curæ quæstui, odio, voluptāti, religiōni, studio, ludibrio, despicatui, &c. sc. sibi.

Obs. 3. To this rule belong forms of naming; as, Est mihi nomen Alexandro, my name is Alexander; or with the nominative, Est mihi nomen Alexander; or more rarely with the genitive, Est mihi nomen Alexandri.

2. Verbs governing the Accusative and the Genitive.

XXIII. Verbs of accusing, condemning, acquitting, and admonishing, govern the accusative of a person with the genitive of a thing; as,

Arguit me furti,	He accuses me of theft.
Meipsum inertiæ condemno,	I condemn myself of laziness.
Illum homicidii absolvunt,	They acquit him of manslaughter.
Monet me officii,	He admonishes me of my duty.

Verbs of accusing are, Accūso, ago, appello, arcesso, inquīro, arguo, defĕro, insimŭlo, postŭlo, allīgo, astringo; of condemning, Damno, condemno, infāmo, noto; of acquitting, Absolvo, libĕro, purgo: of admonishing, Moneo, admoneo, commonefacio.

Obs. 1. Verbs of accusing and admonishing, instead of the genitive, frequently have after them an ablative, with the preposition de; as, Monēre aliquem officii, or de officio; Accusāre aliquem furti, or de furto. De vi condemnāti sunt. Cic.

Obs. 2. Crimen and caput are put either in the genitive or ablative; but in the ablative usually without a preposition; as, Damnāre, postulāre, absolvĕre eum crimĭnis, or capĭtis; and crimĭne, or capĭte; also Absolvo me peccāto. Liv. And we always say, Plectĕre, punīre aliquem capĭte, and not capĭtis, to punish one capitally, or with death.

Obs. 3. Many verbs of accusing, &c. are not construed with the acc. of a person, and the gen. of a thing, but the contrary: thus we say, Culpo, reprehendo, taxo, tradūco, vitupĕro, calumnior, crimĭnor, excūso, &c. avaritiam alicujus, and not aliquem avaritiæ. We sometimes also find accūso, incūso, &c. construed in this manner; as, Accusāre inertiam adolescentium, for adolescentes inertiæ. Cic. Culpam arguo. Liv. We say, Agĕre cum aliquo furti, rather than aliquem, to accuse one of theft. Cic.

Obs. 4. Verbs of accusing and admonishing sometimes govern two accusatives, when joined with hoc, illud, istud, id, unum, multa, &c. as, Moneo, accūso, te illud. We seldom find, however, Errōrem te moneo, but errōris or de errōre; except in old writers, as Plautus.

XXIV. Verbs of valuing, with the accusative, govern such genitives as these, magni, parvi, nihĭli; as,

Æstĭmo te magni, I value you much.

Verbs of valuing are, Æstĭmo, existĭmo, duco, facio, habeo, pendo, puto, taxo. They govern several other genitives; as, tanti, quanti, pluris, majōris, minōris, minĭmi, plurĭmi, maxĭmi, nauci, pili, assis, nihĭli, teruncii, hujus.

Obs. 1. Æstĭmo sometimes governs the ablative; as, Æstĭmo te magno, permagno, parvo, scil. pretio: and also nihĭlo. We likewise say, Pro nihĭlo habeo, puto, duco.

Obs. 2. Æqui and boni are put in the genitive after facio and consŭlo; as, Hoc consŭlo boni, æqui bonique facio, I take this in good part.

Obs. 3. The genitive after all these verbs is governed by some substantive understood; as, Arguĕre aliquem furti, scil. de crimĭne furti; Æstĭmo rem magni, scil. pretii, or pro re magni pretii: Consŭlo boni, i. e. statuo or censeo esse factum, or munus boni viri, or animi; Monēre aliquem officii, i. e. officii causā, or de re or negotio officii.

3. Verbs governing the Accusative and the Dative.

XXV. Verbs of comparing, giving, declaring, and taking away, govern the accusative and dative; as,

Compāro Virgilium Homēro, I compare Virgil to Homer.
Suum cuique tribŭo, Give every one his own.
Narras fabŭlam surdo, You tell a story to a deaf man.
Eripŭi me morti, He rescued me from death.

Or,—ANY ACTIVE VERB MAY GOVERN THE ACCUSATIVE AND THE DATIVE (when, together with the object of the action, we express the person or thing with relation to which it is exerted); as,

Legam lectiōnem tibi, I will read the lesson to you. Emit librum mihi, He bought a book for me. Sic vos non vobis fertis arātra boves. Virg. Paupertas sæpe suadet mala hominibus, advises men to do bad things. Plaut. Imperāre pecuniam, frumentum, naves, arma aliquibus, to order them to furnish. Cæs.

Obs. 1. Verbs of comparing and taking away, together with some others, are often construed with a preposition; as, Comparāre unam rem cum aliâ, & ad aliam, or comparāre res inter se: Eripuit me morti, morte, a or ex morte: Mittĕre epistŏlam alĭcui, or ad alĭquem: Intendĕre telum alĭcui, or in alĭquem: Incidĕre æri, in æs, or in ære; and so in many others.

Obs. 2. Several verbs governing the dative and accusative, are construed differently; as,

Circumdāre mœnia oppĭdo, or oppĭdum mœnĭbus, to surround a city with walls.

Intercludĕre commeātum alĭcui, or alĭquem commeātu, to intercept one's provisions.

Donāre, prohibĕre rem alĭcui, or alĭquem re, to give one a present, to hinder one from a thing.

Mactāre hostiam Deo, or Deum hostiâ, to sacrifice.

Impertīre salūtem alĭcui, or alĭquem salūte, to salute one.

Interdixit Galliam Romānis, or Romānos Galliâ, he debarred the Romans from Gaul.

Induĕre, exuĕre vestem sibi, or se veste, to put on, to put off one's clothes.

Levāre dolōrem alĭcui; dolōrem alicujus; alĭquem dolōre, to ease one's distress.

Mināri alĭquid alĭcui, or sometimes alĭcui alĭquo. Cic. to threaten one with any thing; Cæsări gladio. Sall.

Gratŭlor tibi hanc rem, hac re, in, pro. & de hac re, I congratulate you on this. Mettus Tullo devictos hostes gratulātur. Liv.

Restituĕre alĭcui sanitātem, or alĭquem sanitāti, to restore to health.

Aspergĕre labem alĭcui, or alĭquem labe, to put an affront on one; aram sanguĭne. Litāre Deum sacris, & sacra Deo, to sacrifice.

Excusāre se alĭcui, & apud alĭquem, de re; valetudĭnem ei.

Exprobrāre vitium ei, or in eo, to upbraid.

Occupāre pecuniam alĭcui, & apud alĭquem, i. e. pecuniam fœnŏri locāre, to place at interest. Cic.

Opponĕre se morti, & ad mortem. Renunciāre id ei, & ad eum, to tell.

Obs. 3. Verbs signifying motion or tendency to a thing, instead of the dative, have an accusative after them, with the preposition ad; as,

Porto, fero, lego, -as, præcipito, tollo, traho, duco, verto, incito, suscito; also, hortor, and invito, voco, provŏco, animo, stimŭlo, conformo, lacesso; thus, Ad laudem milites hortātur; Ad prætōrem hominem traxit. Cic. But after several of these verbs, we also find the dative; as, Inferre bellum Latio, for in Latium. Virg. Invitāre alĭquem hospitio, or in hospitium. Cic.

Obs. 4. The accusative is sometimes understood; as, Nubĕre alĭcui, scil. se; Cedĕre alĭcui, scil. locum; Detrahĕre alĭcui, scil. laudem; Ignoscĕre alĭcui, scil. culpam. And in English the particle to is often omitted; as, Dedit mihi librum, He gave me a book, for to me.

4. Verbs governing two Accusatives.

RULE XXVI. Verbs of asking and teaching govern two accusatives, the one of a person, and the other of a thing; as,

Poscĭmus te pacem, We beg peace of thee.
Docuit me grammatĭcam, He taught me grammar.

1. Verbs of asking, which govern two accusatives, are Rogo, oro, exōro, obsecro, precor, posco, reposco, flagĭto, &c. Of teaching, Doceo, edoceo, dedoceo, erudio.

Obs. 1. Celo likewise governs two accusatives; as, Celāvit me hanc rem, He concealed this matter from me; or otherwise, celāvit hanc rem mihi, or celāvit me de hac re.

Obs. 2. Verbs of asking and teaching are often construed with a preposition; as, Rogāre rem ab alĭquo; Docēre alĭquem de re, to inform; but we do not say, docēre alĭquem de grammatĭca, but grammatĭcam, to teach. And we always say, with a preposition, Peto, exĭgo a or abs te; Percontor, scĭtor, sciscĭtor, ex or a te or te without the preposition; Interrōgo, consulo te de re; Ut facias te obsecro; Exōrat pacem divûm, for divos. Virg. Instruo, instituo, formo, informo alĭquem artĭbus, in the abl. without a prep. Imbuo eum artĭbus, in or ab artĭbus. Also, instruo ad rem or in re, ignorantiam alicujus. Erudīre alĭquem artes, de or in re, ad rem. Formāre ad studium, mentem studiis, studia ejus.

Obs. 3. The accusative of the thing is not properly governed by the verb, but by quod ad or secundum understood.

5. Verbs governing the Accusative and the Ablative.

RULE XXVII. Verbs of loading, binding, clothing, depriving, and some others, govern the accusative and the ablative; as,

Onĕrat naves auro, He loads the ships with gold.

Verbs of loading are, Onĕro, cumŭlo, premo, opprĭmo, obruo. Of unloading, levo, exonĕro, &c. Of binding, astringo, ligo, allĭgo, devincio, impedio, irretio, illaqueo, &c. Of loosing, solvo, exsolvo, libĕro, laxo, expedio, &c. Of depriving, privo, nudo, orbo, spolio, fraudo, emungo. Of clothing, vestio, amicio, induo, cingo, tego, velo, corōno, & calceo. Of unclothing, exuo, discingo, &c.

Obs. 1. The preposition, by which the ablative is governed after these verbs, is sometimes expressed; as, Solvĕre alĭquem ex catēnis. Cic. Sometimes the ablative is to be supplied; as, Complet naves, sc. viris, mans the ships. Virg.

Obs. 2. Several of these verbs likewise govern the genitive; as, Adolescentem suæ temeritātis implet. Liv. And also vary their construction as, Induit, exuit, se vestĭbus, or vestes sibi.

THE CONSTRUCTION OF PASSIVE VERBS.

XXVIII. When a verb in the active voice governs two cases, in the passive it retains the latter case; as,

Accūsor furti,	I am accused of theft.
Virgilius comparātur Homēro,	Virgil is compared to Homer.
Doceor grammaticam,	I am taught grammar.
Navis onerātur auro,	The ship is loaded with gold.

So, Scio homines accusātum iri furti;—Eos ereptum iri morti, morte, a or ex morte;——pueros doctum iri grammaticam;——rem celātum iri mihi, or me; me celātum iri de re, &c.

Sometimes the active has three cases, and then the passive has the two last cases; as, Habētur ludibrio iis.

Obs. 1. Passive verbs are commonly construed with the ablative and the preposition a; as,

Tu laudāris a me, which is equivalent to Ego laudo te. Virtus diligitur a nobis; Nos diligimus virtūtem. Gaudeo meum factum probāri a te, or te probāre meum factum: And so almost all active verbs. Neuter and deponent verbs also admit this preposition; as, Mare a sole collūcet. Cic. Phalāris non a paucis interiit. Id. So, Cadĕre ab hoste; Cessāre a prœliis; Mori ab ense; Pati furāri aliquid ab aliquo, &c. Also, Venire ab hostibus, to be sold; Vapulāre ab aliquo, Exulāre ab urbe. Thus likewise many active verbs; as, Sumĕre, petĕre, tollĕre, pellĕre, expectāre, emĕre, &c. ab aliquo.

The prep. is sometimes understood after passive verbs; as, Deĕror conjŭge. Ovid. Desertus suis, sc. a. Tacit. Tabŭlâ distinguĭtur undâ qui navĭgat, sc. ab undâ, is kept from the water by a plank. Juvenal.

The preposition PER is also used in the same sense with A; as, Per me defensa est respublĭca, or a me; Per me restitūtus; Per me or a me factum est. Cic. But PER commonly marks the instrument, and A the principal efficient cause; as, Res agĭtur per creditōres, a rege, sc. a rege vel a legāto ejus. Cic. Fam. i. 1.

Obs. 2. Passive verbs sometimes govern the dative, especially among the poets; as,

Neque cernĭtur ulli, for ab ullo. Virg. Vix audior ulli. Ovid. Scribĕris Vario, for a Vario. Hor. Honesta bonis viris quæruntur, for a viris. Cic. VIDEOR, to seem, always governs the dative; as, Vidĕris mihi, You seem to me: but we commonly say, Vidĕris a me, You are seen by me; although not always; as, Nulla tuārum audīta mihi, neque visa sorōrum, for a me. Virg.

Obs. 3. Induor, amicior, cingor, accingor, also exuor, and discingor, are often construed with the accusative, particularly among the poets, though we do not find them governing two accusatives in the active voice; as, Indŭitur vestem or veste.

Obs. 4. Neuter verbs are for the most part only used impersonally in the passive voice; unless when they are joined with a noun of a similar signification to their own; as, Pugna pugnāta est. Cic. Bellum militabĭtur. Horat. Passive impersonal verbs are most commonly applied either to a multitude, or to an individual taken indefinitely; as, Statur, fletur, currĭtur, vivĭtur, venītur, &c. a vobis, ab illis, &c. We are standing, weeping, &c. Bene potest vivi a me, or ab aliquo: I or any person may live well. Provisum est nobis optimè a Deo; Reclamātum est ab omnibus, all cried out against it. Cic.

They also govern the same cases as when used personally; as, Ut majoribus natu assurgātur, ut supplicum misereātur. Cic. Except the accusative: for in these phrases, Itur Athēnas, pugnātum est biduum, dormītur totam noctem, the accusative is not governed by the verb, but by the prepositions ad and per understood. We find, however, Tota mihi dormītur hyems; Noctes vigilantur amārae; Oceānus raris ab orbe nostro navibus aditur. Tacit.

THE CONSTRUCTION OF IMPERSONAL VERBS.

XXIX. An Impersonal Verb governs the dative;

Expĕdit reipublĭcæ, It is profitable for the state.

Verbs which in the active voice govern only the dative, are used impersonally in the passive, and likewise govern the dative; as,

Favētur mihi, I am favoured, and not Ego faveor. So, Nocētur mihi, imperātur mihi, &c. We find, however, Hæc ego procurāre impĕror; Ego cur invideor, for imperātur, invidētur mihi. Hor.

Obs. 1. These verbs, Potest, cœpit, incĭpit, desĭnit, debet, and solet, are used impersonally, when joined with impersonal verbs; as,

Non potest credi tibi, You cannot be believed; Mihi non potest nocēri, I cannot be hurt; Negat jucundè posse vivi sine virtūte. Cic. Per virtūtem potest iri ad astra. Aliōrum laudi et gloriæ invidēri solet. The praise and glory of others use to be envied. Id. Neque a fortissimis infirmissimo genĕri resisti posse. Sallust.

Obs. 2. Various verbs are used both personally and impersonally; as, Venit in mentem mihi hæc res, or de hac re, or hujus rei, scil. memoria; This thing came into my mind. Est curæ mihi hæc res, or de hac re. Doleo or dolet mihi, id factum esse.

Obs. 3. The neuter pronoun it is always joined with impersonal verbs in English; as, It rains, it shines, &c. And in the Latin an infinitive is commonly subjoined to impersonal verbs, or the subjunctive with ut, forming a part of a sentence which may be supposed to supply the place of a nominative; as, Nobis non licet peccāre, the same with peccātum; Omnibus bonis expĕdit rempublĭcam esse salvam, i. e. Salus reipublĭcæ expĕdit omnibus bonis. Cic. Accĭdit, evēnit, contĭgit, ut ibi essēmus. These nominatives, hoc, illud, id, idem, quod, &c. are sometimes joined to impersonal verbs; as, idem mihi licet. Cic. Eādem licent. Catull.

Obs. 4. The dative is often understood; as, Faciat quod libet, sc. sibi, Ter. Stat casus renovāre omnes, sc. mihi, I am resolved. Virg.

EXC. I. REFERT and INTEREST govern the genitive; as,

Refert patris, It concerns my father. Intĕrest omnium, It is the interest of all.

¶ But mea, tua, sua, nostra, vestra, are put in the accusative plural neuter; as,

Non mea refert, It does not concern me.

Obs. 1. Some think mea, tua, sua, &c. to be in the ablat. sing. fem. We say either cujus intĕrest, and quorum intĕrest; or cuja intĕrest, from cujus, -a, -um.

Obs. 2. Refert and intĕrest are often joined with these nominatives, Id, hoc, illud, quid, quod, nihil, &c. also with common nouns; and with these genitives, Tanti, quanti, magni, permagni, parvi, pluris; as, Hoc parvi refert; Illud mea magni intĕrest. Cic. Usque adeo magni refert studium. Lucret. Incessus in gravĭdâ refert. Plin.

They are frequently construed with these advĕrbs, Tantum, quantum, multum, plus, plurĭmum, infinĭtum, parum, maxĭmè, vehementer, minĭmè, &c. as, Faciam, quod maxĭmè reipublĭcæ interesse judicābo. Cic. Sometimes instead of the genit. they take the accus. with the prep. ad; as, Quid id ad me, aut ad meam rem refert, Persæ quid rerum gerant? Of what importance is it? &c. Plaut. Magni ad honōrem nostrum intĕrest. Cic.: rarely the dative; as, Dic quid rĕfĕrat intra natūræ fines viventi, &c. Hor. Sometimes they are placed absolutely; as, Magnopĕre intĕrest opprĭmi Dolabellam, it is of great importance. Cic. Permultum intĕrest, qualis primus adĭtus sit. Id. Adeōne est fundāta bonĭter fides, ut ubi sim, quam qui sim, magis rĕfĕrat. Liv. Plurĭmum enim interĕrit, quibus artĭbus, aut quibus hunc tu morĭbus instituas. Juv.

Obs. 3. The genitive after refert and intĕrest, is governed by some substantive understood, with which the possessives mea, tua, sua, &c. likewise agree: as, Intĕrest Cicerōnis, i. e. est inter negotia Cicerōnis: Refert patris, i. e. refert se hæc res ad negotia patris: So, intĕrest mea, est inter negotia mea.

EXC. II. These five, MISERET, PŒNITET, PUDET, TÆDET, and PIGET, govern the accusative of a person with the genitive of a thing; as,

Misĕret me tui,	I pity you.	Tædet me vitæ,	I am weary of life.
Pœnĭtet me peccāti,	I repent of my sin.	Pudet me culpæ,	I am ashamed of my fault.

Obs. 1. The genitive here is properly governed either by negotium understood, or by some other substantive of a signification similar to that of the verb with which it is joined; as, Misĕret me tui, that is, negotium or miseratio tui misĕret me.

Obs. 2. An infinitive or some part of a sentence may supply the place of the genitive; as, Pœnĭtet me peccāsse, or quod peccavĕrim. The accusative is frequently understood; as, Scelĕrum si bene pœnĭtet, scil. nos. Horat.

Obs. 3. Misĕret, pœnĭtet, &c. are sometimes used personally, especially when joined with these nominatives, hoc, id, quod, &c. as, Ipse sui misĕret. Lucr. Nonne hæc te pudent. Ter. Nihil, quod pœnitĕre possit, facias, for cujus te pœnitĕre possit. Cic.

We sometimes find misĕret joined with two accusatives; as, Menedēmi vicem misĕret me, scil. secundum or quod ad. Ter.

Obs. 4. The preterites of misĕret, pudet, tædet, and piget, when used in the passive form, govern the same cases with the active; as, Miser rĭtum est me tuārum fortunārum. Ter. We likewise find, miserescit and miserētur used impersonally; as, Miserescit me tui. Ter.; Miserētur te fratrum; Neque me tui, neque tuōrum liberōrum miserēri potest. Cic.

EXC. III. DECET, DELECTAT, JUVAT, and OPORTET, govern the accusative of a person, with the infinitive; as,

Delectat me studēre, It delights me to study.
Non decet te rizāri, It does not become you to scold.

Obs. 1. These verbs are sometimes used personally; as, Parvum parva decent. Hor. Est aliquid, quod non oporteat, etiamsi liceat. Cic Hæc facta ab illo oportēbant. Ter.

Obs. 2. Decet is sometimes construed with the dative; as, Ita nobis decet. Ter.

Obs. 3. Oportet is elegantly joined with the subjunctive mode, ut being understood; as, Sibi quisque consŭlat oportet, Cic. Or with the perfect participle, esse or fuisse being understood; as, Communicātum oportuit; mansum oportuit; Adolescenti morem gestum oportuit, The young man should have been humoured. Ter.

Obs. 4. Fallit, fugit, prætĕrit, latet, when used impersonally, also govern the accusative with the infinitive; as, In lege nullā esse ejusmŏdi caput, non te fallit; Dē Dionysio fugit me ad te antea scribĕre. Cic.

Note. Attĭnet, pertĭnet, & spectat, are construed with ad; Ad rempublĭcam pertĭnet, me conservāri. Cic. And so personally, Ille ad me attĭnet, belongs. Ter. Res ad arma spectat, looks, points. Cic.

THE CONSTRUCTION OF THE INFINITIVE.

XXX. One verb governs another in the infinitive; as,

Cupio discĕre, I desire to learn.

Obs. 1. The infinitive is often governed by adjectives; as, Horatius est dignus legi. Quinctil. And it sometimes depends on a substantive; as, Tempus equūm fumantia solvĕre colla. Virg.

Obs. 2. The word governing the infinitive is sometimes understood; as, Mene incepto desistĕre victam, scil. decet, or par est. Virg. Vidēre est, one may see. Dicĕre non est, scil. copia, or facultas. Horat. And sometimes the infinitive itself is to be supplied; as, Socrātem fidĭbus docuit, scil. canĕre. Cic. So, Discĕre, scire, fidĭbus.

Obs. 3. The infinitive was not improperly called by the ancients Nomen verbi, the name or noun of the verb; because it is both joined with an adjective like a substantive; as, Velle suum cuique est, Every one has a will of his own: and it likewise supplies the place of a noun, not only in the nominative, but also in all the oblique cases; as, 1. In the nominative, Latrocinări, fraudāre turpe est. Cic. Didicisse fidelĭter artes emollit mores. Ovid. 2. In the genitive, Perītus cantāre, for cantandi or cantūs. Virg. 3. In the dative, Parātus servire, for servitūti. Sall. 4. In the accusative, Da mihi fallĕre, for artem fallendi. Horat. Quod faciam supĕrest, præter amāre, nihil. Ovid. 5. In the vocative, O vivĕre nostrum, ut non sentientĭbus effluis! for vita nostra. 6. In the ablative, Dignus amāri, for amōre, or qui amētur. Virg.

Obs. 4. Instead of the infinitive, a different construction is often used after verbs of doubting, willing, ordering, fearing, hoping; in short, after any verb which has a relation to futurity; as, Dubĭtat ita facĕre, or more frequently, an, num, or utrum ita factūrus sit; Dubĭtāvit an facĕret necne; Non dubĭto quin fecĕrit. Vis me facĕre, or ut faciam. Metuit tangi, or ne tangātur. Spero te ventūrum esse, or fore ut venias. Nunquam putāvi fore ut ad te supplex venīrem. Cic. Existimābant futūrum fuisse ut oppĭdum amitterētur. Cæs.

Obs. 5. To, which in English is the sign of the infinitive, in Latin may often be rendered otherwise than by the infinitive; as, I am sent to complain, Mittor questum, or ut querar, &c. Ready to hear, Promptus ad audiendum; Time to read, Tempus legendi; Fit to swim, Aptus natando; Easy to say, Facile dictu; I am to write, Scriptūrus sum; A house to let, or more properly, to be let, Domus locanda; He was left to guard the city, Relictus est ut tuerētur urbem.

THE CONSTRUCTION OF PARTICIPLES, GERUNDS, AND SUPINES.

XXXI. Participles, Gerunds, and Supines, govern the case of their own verbs; as,

Amans virtūtem, Loving virtue. Carens fraude, Wanting guile

Obs. 1. Passive Participles often govern the dative, particularly when they are used as adjectives; as,

Suspectus mihi, Suspected by me; Suspectĭōres regĭbus. Sall. Invīsus mihi; hated by me, or hateful to me; In dies invisior. Suet. Occulta, et marĭbus non invīsa solum, sed etiam inaudīta sacra, unseen. Cic.

EXOSUS, PEROSUS, and often also PERTÆSUS, govern the accusative; as, Tædas exōsa jugāles. Ovid. Plebs consŭlum nomen haud secus quàm regum perōsa erat. Liv. Pertæsus ignaviam suam; semet ipse, displeased with. Suet. vitam, weary of. Justin. levitātis. Cic.

Verbals in BUNDUS govern the case of their own verbs; as, Gratulabundus patriæ. Just. Vitabundus castra hostium. Liv. So sometimes also nouns; as, Justitia est obtemperatio scriptis legĭbus. Cic. Insidiæ consŭli. Sall. Domum reditiōnis spe sublātā. Cæs. Spectatio ludos. Plaut.

Obs. 2. These verbs, do, reddo, volo, curo, facio, habeo, comperio, with the perfect participle, form a periphrasis, similar to what we use in English; as, Compertum habeo, for compĕri, I have found. Sall. Effectum dabo, for efficiam; Inventum tibi curābo, et adductum tuum Pamphĭlum, i. e. inveniam et addūcam. Ter. Sometimes the gerund is used with ad; as, Tradĕre ei gentes diripiendas, or ad diripiendum. Rogo, accipio, do alĭquid utendum, or ad utendum; Misit mihi librum legendum, or ad legendum, &c..

Obs. 3. These verbs, curo, habeo, mando, loco, condūco, do, tribuo, mitto, &c. are elegantly construed with the participle in dus, instead of the infinitive; as, Funus faciendum curāvi, for fiĕri, or ut fiĕret; Columnas ædificandas locāvit. Cic.

THE CONSTRUCTION OF GERUNDS.

XXXII. Gerunds are construed like substantive nouns; as,

Studendum est mihi, I must study. Aptus studendo, Fit for studying.
Tempus studendi, Time of study. Scio studendum esse mihi, I know that I must study.

But more particularly:

I. The Gerund in DUM with the verb est governs the dative; as,

Legendum est mihi, I must read. Moriendum est omnĭbus, All must die. So, Scio legendum esse mihi; moriendum esse omnĭbus, &c.

Obs. 1. This gerund always imports obligation or necessity; and may be resolved into oportet, necesse est, or the like, and the infinitive or the subjunctive, with the conjunction ut; as, Omnĭbus est moriendum, or Omnĭbus necesse est mori, or ut moriantur; or Necesse est ut omnes moriantur. Consulendum est tibi a me, I must consult for your good; for Oportet ut consŭlam tibi. Cic.

Obs. 2. The dative is often understood; as, Orandum est, ut sit mens sana in corpŏre sano, sc. tibi. Juv. Hĭc vincendum, aut moriendum, milĭtes, est, sc. vobis. Liv. Deliberandum est diu, quod statuendum est semel, sc. tibi or alĭcui. P. Syr.

II. The gerund in DI is governed by substantives or adjectives; as, Tempus legendi, Time of reading. Cupĭdus discendi, Desirous of learning.

Obs. This gerund is sometimes construed with the genitive plural; as, Facultas agrōrum condonandi, for agros. Cic. Copia spectandi comœdiārum, for comœdias. Ter. But chiefly with pronouns; as, In castra venĕrunt sui purgandi causâ. Cæs. Vestri adhortandi causâ. Liv. Ejus videndi cupĭdus, sc. fœmĭnæ. Ter. The gerund here is supposed to govern the genitive like a substantive noun.

III. The gerund in DO of the dative case is governed by adjectives signifying usefulness or fitness; as,

Charta utĭlis scribendo, Paper useful for writing.

Obs. 1. Sometimes the adjective is understood; as, Non est solvendo, scil. par, or habĭlis, He is not able to pay. Cic.

Obs. 2. This gerund is sometimes governed also by verbs; as, Adesse scribendo. Cic. Aptat habendo ensem, for wearing. Virg. Is finis censendo factus est. Liv.

IV. The gerund in DUM of the accusative case is governed by the prepositions ad or inter; as,

Promptus ad audiendum, Ready to hear.
Attentus inter docendum, Attentive in time of teaching.

Obs. This gerund is also governed by some other prepositions; as, Ante domandum. Virg. Ob absolvendum. Cic. Circa movendum. Quinctil.

Or it depends on some verb going before, and then with the verb esse governs the dative case; as, Scio moriendum esse omnibus, I know that all must die. Esse is often understood.

V. The gerund in DO of the ablative case is governed by the prepositions a, ab, de, e, ex, or in; as,

Pœna a peccando absterret, Punishment frightens from sinning.

* Or without a preposition, as the ablative of manner or cause; as,

Memoria exercendo augētur, The memory is improved by exercising it.
Dēfessus sum ambulando, I am wearied with walking.

Obs. The gerund in its nature very much resembles the infinitive. Hence the one is frequently put for the other; as, Est tempus legendi, or legĕre: only the gerund is never joined with an adjective, and is sometimes taken in a passive sense; as, Cum Tisidium vocarētur ad imperandum, i. e. ut ipsi imperētur, to receive orders. Sall. Nunc ades ad imperandum, vel ad parendum potius; sic enim antiqui loquebantur. Cic. i. e. ut tibi imperētur. Urit videndo, i. e. dum vidētur. Virg.

Gerunds turned into Participles in dus.

XXXVI. Gerunds governing the accusative are elegantly turned into participles in dus, which, like adjectives, agree with their substantives in gender, number and case; as,

By the Gerund.		By the Participle or Gerundive.
Petendum est mihi pacem,	or more frequently	Pax est petenda mihi.
Tempus petendi pacem,		Tempus petendæ pacis.
Ad petendum pacem,		Ad petendam pacem.
A petendo pacem,		A petendâ pace.

Obs. 1. In changing gerunds into participles in dus, the participle and the substantive are always to be put in the same case in which the gerund was; as,

Genitive; Inĭta sunt consilĭa urbis delendæ, civium trucidandōrum, nomĭnis Romāni extinguendi. Cic.

Dat. Perpetiendo labōri idoneus. Colum. Capessendæ reipublĭcæ habĭlis. Tac. Area firma templis ac porticĭbus sustinendis. Liv. Onĕri ferendo est, sc. aptus or habĭlis. Ovid. Natus miseriis ferendis. Ter. Litĕris dandis vigilāre. Cic. Locum oppĭdo condendo capĕre. Liv.

Acc. and Abl. Ad defendendam Romam ab oppugnandâ Capuâ duces Romānos abstrahĕre. Liv. Oratiōnem Latīnam legendis nostris efficies plenĭōrem. Cic.

Obs. 2. The gerunds of verbs, which do not govern the accusative, are never changed into the participle, except those of medeor, utor, abūtor, fruor, fungor, and potior; as, Spes potiundi urbe, or potiundæ urbis: but we always say, Cupĭdus subveniendi tibi, and never tui.

THE CONSTRUCTION OF SUPINES.

1. The Supine in um.

XXXVII. The supine in um is put after a verb of motion; as,

Abiit deambulātum, He hath gone to walk.

So, Ducēre cohortes prædātum. Liv. Nunc venis irrīsum domĭnum? Quod in rem tuam optĭmum factu arbĭtror, te id admonĭtum venio. Plaut.

Obs. 1. The supine in um is elegantly joined with the verb eo, to express the signification of any verb more strongly; as, It se perdĭtum, the same with id agit, or opĕram dat, ut se perdat, He is bent on his own destruction. Ter. This supine with iri, taken impersonally, supplies the place of the infinitive passive; as, An credēbas illam sine tuâ opĕrâ iri deductum domum? Which may be thus resolved; An credēbas iri (a te or ab alĭquo) deductum (i. e. ad deducendum) illam domum. Ter. The supine here may be considered as a verbal substantive governing the accusative, like the gerund.

Obs. 2. The supine in um is put after other verbs besides verbs of motion; as, Dedit filiam nuptum; Cantātum provocēmus. Ter. Revocātus defensum patriam; Divīsit copias hiemātum. Nep.

Obs. 3. The meaning of this supine may be expressed by several other parts of the verb; as, Venit orātum opem: or, 1. Venit opem orandi causâ, or opis orandæ. 2. Venit ad orandum opem, or ad orandam opem. 3. Venit opi orandæ. 4. Venit opem oratūrus. 5. Venit qui, or ut opem oret. 6. Venit opem orāre. But the third and the last of these are seldom used.

2. The Supine in u.

XXXVIII. The supine in u is put after an adjective noun; as,

Facile dictu, Easy to tell, or to be told.

So, Nihil dictu fœdum, visūque, hæc limĭna tangat, intra quæ puer est. Juv. Difficĭlis res est inventu verus amīcus; Fas or nefas est dictu; Opus est scitu. Cic.

Obs. 1. The supine in u, being used in a passive sense, hardly ever governs any case. It is sometimes, especially in old writers, put after verbs of motion; as, Nunc obsonātu redeo, from getting provisions. Plaut. Primus cubĭtu surgat (villĭcus), from bed, postrēmus cubĭtum eat. Cato.

Obs. 2. This supine may be rendered by the infinitive or gerund with the preposition ad; as, Difficile cognĭtu, cognosci, or ad cognoscendum; Res facĭlis ad credendum. Cic.

Obs. 3. The supines, being nothing else but verbal nouns of the fourth declension, used only in the accusative and ablative singular, are governed in these cases by prepositions understood; the supine in um by the preposition ad, and the supine in u by the preposition in.

THE CONSTRUCTION OF INDECLINABLE WORDS.

I. THE CONSTRUCTION OF ADVERBS.

XXXIX. Adverbs qualify verbs, participles, adjectives, and other adverbs; as,

Bene [redacted]e writes well. Fortĭter pugnans, Fighting bravely.

Servus [redacted]s fidēlis, A slave re- Satis benè, Well enough.
[redacted]faithful.

Obs. 1. Adverbs sometimes likewise qualify substantives; as,

Homērus planè orātor: plane noster, verè Metellus. Cic. So Hodie mane, cras mane, heri mane; hodie vespĕri, &c. tam mane, tam vespĕre.

Obs. 2. The adverb, for the most part in Latin, and always in English, is placed near to the word which it qualifies or affects.

Obs. 3. Two negatives, both in Latin and English, are equivalent to an affirmative; as,

Nec non sensērunt, Nor did they not perceive, i. e. et sensērunt, and they did perceive; Non potĕram non exanimāri metu. Cic. So, non sum nescius, i. e. scio. Cic. Or. 1, 11. haud nihil est, i. e. est aliquid. Ter. Eun. 4, 2, 13. nonnulli, i. e. aliqui; nonnunquam, i. e. aliquando; non nemo, i. e. quidam; nemo non, i. e. quilĭbet, &c. Examples, however, of the contrary of this occur in good authors, both Latin and English. Thus, in imitation of the Greeks, two negatives sometimes make a stronger negation: Neque ego haud committam, ut, si quid peccātum siet, (te) fecisse dicas de meâ sententiâ, I will not cause, that, &c. Plaut. Bacch. 4, 9, 114. Jura, te non nocitūrum homĭni hâc de re nemĭni, for nulli homĭni. Id. Mil. 5, 1, 18, cf. Epid. 4, 1, 6. & 5, 1, 57. Nolle successum, non Patrĭbus, non Consulĭbus, They did not wish success either to the Patricians, or the Consuls. Liv. 2, 45. So, nihil iste nec ausus, nec potuit. Virg. Æ. 9, 428, add. Virg. E. 4, 53. & 5, 53. Ter. Eun. 5, 9, 47. Heaut. 1, 1, 11. Nullius rei neque præs, neque manceps factus est. Nep. 25, 6.

But what chiefly deserves attention in Adverbs, is the degree of comparison and the mode with which they are joined. 1. Apprīmè, admŏdum, vehementer, maxĭmè, perquam, valdè, oppĭdò, &c. and per in composition, are usually joined to the positive; as, Utrīque nostrūm gratum admŏdum fecĕris, You will do what is very agreeable to both of us. Cic. perquam puerĭle, very childish; oppĭdò pauci, very few; perfacĭle est, &c. In like manner, Parum, multum, nimium, tantum, quantum, aliquantum; as, rebus apertissĭmis, nimium longi sumus; parum firmus, multum bonus. Cic. Adverbs in um are sometimes also joined to comparatives; as, Forma viri aliquantūm amplior humānâ. Liv.

Quam is joined to the positive or superlative in different senses; as, Quàm difficĭle est! How difficult it is! Quàm crudēlis, or Ut crudēlis est! How cruel he is! Flens quàm familiarĭter, very familiarly. Ter. So, quàm sevērè, very severely. Cic. Quàm latè, very widely. Cæs. Tam multa quàm, &c. as many things as, &c. Quàm maxĭmas potest copias armat, as great as possible. Sall. Quàm maxĭmas gratias agit, quàm primum, quàm sæpissĭmè. Cic. Quàm quisque pessĭmè fecit, tam maxĭmè tutus est. Sall.

Facile, for haud dubiè, undoubtedly, clearly, is joined to superlatives or words of a similar meaning; as, Facĭlè doctissĭmus, facĭlè princeps, or præcipuus. Longe, to comparatives or superlatives, rarely to the positive; as, Longè eloquentissĭmus Plato. Cic. Pedĭbus longè melior Lycus. Virg.

2. Cum, when, is construed with the indicative or subjunctive, oftener with the latter; Dum, whilst, or how long, with the in[illegible]; as, Dum hæc aguntur; Ægrōto, dum anima est, spes esse dicĭtur; nec eris felix, multos numerābis amīcos. Ovid. Dum and donec quĕdum, until, sometimes with the indicative, and sometimes wi[illegible] subjunctive; as, Opperior, dum ista cognosco. Cic. Haud desīnam, donec perfecēro. Ter. So, QUOAD, for quamdiu, quantum, quatēnus, as long, as much, as far as; thus, Quoad Catilīna fuit in urbe; Quoad tibi equum videbĭtur; quoad possem & licēret; quoad progrĕdi potuĕrit amentia. Cic. But QUOAD, until, oftener with the subjunctive; as, Thessalonicæ esse statuĕram, quoad aliquid ad me scribĕres. Cic. but not always; Non faciam finem rogandi, quoad nunciātum erit te fecisse. Cic. The pronoun ejus, with facĕre or fĭeri, is elegantly added to quoad; as quoad ejus facĕre potĕris; Quoad ejus fĭĕri possit. Cic. Ejus is thought to be here governed by alĭquid or some such word understood. Quoad corpus, quoad anĭmam, for secundùm, or quod attĭnet ad corpus or anĭmam, as to the body or soul, is esteemed by the best grammarians not to be good Latin.

3. POSTQUAM or POSTEAQUAM, after, is usually joined with the indic. ANTEQUAM, PRIUSQUAM, before: SIMUL, SIMULAC, SIMUL ATQUE, SIMUL UT, as soon as; UBI, when, sometimes with the indic. and sometimes with the subj.; as, Antĕquam dico or dicam. Cic. Simŭlac persensit. Virg. Simul ut vidĕro Curiōnem. Cic. Hæc ubi dicta dedit. Liv. Ubi semel quis perjuravĕrit, ei credi postea non oportet. Cic. So, NÆ, truly; as, Næ ego homo sum infēlix. Ter. Næ tu, si id fecisses, melius famæ consuluisses. Cic. But NE, not, with the imperative, or more elegantly with the subjunctive; as, Ne jura. Plaut. Ne post conferas culpam in me. Ter. Ne tot annōrum felicitātem in unius horæ dedĕris discrīmen. Liv.

4. QUASI, CEU, TANQUAM, PERINDE, when they denote resemblance, are joined with the indicative; Fuit olim, quasi ego sum, senex. Plaut. Adversi rupto ceu quondam turbine venti confligunt. Virg. Hæc omnia perinde sunt, ut aguntur. But when used ironically, they have the subjunctive; as, Quasi de verbo, non de re laborētur. Cic.

5. UTINAM, O SI, UT for utĭnam, I wish, take the subjunctive; as, Utĭnam ea res ei voluptāti sit. Cic. O mihi præteritos referat si Jupiter annos. Virg. Ut illum dii deæque perdant. Ter.

6. UT, when, or after, takes the indicative; as, Ut discessit, venit, &c. ¶ Also, for quàm, or quomŏdo, how! as, Ut valet! Ut falsus anĭmi est! Ut sæpe summa ingenia in occulto latent! Plaut. ¶ Or when it simply denotes resemblance; as, Ut tute es, ita omnes censes esse. Plaut. ¶ In this sense it sometimes has the subjunctive; as, Ut sementem fecĕris, ita metes. Cic.

7. QUIN, for CUR NON, takes the indic. as, Quin continētis vocem indĭcem stultitiæ vestræ? Cic. ¶ For IMO, nay or but, the indic. or imperat. as, Quin est parātum argentum; quin tu hoc audi. Ter. ¶ For UT NON, QUI, QUÆ, QUOD NON, or QUO MINUS, the Subjunctive; as, Nulla tam facĭlis res, quin difficĭlis fiet, quum invītus facias. Ter. Nemo est, quin mālit; Facĕre non possum, quin ad te mittam, I cannot help sending; Nihil abest, quin sim miserrĭmus. Cic.

THE GOVERNMENT OF ADVERBS.

XL. Some adverbs of time, place, and quantity, govern the genitive; as,

Pridiè ejus diēi,	The day before that day
Ubīque gentium,	Every where.
Satis est verbōrum,	There is enough of words.

1. Adverbs of time governing the genit. are, Interea, postea, inde, tunc; as, Interea loci, in the mean time; postea loci, afterwards; inde loci, then; tunc temporis, at that time. 2. Of place, Ubi and quo, with their compounds, ubique, ubicunque, ubivis, ubiubi, &c. Also, Eo, huc, huccine, unde, usquam, nusquam, longè, ibidem; as, Ubi, quo, quovis, &c. also, usquam, nusquam, unde terrārum, or gentium; longè gentium; ibidem loci, eò audaciæ, vecordiæ, miseriārum, &c. to that pitch of boldness, madness, misery, &c. 3. Of quantity, Abundè, affātim, largĭter, nimis, satis, parum, minimè; as, Abundè gloriæ, affātim divitiārum, largĭter auri, satis eloquentiæ, sapientiæ parum est illi or habet, He has enough of glory, riches, &c. Minimè gentium, by no means.

Some add ergò and instar; as, Ergò virtūtis, for the sake of virtue. Cic. Instar montis, like a mountain. Virg. But these are properly nouns.

Obs. 1. These adverbs are thought to govern the genitive, because they imply in themselves the force of a substantive; as, Potentiæ gloriæque abundè adeptus, the same with abundantiam gloriæ: or res, locus, or negotium, and a preposition, may be understood; as, Interea loci, i. e. inter ea negotia loci; Ubi terrārum, for in quo loco terrārum.

Obs. 2. We usually say, pridiè, postridiè, ejus diēi, seldom diem; but pridiè, postridiè Kalendas, Nonas, Idus, ludos Apollināres, natālem ejus, absolutiōnem ejus, &c. rarely Kalendārum, &c.

Obs. 3. En and ecce are construed either with the nominative or accusative; as,

En hostis, or hostem; Ecce misĕrum hominem. Cic. Sometimes a dative is added; as, Ecce tibi Strato. Ter. Ecce duas (scil. aras,) tibi, Daphni. Virg. In like manner is construed hem put for ecce; as, Hem tibi Davum. Ter. But in all these examples some verb must be understood.

XLI. Some derivative adverbs govern the case of their primitives; as,

Omnium optimè loquĭtur,	He speaks the best of all.
Convenienter natūræ,	Agreeably to nature.
Venit obviam ei,	He came to meet him.
Proximè castris or castra,	Next the camp.

To prepositions governing the accusative are commonly added CIRCITER, PROPE, USQUE, and VERSUS; as, Circĭter meridiem, about mid-day; prope muros, near the walls; usque Puteŏlos, Tarsum usque, as far as; Ori-entem versus, towards the east. But in these ad is understood; which we find sometimes expressed; as, Prope ad annum. Nep. Ab ovo usque ad mala. Hor. Ad oceănum versus. Cæs In Italiam versus. Cic.

2. PREPOSITIONS GOVERNING THE ABLATIVE.

Tenus is construed with the genitive plural, when the word wants the sing.; as, Cumārum tenus, as far as Cumæ: or when we speak of things, of which we have by nature only two; as, Oculōrum, aurium, narium, labrōrum, lumbōrum, crurum tenus, up to. We also find Corcȳræ tenus, & ostiis tenus. Liv. Colchis tenus. Flor. Pectorĭbus tenus. Ovid.

To prepositions governing the abl. is commonly added PROCUL: as, Procul domo, far from home; but here a is understood, which is also often expressed; as, Procul a patriâ. Virg. Procul ab ostentatiōne. Quinct. Culpa est procul a me. Ter.

3. PREPOSITIONS GOVERNING THE ACC. AND ABL.

XLIV. The prepositions in, sub, super, and subter, govern the accusative, when motion to a place is signified; but when motion or rest in a place is signified, in and sub govern the ablative, super and subter either the accusative or ablative.

IN, when it signifies into, governs the accusative; when it signifies in or among, it governs the ablative; as,

IN urbem ire, into; amor in patriam, in te benignus, towards; in lucem, until day; in eam sententiam, to that purpose, on that head; in rem tuam est, for your advantage; in utramque partem disputāre, on both sides, for and against; litūra in nomen,

Cic. potestas in filium, over; in aliquem dicĕre, against; mirum in modum, after; in pedes stare, in aurem dormīre, on; in os laudāre, to, before; in or inter patres lectus, into the number of; in vulgus probāri, spargĕre, &c. among; crescit in dies, in singŭlos dies, omnes in dies, every day; in diem postĕrum, proxĭmum, decĭmum, against; in diem vivĕre, to live from hand to mouth, not to think of to-morrow; Est in diem, will happen sometime after. Ter. IN portu navīgo, in tempŏre, in; esse in potestāte or in potestātem, honŏre or honōrem, mente or mentem: in manu or manĭbus esse; habĕre, tenĕre, in one's power, on hand; in amīcis, among; in ocŭlis, before; Occīsus est in provinciam, for in provinciâ. Liv. Super cœnam, super vinum & epŭlas, for inter, during. Curt. Nec super ipse suâ molĭtur laude labōrem, for. Virg.

SUBTER terram or terrâ, under.

Obs. 1. When prepositions do not govern a case, they are reckoned adverbs.

Such are Ante, circa, clam, coram, contra, infra, intra, juxta, palam, pone, post, propter, sĕcus, subter, super, supra, ultra. But in most of these the case seems to be implied in the sense; as, Longo post tempŏre venit, sc. post id tempus. Adversus, juxta, propter, secus, secundum, & clam, are by some thought to be always adverbs, having a preposition understood when they govern a case. So other adverbs also are construed with the acc. or abl.; as, Intus cellam, for intra. Liv. Intus templo divûm, sc. in. Virg. Simul his, sc. cum. Hor.

Obs. 2. A and E are only put before consonants; AB and EX, usually before vowels, and sometimes also before consonants; as,

A patre, e regiōne; ab initio, ab rege; ex urbe, ex parte; abs before q and t; as, abs te, abs quivis homine. Ter. Some phrases are used only with e; as, e longinquo, e regiōne, e vestigio, e re meâ est, &c. Some only with ex; as, Ex compacto, ex tempŏre, magnâ ex parte, &c.

Obs. 3. Prepositions are often understood; as, Devenēre locos, scil. ad; It portis, sc. ex. Virg. Nunc id prodeo, scil. ob or propter. Ter. Maria aspĕra juro, scil. per. Virg. Ut se loco movēre non possent, scil. e or de. Cæs. Vina promens dolio, scil. ex. Hor. Quid illo facias? Quid me fiet, sc. de. Ter. And so in English, Show me the book; Get me some paper, that is, to me, for me. We sometimes find the word to which the preposition refers, suppressed; as, Circum Concordiæ, sc. ædem. Sall. Round St. Paul's, namely, church; Campum Stellātem divīsit extra sortem ad viginti millĭbus, civium, i. e. civium millĭbus ad viginti millia. Suet. But this is most frequently the case after prepositions in composition; thus, Emittĕre servum, scil. manu. Plaut. Evomĕre virus, scil. ore. Cic. Educĕre copias, scil. castris. Cæs.

XLV. A preposition in composition often governs the same case, as when it stands by itself; as,

Adeāmus scholam,	Let us go to the school.
Exeāmus scholâ,	Let us go out of the school.

Obs. 1. The preposition with which the verb is compounded, is often repeated; as, Adīre ad scholam; Exīre ex scholâ; Adgrĕdi alĭquid, or ad alĭquid; ingrĕdi oratiōnem, or in oratiōnem; inducĕre animum, & in animum; evadĕre undis & ex undis; decedĕre de suo jure, decedĕre vitâ or de vitâ; expellĕre, ejicĕre, exterminăre, extrudĕre, exturbāre urbe, & ex urbe. Some do not repeat the preposition; as, Affāri, allŏqui, allatrāre alĭquem, not ad alĭquem. So, Alluĕre urbem; accolĕre flumen; circumvenīre alĭquem; prætermĭttere injuriam; abdicāre se magistrātu, (also, abdicāre magistrātum;) transducĕre exercĭtum fluvium, &c. Others are only construed with the preposition; as, Accurrĕre ad alĭquem, adhortāri ad alĭquid, incidĕre in morbum, avocāre a studiis, avertĕre ab inepto, &c.

Some admit other prepositions; as, Abīre, demigrāre loco; & a, de, ex loco; abstrahĕre alĭquem, a, de, or e conspectu; Desistĕre sententiâ, a or de sententiâ; Excidĕre manĭbus, de or e manĭbus, &c.

Obs. 2. Some verbs compounded with e or ex govern either the ablative or accusative; as, Egrĕdi urbe, or urbem, sc. extra; egrĕdi extra vallum. Nep. Evadĕre insidiis or insidias. Patrios excedĕre muros. Lucan. Scelĕrātâ excedĕre terrâ. Virg. Elābi ex manĭbus; elābi pugnam aut vincŭla. Tac.

Obs. 3. This rule does not take place, unless when the preposition may be disjoined from the verb, and put before the noun by itself; as, Allŏquor patrem, or loquor ad patrem.

III. THE CONSTRUCTION OF INTERJECTIONS.

XLVI. The interjections, O, heu, and proh, are construed with the nominative, accusative, or vocative; as,

O vir bonus or bone! O good man! Heu me misĕrum! Ah wretched me! So, O vir fortis atque amīcus! Ter. Heu vanĭtas humāna! Plin. Heu miserande puer! Virg. O præclārum custōdem ovium (ut aiunt) lupum! Cic.

XLVII. Hei and væ govern the dative; as,

Hei mihi! Ah me! Væ vobis! Wo to you!

Obs. 1. Heus and ohe are joined only with the vocative; as, Heus Syre. Ter. Ohe libelle! Martial. Proh or pro, ah, vah, hem, have generally either the accusative or vocative; as, Proh hominum fidem! Ter. Proh Sancte Jupĭter! Cic. Hem astutias! Ter.

Obs. 2. Interjections cannot properly have either concord or government. They are only mere sounds excited by passion, and have no just connexion with any other part of a sentence. Whatever case, therefore is joined with them, must depend on some other word understood, except the vocative, which is always placed absolutely; thus, Heu me misĕrum! stands for Heu! quàm me misĕrum sentio! Hei mihi! for Hei! malum est mihi! Proh dolor! for Proh! quantus est dolor! and so in other examples.

THE CONSTRUCTION OF CIRCUMSTANCES.

The circumstances, which in Latin are expressed in different cases, are, 1. The Price of a thing. 2. The Cause, Manner, and Instrument. 3. Place. 4. Measure and Distance. 5. Time.

1. PRICE.

XLVIII. The price of a thing is put in the ablative; as,

Emi librum duōbus assĭbus,	I bought a book for two shillings.
Constĭtit talento,	It cost a talent.

So, Asse carum est; vile viginti minis, auro venāle, &c. Nocet empta dolōre voluptas. Hor. Spem pretio non emam. Ter. Plurĭmi auro veneunt honōres. Ovid.

¶ These genitives, tanti, quanti, pluris, minōris, are excepted; as,

Quanti constĭtit, How much cost it? Asse et pluris, A shilling and more

Obs. 1. When the substantive is added, they are put in the ablative; as, parvo pretio, impenso pretio vendĕre. Cic.

Obs. 2. Magno, permagno, parvo, paullŭlo, minĭmo, plurĭmo, are often used without the substantive; as, Permagno constĭtit, scil. pretio. Cic. Heu quanto regnis nox stetit una tuis? Ovid. Fast. ii. 812. We also say, Emi carè, cariùs, carissĭmè; bene, meliùs, optĭmè; malè, pejùs, vilĭus, vilissĭmè; valdè, carè æstĭmas: Emit domum prope dimidio cariùs, quàm æstimābat. Cic.

Obs. 3. The ablative of price is properly governed by the preposition pro understood, which is likewise sometimes expressed; as, Dum pro argenteis decem aureus unus valĕret. Liv.

2. MANNER AND CAUSE.

XLIX. The cause, manner, and instrument are put in the ablative; as,

Palleo metu,	I am pale for fear.
Fecit suo more,	He did it after his own way.
Scribo calămo,	I write with a pen.

So, Ardet dolōre; pallescĕre culpâ; æstuāre dubitatiōne: gestīre voluptāte or secundis rebus: Confectus morbo; affectus beneficiis, gravissĭmo supplicio, insignis pietāte; deterior licentiâ: Pietāte filius, consiliis pater, amōre frater; hence, Rex Dei gratiâ: Paritur pax bello. Nep. Procedĕre lento gradu; Acceptus regio apparātu: Nullo sono convertĭtur annus.

Juv. Jam veniet tacĭto curva senecta pede. Ovid. Percutĕre secūri, defendĕre saxis, configĕre sagittis, &c.

Obs. 1. The ablative is here governed by some preposition understood. Before the manner and cause, the preposition is sometimes expressed; as, De more matrum locūta est. Virg. Magno cum metu; Hāc de causā: Præ mœrōre, formidĭne, &c. But hardly ever before the instrument; as, Vulnerāre aliquem gladio, not cum gladio; unless among the poets, who sometimes add a or ab; as, Trajectus ab ense. Ovid.

Obs. 2. When any thing is said to be in company with another, it is called the ablative of CONCOMITANCY, and has the preposition cum usually added; as, Obsēdit curiam cum gladiis: Ingressus est cum gladio. Cic.

Obs. 3. Under this rule are comprehended several other circumstances, as the matter of which any thing is made, and what is called by grammarians the ADJUNCT, that is, a noun in the ablative joined to a verb or adjective, to express the character or quality of the person or thing spoken of; as, Capitolium saxo quadrāto constructum. Liv. Floruit acumĭne ingenii. Cic. Pollet opĭbus, valet armis, viget memorĭā, famā nobĭlis, &c. Æger pedĭbus. When we express the matter of which any thing is made, the preposition is usually added; as, Templum de marmŏre, seldom marmŏris; Pocŭlum ex auro factum. Cic.

3. PLACE.

The circumstances of place may be reduced to four particulars. 1. The place where, or in which. 2. The place whither, or to which. 3. The place whence, or from which. 4. The place by, or through which.

AT or IN a place is put in the genitive; unless the noun be of the third declension, or of the plural number, and then it is expressed in the ablative.

TO a place is put in the accusative; FROM or BY a place in the ablative.

1. The place WHERE.

L. When the place where, or in which, is spoken of, the name of a town is put in the genitive; as,

Vixit Romæ,	He lived at Rome.
Mortuus est Londĭni,	He died at London.

¶ But if the name of a town be of the third declension or plural number, it is expressed in the ablative; as,

Habĭtat Carthagĭne,	He dwells at Carthage.
Studŭit Parisiis,	He studied at Paris.

Obs. 1. When a thing is said to be done, not in the place itself, but in its neighbourhood or near it, we always use the preposition ad or apud; as, Ad or apud Trojam, At or near Troy.

Obs. 2. The name of a town, when put in the ablative, is here governed by the preposition in understood; but if it be in the genitive, we must supply in urbe, or in oppĭdo. Hence, when the name of a town is joined with an adjective or common noun, the preposition is generally expressed: thus, we do not say, Natus est Romæ urbis celebris; but either Romæ in celebri urbe, or in Romæ celebri urbe; or in Româ celebri urbe, or sometimes Romæ celebri urbe. In like manner we usually say, Habĭtat in urbe Carthagĭne, with the preposition. We likewise find Habĭtat Carthagĭni, which is sometimes the termination of the ablative, when the question is made by ubi? Thus, At ego aio hoc fĭĕri in Græciâ, et Carthagĭni. Plaut. Cas. Prol. 71. Fuĕre Sicyōni jamdiu Dionysia, the feasts of Bacchus were some time ago celebrated at Sicyon. Id. Cist. 1, 3, 8, cf. Ps. 4, 2, 38. Neglectum Anxūri præsidium. Liv. 5, 8. Convento Antonio Tibūri, having met with Anthony at Tibur. Cic. Att. 16. 3. Nulla Lacedæmŏni tam est nobĭlis vidua, quæ non ad scenam eat mercēde conducta. Nep. Præf. Tibūri gentĭtus. Suet. Cal. 8. add. Id. Claud. 34.—Sometimes, though more rarely, names of towns in the first and second declension are found in the ablative; as, Rex Tyro decēdit, for Tyri. Justin. 18, 4. Eŏdem die, quâ in Italiâ pugnātum est, et Corinthi et Athēnis, et Lacedæmŏne nunciāta est victoria. Id. 20, 3, f. Add. Vitruv. 3, 2, 7. Præf. 8, 3.

2. The Place WHITHER.

LI. When the place whither, or to which, is spoken of, the name of a town is put in the accusative; as,

Venit Romam,	He came to Rome.
Profectus est Athēnas,	He went to Athens.

Obs. 1. We find the dative also used among the poets, but more seldom; as, Carthagĭni nuncios mittam. Horat.

Obs. 2. Names of towns are sometimes put in the accusative, after verbs of telling and giving, where motion to a place is implied; as, Romam erat nunciātum, The report was carried to Rome. Liv. Hæc nunciant domum Albāni. Id. Messālam litĕras dedit. Cic.

3. The Place WHENCE.

LII. When the place whence, or from which, or the place by or through which, is spoken of, the name of a town is put in the ablative; as,

Discessit Corinthi,	He departed from Corinth.
Laodicĕâ iter faciēbat,	He went through Laodicea.

When motion by or through a place is signified, the preposition per is commonly used; as, Per Thebas iter fecit. Nep.

Domus and Rus.

LIII. Domus and rus are construed the same way as names of towns; as,

Manet domi,	He stays at home.
Domum revertĭtur,	He returns home.
Domo arcessītus sum,	I am called from home.

Vivit rure, or more frequently ruri,	He lives in the country.
Rediit rure,	He is returned from the country.
Abiit rus,	He is gone to the country.

Obs. 1. Humi, militiæ, and belli, are likewise construed in the genitive, as names of towns; thus,

Domi et militiæ, or belli, At home and abroad. Jacet humi, He lies on the ground.

Obs. 2. When Domus is joined with an adjective, we commonly use a preposition; as, In domo paternâ, not domi paternæ: So, Ad domum paternam: Ex domo paternâ. Unless when it is joined with these possessives, Meus, tuus, suus, noster, vester, regius, and aliēnus; as, Domi meæ vixit. Cic. Tusc. 5, 39, 4. Apud eum sic fui, tanquam domi meæ. Cic. Fam. 13, 69. Nonne mavis sine periculo domi tuæ esse, quàm cum periculo aliēnæ. ib. 4, 7. Me domo meâ expulistis, Cn. Pompeium domum suam compulistis. Cis. Pis. 7. Alius alium domos suas invitant. Sall. Jug. 66. add. Liv. 2, 7. Aurum atque argentum, et alia, quæ prima ducuntur, domum regiam comportant. Sall. Jug. 76.—RUS and rure in the sing. joined with an adj. are found without a preposition; as, appropinquante vespĕre, equum conscendit, et rus urbānum contendit, sc. ad. Justin. 31, 2; quartumque apud lapidem suburbāno rure substitĕrat. Tac. An. 15, 60.—but never rura in the plural; as, ubi dilapsi domos, et in rura vestra erītis. Liv. 39, 16.

Obs. 3. When domus has another substantive in the genitive after it, the preposition is sometimes used, and sometimes not; as, Deprehensus est domi, domo, or in domo Cæsăris.

LIV. To names of countries, provinces, and all other places, except towns, the preposition is commonly added; as,

When the question is made by,

Ubi? Natus in Italiâ, in Latio, in urbe, &c.
Quo? Abiit in Italiam, in Latium, in or ad urbem, &c.
Unde? Rediit ex Italiâ, e Latio, ex urbe, &c.
Qua? Transit per Italiam, per Latium, per urbem, &c.

Obs. 1. A preposition is often added to names of towns; as, In Româ, for Romæ; ad Romam, ex Româ, &c.

Peto always governs the accusative as an active verb, without a preposition; as, Petivit Egyptum, He went to Egypt.

Obs. 2. Names of countries, provinces, &c. are sometimes construed without the preposition, like names of towns: as, Pompeius Cypri visus est. Cæs. Cretæ jussit considĕre Apollo. Virg. Non Lybiæ, for in Lybiâ; nonne tè Tyro, for Tyri. Id. Æn. iv. 36. Venit Sardiniam. Cic. Romæ, Numidiæque facinŏra ejus memŏrat, for et in Numidiâ. Sall.

4. MEASURE AND DISTANCE.

LV. Measure or distance is put in the accusative, and sometimes in the ablative; as,

Murus est decem pedes altus,	The wall is ten feet high.

Urbs distat triginta millia, or triginta millĭbus passuum,	The city is thirty miles distant.
Iter, or itinĕre unius diĕi,	One day's journey.

Obs. 1 The accusative or ablative of measure is put after adjectives and verbs of dimension; as, Longus, latus, crassus, profundus, and altus: Patet, porrigĭtur, emĭnet, &c. The names of measure are, pes, cubĭtus, ulna, passus, digĭtus, an inch; palmus, a span, an hand-breadth, &c. The accusative or ablative of distance is used only after verbs which express motion or distance; as, Eo, curro, absum, disto, &c. The accusative is governed by ad or per understood, and the ablative by a or ab.

Obs. 2. When we express the measure of more things than one, we commonly use the distributive number; as, Muri sunt denos pedes alti, and sometimes denûm pedum, for denōrum, in the genitive, ad mensūram being understood. But the genitive is only used to express the measure of things in the plural number.

Obs. 3. When we express the distance of a place where any thing is done, we commonly use the ablative; or the accusative with the preposition ad; as, Sex millĭbus passuum ab urbe consēdit, or ad sex millia passuum. Cæs. Ad quintum milliarium, or millĭāre, consēdit. Cic. Ad quintum lapĭdem. Nep.

Obs. 4. The excess or difference of measure and distance is put in the ablative; as,

Hoc lignum excēdit illud digĭto. Toto vertĭce supra est. Virg. Britanniæ longitūdo ejus latitudĭnem ducentis quadraginta milliarĭbus supĕrat.

5. TIME.

LVI. Time when is put in the ablative; as,

Venit horâ tertiâ,	He came at three o'clock.

¶ Time how long is put in the accusative or ablative, but oftener in the accusative; as,

Mansit paucos dies,	He staid a few days.
Sex mensĭbus abfuit,	He was away six months.

Obs. 1. When we speak of any precise time, it is put in the ablative; but when continuance of time is expressed, it is put for the most part in the accusative.

Obs. 2. All the circumstances of time are often expressed with a preposition; as, In præsentĭâ, or in præsenti, scil. tempŏre; in or ad præsens; Per decem annos; Surgunt de nocte; ad horam destinatām; Intra annum; Per idem tempus, ad Kalendas solutūros ait. Suet. The preposition ad or circa is sometimes suppressed, as in these expressions, hoc, illud, id, istuc, ætātis, tempŏris, horæ, &c. for hâc ætāte, hoc tempŏre, &c. And ante or some other word: as, Annos natus unum & viginti, sc. ante. Sicŭli quotannis tribūta conferunt, sc. tot annis, quot or quotquot sunt. Cic. Prope diem, sc. ad, soon; Oppidum paucis diebus, quibus eo ventum est, expugnātum, sc. post eos dies Cæs. Ante diem tertium Kalendas Maias accēpi tuas litĕras, for die tertio ante. Cic. Qui dies futūrus esset in ante diem octāvum Kalendas Novembris. Id. Exante diem quintum Kal. Octob. Liv. Lacedæmonii septingentos jam annos amplius unis moribus et nunquam mutātis legibus vivunt, sc. quām per. Cic. We find Primum stipendium meruit annōrum decem septemque, sc. Atticus; for septemdĕcim annos natus, seventeen years old. Nep.

Obs. 3. The adverb ABHINC, which is commonly used with respect to past time, is joined with the accusative or ablative without a preposition; as, factum est abhinc biennio or biennium, It was done two years ago. So likewise are post and ante; as, Pauces post annos · but here, ea or id may be understood.

COMPOUND SENTENCES.

A compound sentence is that which has more than one nominative, or one finite verb.

A compound sentence is made up of two or more simple sentences or phrases, and is commonly called a Period.

The parts of which a compound sentence consists, are called Members or Clauses.

In every compound sentence there are either several subjects and one attribute, or several attributes and one subject, or both several subjects and several attributes; that is, there are either several nominatives applied to the same verb, or several verbs applied to the same nominative, or both.

Every verb marks a judgment or attribute, and every attribute must have a subject. There must, therefore, be in every sentence or period, as many propositions as there are verbs of a finite mode.

Sentences are compounded by means of relatives and conjunctions; as,

THE CONSTRUCTION OF RELATIVES.

LVII. The relative Qui, Quæ, Quod, agrees with the antecedent in gender, number, and person; and is construed through all the cases, as the antecedent would be in its place; as,

Singular.		Plural.
Vir qui,	The man who.	Viri qui.
Fœmina quæ,	The woman who.	Fœminæ quæ.
Negotium quod,	The thing which.	Negotia quæ.
Ego qui scribo,	I who write.	Nos qui scribimus
Tu qui scribis,	Thou who writest.	Vos qui scribitis.
Vir qui scribit,	The man who writes.	Viri qui scribunt.

Singular.		Plural.
Animal quod currit,	The animal which runs.	Animalia quæ currunt.
Vir quem vidi,	The man whom I saw.	Viri quos vidi.
Mulier quam vidi,	The woman whom I saw.	Mulieres quas vidi.
Animal quod vidi,	The animal which I saw.	Animalia quæ vidi.
Vir cui paret,	The man whom he obeys.	Viri quibus paret.
Vir cui est similis,	The man to whom he is like.	Viri quibus est similis
Vir a quo,	The man by whom.	Viri a quibus.
Mulier ad quam,	The woman to whom.	Mulieres ad quas.
Vir cujus opus est,	The man whose work it is.	Viri quorum opus est.
Vir quem misereor, cujus misereor, or miseresco, cujus me miseret,	The man whom I pity.
cujus or cuja interest, &c.		whose interest it is, &c.

If no nominative come between the relative and the verb, the relative will be the nominative to the verb.

But if a nominative come between the relative and the verb, the relative will be of that case, which the verb or noun following, or the preposition going before, usually govern.

Thus the construction of the relative requires an acquaintance with most of the foregoing rules of syntax, and may serve as an exercise on all of them.

Obs. 1. The relative must always have an antecedent expressed or understood, and therefore may be considered as an adjective placed between two cases of the same substantive, of which the one is always expressed, generally the former; as,

Vir qui (vir) legit; vir quem (virum) amo: Sometimes the latter; as, Quam quisque nōrit artem, in hāc (arte) se exerceat. Cic. Eunūchum, quem dedisti nobis, quas turbas dedit. Ter. sc. Eunāchus. Sometimes both cases are expressed; as, Erant omnīno duo itinĕra, quibus itinĕribus domo exīre possent. Cæs. Sometimes, though more rarely, both cases are omitted; as, Sunt, quos genus hoc minīmĕ juvat, for sunt homĭnes, quos homĭnes, &c. Hor.

Obs. 2. When the relative is placed between two substantives of different genders, it may agree in gender with either of them, though most commonly with the former; as,

Vultus quem dixĕre chaos. Ovid. Est locus in carĕre, quod Tulliānum appellātur. Sall. Animal, quem vocāmus homĭnem. Cic. Cogĭto id quod res est. Ter. If a part of a sentence be the antecedent, the relative is always put in the neuter gender; as, Pompeius se afflixit, quod mihi est summo dolōri, scil. Pompeium se affligĕre. Cic. Sometimes the relative does not agree in gender with the antecedent, but with some synonymous word implied; as, Scelus qui, for scelestus. Ter. Abundantia eārum rerum, quæ mortāles prima putant, scil. negotia. Sall. Vel virtus tua me vel vicinĭtas, quod ego in aliquā parte amicitiæ puto, facit ut te moneam, scil. negotium. Ter. In omni Africā, qui agēbant; for in omnibus Afris. Sallust. Jug. 89. Non diffidentiâ futūri, quæ imperavisset, for quod. Ib. 100.

Obs. 3. When the relative comes after two words of different persons, it agrees with the first or second person rather than the third; as, Ego sum vir, qui facio, scarcely facit. In English it sometimes agrees with either; as, I am the man, who make, or maketh. But when once the person of the relative is fixed, it ought to be continued through the rest of the sentence; thus it is proper to say, "I am the man, who takes care of your interest," but if I add, "at the expense of my own," it would be improper. It ought either to be "his own," or "who take." In like manner, we may say, "I thank you who gave, who did love," &c. But it is improper to say, "I thank thee, who gave, who did love:" it should be, "who gavest, who didst love." In no part of English syntax are inaccuracies committed more frequently than in this. Beginners are particularly apt to fall into them, in turning Latin into English. The reason of it seems to be our applying thou or you, thy or your, promiscuously, to express the second person singular, whereas the Latins almost always expressed it by tu and tuus.

Obs. 4. The antecedent is often implied in a possessive adjective; as, Omnes laudāre fortūnas meas, qui habērem gnatum tali ingenio prædītum. Ter. Sometimes the antecedent must be drawn from the sense of the foregoing words; as, Carne pluit, quem imbrem aves rapuisse feruntur; i. e. pluit imbrem carne, quem imbrem, &c. Liv. Si tempus est ullum jure homīnis necandi, quæ multa sunt, scil. tempŏra. Cic.

Obs. 5. The relative is sometimes entirely omitted; as, Urbs antīqua fuit: Tyrii tenuēre colōni, scil. quam or eam. Virg. Or, if once expressed, is afterwards omitted, so that it must be supplied in a different case; as, Bocchus cum peditĭbus, quos filius ejus adduxĕrat, neque in priōre pugnâ adfuĕrant, Romānos invādunt: for quique in priōre pugnâ non adfuĕrant. Sall. In English the relative is often omitted, where in Latin it must be expressed; as, The letter I wrote, for the letter which I wrote; The man I love, to wit, whom. But this omission of the relative is generally improper, particularly in serious discourse.

Obs. 6. The case of the relative sometimes seems to depend on that of the antecedent; as, Cum alĭquid agas eōrum, quorum consulĕsti, for quæ consulĕsti agĕre, or quorum alĭquid agĕre consulĕsti. Cic. Restitue in quem me accepisti locum, for in locum, in quo. Ter. And. iv. 1. 58. But such examples rarely occur.

Obs. 7. The adjective pronouns, ille, ipse, iste, hic, is, and idem, in their construction, resemble that of the relative qui; as, Liber ejus, His or her book; Vita eōrum, Their life, when applied to men; Vita eārum, Their life, when applied to women. By the improper use of these pronouns in English, the meaning of sentences is often rendered obscure.

Obs. 8. The interrogative or indefinite adjectives, qualis, quantus, quotus, &c. are also sometimes construed like relatives; as, Facies est, qualem decet esse sorōrum. Ovid. But these have commonly other adjectives either expressed or understood, which answer to them; as, Tanta est multitūdo, quantam urbs capĕre potest: and are often applied to different substantives; as, Quales sunt cives, talis est civitas. Cic.

Obs. 9. The relative who in English is applied only to persons, and which to things and irrational animals; but formerly which was likewise applied to persons; as, Our Father, which art in heaven: and whose, the genitive of who, is also used sometimes, though perhaps improperly, for of which. That is used indifferently for persons and things. What, when not joined with a substantive, is only applied to things, and includes both the antecedent and the relative, being the same with that which, or the thing which; as, That is what he wanted; that is, the thing which he wanted.

Obs. 10. The Latin relative often cannot be translated literally into English, on account of the different idioms of the two languages; as, Quod cum ita esset, When that was so; not, Which when it was so, because then there would be two nominatives to the verb was, which is improper. Sometimes the accusative of the relative in Latin must be rendered by the nominative in English; as, Quem dicunt me esse? Who do they say that I am? not whom. Quem dicunt adventāre? Who do they say is coming?

Obs. 11. As the relative is always connected with a different verb from the antecedent, it is usually construed with the subjunctive mode, unless when the meaning of the verb is expressed positively; as, Audīre cupio, quæ legĕris, I want to hear, what you have read; that is, what perhaps or probably you may have read; Audīre cupio, quæ legisti, I want to hear, what you (actually or in fact) have read.

To the construction of the Relative may be subjoined that of the ANSWER TO A QUESTION.

The answer is commonly put in the same case with the question; as,

Quī vocāre? Geta, sc. vocor. Quid quæris? Librum, sc. quæro. Quotā horā venisti? Sextā. Sometimes the construction is varied; as, Cujus est liber? Meus, not mei. Quanti emptus est? Decem assĭbus. Damnatusne es furti? Imo alio crimĭne. Often the answer is made by other parts of speech than nouns; as, Quid agĭtur? Statur, sc. a me, a nobis. Quis fecit? Nescio: Aiunt Petrum fecisse. Quomŏdo vales? Benè, malè. Scripsistīne? Scripsi, ita, etiam, immo, &c. An vidisti? Non vidi, non, minimè, &c. Chærea tuam vestem detraxit tibi? Factum. Et eā est indūtus? Factum. Ter. Most of the Rules of Syntax may thus be exemplified in the form of questions and answers.

THE CONSTRUCTION OF CONJUNCTIONS.

LVIII. The conjunctions, et, ac, atque, nec, neque, aut, vel, and some others, couple similar cases and modes; as,

Honōra patrem et matrem,	Honour father and mother.
Nec legit nec scribit,	He neither reads nor writes.

Obs. 1. To this rule belong particularly the copulative and disjunctive conjunctions; as likewise, quàm, nisi, præter- quam, an; and also adverbs of likeness; as, ceu, tanquam, quasi, ut, &c. as,

Nullum præmium a vobis postŭlo, præterquam hujus dĭēi memoriam. Cic. Gloria virtūtem tanquam umbra sequĭtur. Id.

Obs. 2. These conjunctions properly connect the different members of a sentence together, and are hardly ever applied to single words, unless when some other word is understood. Hence, if the construction of the sentence be varied, different cases and modes may be coupled together; as,

Intĕrest mea et reipublĭcæ; Constĭtit asse et pluris; Sive ex Romæ, sive in Epīro; Decius cum se devovēret, et in mediam aciem irruēbat. Cic. Vir magni ingenii summâque industriâ; Neque per vim, neque insidiis. Sall. Tecum habĭta, & nŏris, quàm sit tibi curta supellex. Pers.

Obs. 3. When et, aut, vel, sive, or nec, are joined to different members of the same sentence, without connecting it particularly to any former sentence, the first et, is rendered in English by both or likewise; aut or vel, by either; the first sive, by whether; and the first nec, by neither; as,

Et legit, et scribit; so, tum legit, tum scribit; or cum legit, tum scribit, He both reads and writes; Sive legit, sive scribit, Whether he reads or writes; Jacĕre quâ vera, quâ falsa; Increpāre quâ consŭles ipsos, quâ exercĭtum, to upbraid both the consuls and the army. Liv.

LIX. Two or more substantives singular coupled by a conjunction, (as, et, ac, atque, &c.) have an adjective, verb, or relative plural; as,

Petrus et Joannes, qui sunt docti, Peter and John, who are learned.

Obs. 1. If the substantives be of different persons, the verb plural must agree with the first person rather than the second, and with the second rather than the third; as, Si tu et Tullia valētis, ego et Cicĕro valēmus, If you and Tullia are well, I and Cicero are well. Cic. In English the person speaking usually puts himself last; thus, You and I read; Cicero and I are well; but in Latin the person who speaks is generally put first; thus, Ego et tu legĭmus.

Obs. 2. If the substantives are of different genders, the adjective or relative plural must agree with the masculine rather than the feminine or neuter: as, Pater et mater, qui sunt mortui; but this is only applicable to beings which may have life. The person is sometimes implied; as, Athenārum et Cratippi, ad quos, &c. Propter summam doctōris auctoritātem et urbis, quorum alter, &c. Cic. Where Athēnæ & urbs are put for the learned men of Athens. So in substantives; as, Ad Ptolemæum Cleopatramque reges legāti missi, i. e. the king and queen. Liv.

Obs. 3. If the substantives signify things without life, the adjective or relative plural must be put in the neuter gender; as, Divitiæ, decus, gloria, in ocŭlis sita sunt. Sall.

The same holds, if any of the substantives signify a thing without life; because when we apply a quality or join an adjective to several substantives of different genders, we must reduce the substantives to some certain class, under which they may all be comprehended, that is, to what is called their Genus. Now the Genus or class, which comprehends under it both persons and things, is that of substances or beings in general, which are neither masculine nor feminine. To express this, the Latin grammarians use the word Negotia.

Obs. 4. The adjective or yerb frequently agrees with the nearest substantive or nominative, and is understood to the rest; as,

Et ego et Cicĕro meus flagitābit. Cic. Sociis et rege recepto. Virg. Et ego in culpâ sum, et tu, Both I am in the fault, and you; or, Et ego et tu es in culpâ, Both I and you are in the fault. Nihil hic nisi carmĭna, desunt; or nihil hic deest nisi carmĭna. Omnia, quibus turbāri solĭta erat civĭtas, domi discordia, foris bellum exortum; Duo millia et quadringenti cæsi. Liv. This construction is most usual, when the different substantives resemble one another in sense; as, Mens, ratio, et consilium, in senĭbus est, Understanding, reason, and prudence is in old men. Quibus ipse meīque ante Larem proprium vescor, for vescĭmur. Horat.

Obs. 5. The plural is sometimes used after the preposition cum put for et; as, Remo cum fratre Quirīnus jura dabunt. Virg. The conjunction is frequently understood; as, Dum ætas, metus, magister prohibĕbant. Ter. Frons, ocŭli, vultus sæpe mentiuntur. Cic.

The different examples comprehended under this rule are commonly referred to the figure Syllepsis.

LX. The conjunctions, ut, quo, licet, ne, utĭnam, and dummŏdo, are for the most part joined to the subjunctive mode; as,

Lego ut discam,	I read that I may learn.
Utĭnam sapĕres,	I wish you were wise.

Obs. 1. All interrogatives, when placed indefinitely, have after them the subjunctive mode.

Whether they be adjectives, as, Quantus, qualis, quotus, quotŭplex, uter; Pronouns, as, quis & cujas: Adverbs, as, Ubi, quo, unde, qua, quorsum, quamdĭu, quamdūdum, quamprĭdem, quoties, cur, quare, quamobrĕm, dum, utrum, quomŏdo, quĭ, ut, quăm, quantopĕre; or Conjunctions, as, ne, an, anne, annon: Thus, Quis est? Who is it? Nescio quis sit; I do not know who it is. An ventūrus est? Nescio, dubĭto, an ventūrus sit. Vides ut alta stet nive candĭdum Soracte? Hor. But these words are sometimes joined with the indicative; as, Scio quid ego. Plaut. Haud scio, an amat. Ter. Vide avaritia quid facit. Id. Vides quàm turpe est. Cic.

¶ In like manner the relative QUI in a continued discourse; as, Nihil est quod Deus efficĕre non possit. Quis est, qui utilia fugiat? Cic. Or when joined with QUIPPE or UTPOTE; Neque Antonius procul abĕrat, utpŏte qui sequerētur, &c. Sall. But these are sometimes, although more rarely, joined with the indicative. So, est qui, sunt qui, est quando or ubi, &c. are joined with the indicative or subjunctive.

NOTE. Haud scio an recte dixĕrim, is the same with dico, affirmo. Cic.

Obs. 2. When any thing doubtful or contingent is signified, conjunctions and indefinites are usually construed with the subjunctive; but when a more absolute or determinate sense is expressed, with the indicative mode; as, If he is to do it; Although he was rich, &c.

Obs. 3. ETSI, TAMETSI, and TAMENETSI, QUANQUAM, in the beginning of a sentence, have the indicative; but elsewhere they also take the subjunctive; ETIAMSI and QUAMVIS commonly have the subjunctive, and UT, although, always has it; as, Ut quæras, non reperies. Cic. QUONIAM, QUANDO, QUANDOQUIDEM, are usually construed with the indicative; SI, SIN, NE, NISI, SIQUIDEM, QUOD, and QUIA, sometimes with the indicative, and sometimes with the subjunctive. DUM, for dummŏdo, provided, has always the subjunctive; as, Oderint dum metuant. Cic. And QUIPPE, for nam, always the indicative; as, Quippe vetor fatis.

Obs. 4. Some conjunctions have their correspondent conjunctions belonging to them; so that, in the following member of the sentence, the latter answers to the former: thus, when etsi, tametsi, or quamvis, although, are used in the former member of a sentence, tamen, yet or nevertheless, generally answers to them in the latter. In like manner, Tam,—quam; Adeo or ita,—ut: in English, As,—as, or so; as, Etsi sit liberālis, tamen non est profūsus, Although he be liberal, yet he is not profuse. So priùs or antè,—quàm. In some of these, however, we find the latter conjunction sometimes omitted, particularly in English.

Obs. 5. The conjunction ut is elegantly omitted after these verbs, Volo, nolo, malo, rogo, precor, censeo, suadeo, licet, oportet, necesse est, and the like; and likewise after these imperatives, Sine, fac, or facĭto; as, Ducas volo hodie uxōrem; Nolo mentiāre; Fac cogites. Ter. In like manner ne is commonly omitted after cave; as, Cave facias. Cic. Post is also sometimes understood; thus, Die octāvo, quam creātus erat. Liv. 4. 47, scil. post. And so in English, See you do it; I beg you would come to me, scil. that.

Obs. 6. Ut and Quòd are thus distinguished: ut denotes the final cause, and is commonly used with regard to something future; quòd marks the efficient or impulsive cause, and is generally used concerning the event or thing done; as, Lego ut discam, I read that I may learn; Gaudeo quòd legi, I am glad that or because I have read. Ut is likewise used after these intensive words, as they are called, Adeo, ita, sic, tam, talis, tantus, tot, &c.

Obs. 7. After the verbs timeo, vereor, and the like, ut is taken in a negative sense for ne non, and ne in an affirmative sense; as,

Timeo ne faciat, I fear he will do it: Timeo ut faciat, I fear he will not do it. Id paves ne ducas tu illam, tu autem ut ducas. Ter. Ut sis vitālis, metuo. Hor. Timeo ut frater vivat, will not live;—ne frater moriātur, will die. But in some few examples they seem to have a contrary meaning.

THE CONSTRUCTION OF COMPARATIVES.

LXI. The comparative degree governs the ablative, (when it can be translated by than); as,

Dulcior melle, sweeter than honey. Præstantior auro, better than gold.

Obs. 1. The positive with the adverb magis, likewise governs the ablative; as, Magis dilecta luce. Virg.

The ablative is here governed by the preposition præ understood, which is sometimes expressed; as, Fortior præ cæteris. We find the comparative also construed with other prepositions; as, immanior ante omnes. Virg.

Obs. 2. The comparative degree may likewise be construed with the conjunction quàm, and then, instead of the ablative, the noun is to be put in whatever case the sense requires; as,

Dulcior quàm mel, scil. est. Amo te magis quàm illum, I love you more than him, that is, quàm amo illum, than I love him. Amo te magis quàm ille, I love you more than he, i. e. quàm ille amat, than he loves. Plus datur a me quàm illo, sc. ab.

Obs. 3. The conjunction quàm is often elegantly suppressed after amplius and plus; as, Vulnerantur amplius sexcenti. scil. quàm. Cæs. Plus quingentos colāphos infrĕgit mihi, He has laid on me more than five hundred blows. Ter. Castra ab urbe haud plus quinque millia passuum locant, sc. quàm. Liv.

Quàm is sometimes elegantly placed between two comparatives; as, Triumphus clarior quàm gratior. Liv. Or the prep. pro is added; as, Prælium atrocius, quàm pro numĕro pugnantium editur. Liv.

The comparative is sometimes joined with these ablatives, opiniōne, spe, æquo, justo, dicto; as,

Credibili opinione major. Cic. Credibili fortior. Ovid, Fast. iii. 618. Gravius æquo. Sall. Dicto citius. Virg. Majora credibili tulimus. Liv. They are often understood; as, Liberius vivebat, sc. justo, too freely. Nepos. 2. 1.

Nihil is sometimes elegantly used for nemo or nulli; as,

Nihil vidi quidquam lætius, for neminem. Ter. Crasso nihil perfectius. Cic. Asperius nihil est humili, cum surgit in altum. So, quid nobis laboriosius, for quis, &c. Cic. We say, inferior patre nullâ re, or quàm pater. The comparative is sometimes repeated, or joined with an adverb; as, Magis magisque, plus plusque, minus minusque, carior cariorque; Quotidie plus, indies magis, semper candidior candidiorque, &c.

Obs. 4. The relation of equality or sameness is likewise expressed by conjunctions; as, Est tam doctus quàm ego, He is as learned as I. Animus erga te idem est ac fuit. Ac and atque are sometimes, though more rarely, used after comparatives; as, Nihil est magis verum atque hoc. Ter.

Obs. 5. The excess or defect of measure is put in the ablative after comparatives; and the sign in English is by, expressed or understood; (or more shortly, the difference of measure is put in the ablative;) as,

Est decem digitis altior quàm frater, He is ten inches taller than his brother, or by ten inches. Altĕro tanto major est fratre, i. e. duplo major, He is as big again as his brother, or twice as big. Sesquipĕde minor, a foot and a half less; Altĕro tanto, aut sesquimājor, as big again, or a half bigger. Cic. Ter tanto pejor est; Bis tanto amici sunt inter se, quàm prius. Plaut. Quinquies tanto amplius, quàm quantum licitum sit, civitatibus imperavit, five times more. Cic. To this may be added many other ablatives, which are joined with the comparative, to increase its force; as, Tanto, quanto, quo, eo, hoc, multo, paulo, nimio, &c. thus, Quo plus habent, eo plus cupiunt, The more they have, the more they desire. Quanto melior, tanto felicior, The better, the happier. Quoque minor spes est, hoc magis ille cupit. Ovid, Fast. ii. 768. We frequently find multo, tanto, quanto, also joined with superlatives; Multo pulcherrimam eam habērēmus. Sall. Multoque id maximum fuit. Liv.

THE ABLATIVE ABSOLUTE.

LXII. A Substantive and a participle are put in the ablative, when their case depends on no other word; as,

Sole oriente, fugiunt tenebræ, The sun rising, or while the sun riseth, darkness flies away.

Opĕre peracto, ludēmus, Our work being finished, or when our work is finished, we will play.

So, Dominante libidine, temperantiæ nullus est locus; Nihil amicitiâ præstabilius est, exceptâ virtūte; Oppressâ libertāte patriæ, nihil est quod sperēmus amplius; Nobilium vitâ victūque mutātō, mores, mutāri civitātium puto. Cic. Parumper silentium et quies fuit, nec Etruscis, nisi cogerentur, pugnam initūris, et dictatōre arcem Romānam respectante, ac ab augurĭbus, simul aves ritè admissisent, ex composito tollerētur signum.

Liv. Bellŏe, depositis clypeo paulisper et hastâ, Mars ades. Ovid, Fast. iii. 1.

Obs. 1. This ablative is called Absolute, because it does not depend upon any other word in the sentence.

For if the substantive with which the participle is joined, be either the nominative to some following verb, or be governed by any word going before, then this rule does not take place; the ablative absolute is never used, unless when different persons or things are spoken of; as, Milĭtes, hostĭbus victis, rediĕrunt. The soldiers, having conquered the enemy, returned. Hostĭbus victis, may be rendered in English several different ways, according to the meaning of the sentence with which it is joined; thus, 1. The enemy conquered, or being conquered: 2. When or after the enemy is or was conquered: 3. By conquering the enemy: 4. Upon the defeat of the enemy, &c.

Obs. 2. The perfect participles of deponent verbs are not used in the ablative absolute; as, Cĭcĕro locūtus hæc consēdit, never, his locūtis. The participles of common verbs may either agree in case with the substantive before them, like the participles of deponent verbs, or may be put in the ablative absolute, like the participles of passive verbs; as, Romāni adepti libertātem floruērunt; or Romāni, lĭbertāte adeptâ, floruērunt. But as the participles of common verbs are seldom taken in a passive sense, we therefore rarely find them used in the ablative absolute.

Obs. 3. The participle existente or existentĭbus is frequently understood; as, Cæsăre duce, scil. existente. His consulĭbus, scil. existentĭbus. Invītâ Minervâ, sc. existente, against the grain; Crassâ Minervâ, without learning. Hor. Magistrâ ac duce natūrâ; vivis fratrĭbus; te hortatōre; Cæsăre impulsōre, &c. Sometimes the substantive must be supplied; as, Nondum comperto, quam regiōnem hostes petīssent, i. e. cum nondum compertum esset. Liv. Tum demum palam facto, sc. negotio. Id. Excepto quòd non simul esses, cætĕra lætus. Hor. Parto quod avēbas. Id. In such examples negotio must be understood, or the rest of the sentence considered as the substantive, which perhaps is more proper. Thus we find a verb supply the place of a substantive; as, Vale dicto, having said farewell. Ovid.

Obs. 4. We sometimes find a substantive plural joined with a participle singular; as, Nobis presente. Plaut. Absente nobis. Ter. We also find the ablative absolute, when it refers to the same person with the nominative to the verb; as, me duce, ad hunc voti finem, me milĭte, veni. Ovid. Amor. ii. 12. 12. Lætos fecit se consŭle fastos. Lucan. v. 384. Popŭlo spectante fiĕri credam, quicquid me conscio faciam. Senec. de Vit. Beat. c. 20. But examples of this construction rarely occur.

Obs. 5. The ablative called absolute is governed by some preposition understood; as, a, ab, cum, sub, or in. We find the preposition sometimes expressed; as, Cum diis juvantĭbus. Liv. The nominative likewise seems sometimes to be used absolutely; as, Perniciōsă libidĭne paulisper usus, infirmĭtas natūræ accusātur. Sall. Jug. 1.

Obs. 6. The ablative absolute may be rendered several different ways; thus, Superbo regnante, is the same with cum, dum, or quando Superbus regnābat. Opĕre peracto, is the same with Post opus peractum, or Cum opus est peractum. The present participle, when used in the ablative absolute, commonly ends in e.

Obs. 7. When a substantive is joined with a participle, in English, independently on the rest of the sentence, it is expressed in the nominative; as, Illo descendente, He descending. But this manner of speech is seldom used except in poetry.

II. FIGURES OF SYNTAX.

A Figure is a manner of speaking different from the ordinary and plain way, used for the sake of beauty or force.

The figures of Syntax or Construction may be reduced to these three, Ellipsis, Plĕonasm, and Hyperbăton.

The two first respect the constituent part of a sentence; the last respects only the arrangement of the words.

1. ELLIPSIS.

ELLIPSIS is the want of one or more words to complete the sense; as, Aiunt, ferunt, dicunt, perhĭbent, scil. homĭnes. Abĕrant bidui, sc. iter or itinĕre. Quid multa? sc. dicam.

When a conjunction is to be supplied, the figure is called ASYNDĔTON; as, Deus optĭmus maxĭmus, sc. et.

To this figure may be reduced most of those irregularities in Syntax, as they are called, which are variously classed by grammarians, under the names of ENALLĂGE, i. e. the changing of words and their accidents, or the putting of one word for another; ANTIPTŌSIS, i. e. the putting of one case for another; HELLĔNISM or GRÆCISM, i. e. imitating the construction of the Greeks; SYNĔSIS, i. e. referring the construction, not to the grammatical gender or number of the word, but to the sense, &c.; thus, Samnitium duo millia cæsi, is, Duo millia (homĭnum) Samnitium (fuērunt homĭnes) cæsi. Liv. So Servitia immemŏres.

When a writer frequently uses the Ellipsis, his style is said to be elliptical or concise.

2. PLEONASM.

PLEĔONASM is the addition of a word more than is absolutely necessary to express the sense; as, Video ocŭlis, I see with my eyes. Sic ore locūta est, Thus she spoke with her mouth. Virg.

When a conjunction is used apparently redundant, the figure is called POLYSYNDĔTON; as, Ūnà Eurusque Notusque ruunt. Virg.

When that which is in reality one, is so expressed as if there were two, the figure is called HENDIĂDYS; as, Patĕris libāmus et auro, for aureis patĕris. Virg.

When several words are used to express one thing, the figure is called PERIPHRĂSIS; as, Urbs Trojæ, for Troja. Virg. Res voluptātum, for voluptātes. Plaut.

3. HYPERBATON.

HYPERBĂTON is the transgression of that order or arrangement of words, which is commonly used in any language. It is chiefly to be met with among the poets. The various sorts into which it is divided, are Anastrŏphe, Hystĕron protĕron, Hypallăge, Synchĕsis, Tmesis, and Parenthĕsis.

1. ANASTRŎPHE is an inversion of words, or the placing of that word last which should be first; as, Italiam contra; His accensa super; Spemque metumque inter dubii; for contra Italiam, super his, inter spem, &c. Virg. Terram sol facit are, for are-facit. Lucret.

2. HYSTĔRON PROTĔRON is the placing in the former part of the sentence that which, according to the sense, should be in the latter; as, Valet atque vivit, for vivit atque valet. Ter.

3. HYPALLĂGE is an exchanging of cases; as, Dare classĭbus austros, for dare classes austris. Virg.

4. SYNCHĔSIS is a confused and intricate arrangement of words; as, Saxa vocant Ităli mediis quæ in fluctĭbus aras; for Quæ saxa in mediis fluctĭbus Ităli vocant aras. Virg. This occurs particularly in violent passion; as, Per tibi ego hunc juro fortem castumque cruōrem. Ovid. Fast. ii. 841.

5. TMESIS is the division of a compound word, and the interposing of other words betwixt its parts; as, Septem subjecta triōni gens, for Septentriōni. Virg. Quæ meo cunque animo libĭtum est facĕre, for quæcunque. Ter.

6. PARENTHĔSIS is the inserting of a member into the body of a sentence, which is neither necessary to the sense, nor at all affects the construction; as, Tĭtўre, dum redeo, (brevis est via,) pasce capellas. Virg.

III. ANALYSIS AND TRANSLATION.

The difficulty of translating either from English into Latin, or from Latin into English, arises in a great measure from the different arrangement of words, which takes place in the two languages.

In Latin the various terminations of nouns, and the inflection of adjectives and verbs, point out the relation of one word to another, in whatever order they are placed. But in English the agreement and government of words can only be determined from the particular part of the sentence in which they stand. Thus in Latin, we can either say, Alexander vicit Da- rĕum, or Darium vicit Alexander, or Alexander Darium vicit, or Darium Alexander vicit; and in each instance the sense is equally obvious: but in English we can only say, Alexander conquered Darius. This variety of arrangement in Latin gives it a great advantage over the English, not only in point of energy and vivacity of expression, but also in point of harmony. We sometimes, indeed, for the sake of variety and force, imitate in English the inversion of words which takes place in Latin; as, Him the Eternal hurl'd. Milton. Whom ye ignorantly worship, him declare I unto you. But this is chiefly to be used in poetry.

With regard to the proper order of words to be observed in translating from English into Latin, the only certain rule which can be given, is to imitate the CLASSICS.

The order of words in sentences is said to be either simple or artificial; or, as it is otherwise expressed, either natural or oratorial.

The Simple or Natural order is, when the words of a sentence are placed one after another, according to the natural order of syntax.

Artificial or Oratorial order is, when words are so arranged, as to render them most striking, or most agreeable to the ear.

All Latin writers use an arrangement of words, which appears to us more or less artificial, because different from our own, although to them it was as natural as ours is to us. In order, therefore, to render any Latin author into English, we must first reduce the words in Latin to the order of English, which is called the Analÿsis, or Resolution of sentences. It is only practice that can teach one to do this with readiness. However, to a beginner, the observation of the following rule may be of advantage.

Take first the words which serve to introduce the sentence, or show its dependence on what went before; next the nominative, together with the words which it agrees with or governs; then, the verb and adverbs joined with it; and lastly, the cases which the verb governs, together with the circumstances subjoined, to the end of the sentence; supplying through the whole the words which are understood.

If the sentence is compound, it must be resolved into the several sentences of which it is made up; as,

Vale igĭtur, mi Cicĕro, tibique persŭade esse te quidem mihi carissĭmum; sed multo fore caribrem, si talĭbus monumentis præceptisque lætabĭre. Cic. Off. lib. 3. fin.

Farewell then, my Cicero, and assure yourself that you are indeed very dear to me; but shall be much dearer, if you shall take delight in such writings and instructions.

This compound sentence may be resolved into these five simple sentences; 1. Igĭtur, mi (fili) Cicĕro, (tu) vale: 2. et (tu) persuāde tibi (ipsi) te esse quidem (filium) carissĭmum mihi: 3. sed (tu persuāde tibi ipsi te) fore (filium) cariōrem (mihi in) multo (negotio): 4. si (tu) lætabĕre talĭbus monumentis: 5. et (si tu lætabĕre talĭbus) præceptis.

1. Fare (you) well then, my (son) Cicero: 2. and assure (you) yourself that you are indeed (a son) very dear to me: 3. but (assure you yourself that you) shall be (a son) much dearer (to me): 4. if you shall take delight in such writings: 5. and (if you shall take delight in such) instructions.

It may not be improper here to exemplify Analogical Analysis, as it is called, or the analysis of words, from the foregoing sentence, Vale igĭtur, &c. thus,

Vale, scil. tu; Fare (thou) well: second person singular of the imperative mode, active voice, from the neuter verb, valeo, valēre, valui, valĭtum, to be in health, of the second conjugation, not used in the passive. Vale agrees in the second person singular with the nominative tu, by the third rule of syntax.

Igĭtur, then, therefore; a conjunction, importing some inference drawn from what went before.

Mi, voc. sing. masc. of the adjective pronoun, meus, -a, -um, my; derived from the substantive pronoun Ego, agreeing with Cicĕro, by Rule 2. Cicĕro, voc. sing. from the nominative Cicĕro, -ōnis, a proper noun of the third declension.

Et, and; a copulative conjunction, which connects the verb persuāde with the verb vale, by Rule 59. We turn que into et, because que never stands by itself.

Persuāde, scil. tu, persuade thou; second person singular of the imperative active, from the verb persua-deo, -dēre, -si, -sum, to persuade; compounded of the preposition per, and suadeo, -si, -sum, to advise: used impersonally in the passive; thus, Persuadētur mihi, I am persuaded; seldom or never Ego persuadeor. We say however, in the third person, Hoc persuadētur mihi, I am persuaded of this.

Tibi, dat. sing. of the personal pronoun tu, thou; governed by persuāde, according to Rule 17. Te, accusative sing. of tu, put before esse, according to Rule 4.

Esse, present of infinitive, from the substantive verb sum, esse, fui, to be.

Quidem, indeed; an adverb, joined with carissĭmum or esse.

Carissĭmum, accusative sing. masc. from carissĭmus, -a, -um, very dear, dearest, superlative degree of the adjective carus, -a, -um, dear: Comparative degree, carior, carius, dearer, more dear; agreeing with te or filium understood, by Rule 2. and put in the accusative by Rule 5.

Mihi, to me; dat. sing. of the substantive pronoun Ego, I; governed by carissĭmum, by Rule 12.

Sed, but; an adversative conjunction, joining esse and fore.

Fore, the same with esse futūrum, to be, or to be about to be, infinitive of the defective verb fŏrem, -res, -ret, &c. governed in the same manner with the foregoing esse, thus, te fore, Rule 4. or thus, esse sed fore. See Rule 59.

Multo, scil. negotio, ablat. sing. neut. of the adjective multus, -a, -um, much, put in the ablative, according to Observation 5. Rule 61. But multo here may be taken adverbially in the same manner with much in English.

Cariōrem, accus. sing. masc. from carior, -us, the comparative of carus, as before: agreeing with te or filium understood. Rule 2, or Rule 5.

Si, if; a conditional conjunction, joined either with the indicative mode, or with the subjunctive, according to the sense, but oftener with the latter. See Rule 60. Obs. 2.

Lætabĕre, thou shalt rejoice; second person singular of the future of the indicative, from the deponent verb lætor, lætātus, lætāri, to rejoice: Future, læt-ābor, -ābĕris or -ābēre, -ābitur, &c.

Talĭbus, ablat. plur. neut. of the adjective talis, tale, such; agreeing with monumentis, the ablat. plur. of the substantive noun monumentum, -ti, neut. a monument or writing; of the second declension; derived from moneo, -ēre, -ui, -ĭtum, to admonish; here put in the ablative, according to Rule 49. Et, a copulative conjunction, as before.

Præceptis, a substantive noun in the ablative plural, from the nominative præceptum, -ti, neut. a precept, an instruction; derived from præcipio, -cipĕre, -cēpi, -ceptum, to instruct, to order, compounded of the preposition præ, before, and the verb capio, capĕre, cēpi, captum, to take. The ă of the simple is changed into i short; thus præcĭpio, præcĭpis, &c.

The learner may in like manner be taught to analyze the words in English, and, in doing so, to mark the different idioms of the two languages.

To this may be subjoined a Praxis, or Exercise, on all the different parts of grammar, particularly with regard to the inflexion of nouns and verbs, in the form of questions, such as these, Of Cicero? Cicerōnis. With Cicero? Cicerōne. A dear son? Carus filius. Of a dear son? Cari filii. O my dear son? Mi or meus care fili. Of dearer sons? Cariōrum filiōrum, &c.

Of thee? or of you? Tui. With thee or you? Te. Of you? Vestrûm or vestri. With you? Vobis.

They shall persuade? Persuadēbunt. I can persuade? Persuadeam, or much more frequently possum persuadēre. They are persuaded? Persuadētur, or persuāsum est illīs; according to the time expressed. He is to persuade? Est persuasūrus. He will be persuaded? Persuadebĭtur, or persuāsum erit illi. He cannot be persuaded? Non potest persuadēri illi. I know that he cannot be persuaded? Scio non posse persuadēri illi. That he will be persuaded? Ei persuāsum iri, &c.

When a learner first begins to translate from the Latin, he should keep as strictly to the literal meaning of the words as the different idioms of the two languages will permit. But after he has made farther progress, something more will be requisite. He should then be accustomed, as much as possible, to transfuse the beauties of an author from the one language into the other. For this purpose it will be necessary that he be acquainted, not only with the idioms of the two languages, but also with the different kinds of style adapted to different sorts of composition, and to different subjects; together with the various turns of thought and expression which writers employ, or what are called the figures of words and of thought; or the Figures of Rhetoric.

IV. DIFFERENT KINDS OF STYLE.

The kinds of Style (genĕra dicendi) are commonly reckoned three; the low, (humĭle, submissum, tenue;) the middle, (medium, temperātum, ornātum, florĭdum;) and the sublime, (sublime, grande.)

But besides these, there are various other characters of style; as, the diffuse and concise; the feeble and nervous; the simple and affected, &c.

There are different kinds of style adapted to different subjects, and to different kinds of composition; the style of the Pulpit, of the Bar, and of Popular Assemblies; the style of History, and of its various branches, Annals, Memoirs or Commentaries, and Lives; the style of Philosophy, of Dialogue or Colloquial discourse, of Epistles, and Romance, &c.

There is also a style peculiar to certain writers, called their Manner; as, the style of Cicero, of Livy, of Sallust, &c.

But what deserves particular attention is, the difference between the style of poetry and of prose. As the poets in a manner paint what they describe, they employ various epithets, repetitions, and turns of expression, which are not admitted in prose.

The first virtue of style (virtus oratiōnis) is perspicuity, or that it be easily understood. This requires, in the choice of the words, 1. Purity, in opposition to barbarous, obsolete, or new-coined words, and to errors in Syntax: 2. Propriety, or the selection of the best expressions, in opposition to vulgarisms or low expressions: 3. Precision, in opposition to superfluity of words, or a loose style.

The things chiefly to be attended to in the structure of a sentence, or in the disposition of its parts, are, 1. Clearness, in opposition to ambiguity and obscurity: 2. Unity and Strength, in opposition to an unconnected, intricate, and feeble sentence: 3. Harmony, or a musical arrangement, in opposition to harshness of sound.

The most common defects of style (vitia oratiōnis) are distinguished by various names:

1. A BARBARISM is the using of a foreign or strange word; as, croftus, for agellus; rigorōsus, for rigĭdus or severus; alterāre, for mutāre, &c. Or, a transgression of the rules of Orthography, Etymology, or Prosody; as, charus, for carus; stavi, for steti; tibĭcen, for tibĭcen.

2. A SOLĔCISM is a transgression of the rules of Syntax; as, Dicit libros lectos iri, for lectum iri: We was walking, for we were. A barbarism may consist in one word, but a solecism requires several words.

3. An IDIŌTISM is the using of a manner of expression peculiar to one language in another; as an Anglicism in Latin, thus, I am to write, Ego sum scribĕre, for ego sum scriptūrus; It is I, Est ego, for Ego sum: Or a Latinism in English, thus, Est sapientior me, He is wiser than me; for than I; Quem dicunt me esse? Whom do they say that I am? for who, &c.

4. TAUTOLŎGY is a useless repetition of the same words, or of the same sense in different words.

5. BOMBAST is the using of high sounding words without meaning, or upon a trifling occasion.

6. AMPHIBOLŎGY is when, by the ambiguity of the construction, the meaning may be taken in two different senses; as in the answer of the oracle to Pyrrhus, Aio te, Æăcĭde, Romānos vincĕre posse. But the English is not so liable to this as the Latin.

V. FIGURES OF RHETORIC.

Certain modes of speech are termed Figurative, because they convey our meaning under a borrowed form, or in a particular dress.

Figures (figūræ or schemăta) are of two kinds; figures of words (figūræ verbōrum,) and figures of thought (figūræ sententiārum.) The former are properly called Tropes; and if the word be changed, the figure is lost.

1. TROPES, OR FIGURES OF WORDS.

A Trope (conversio) is an elegant turning of a word from its proper signification.

Tropes take their rise partly from the barrenness of language, but more from the influence of the imagination and passions. They are founded on the relation which one object bears to another, chiefly that of resemblance or similitude.

The principal tropes are the Metăphor, Metonўmy, Synecdŏche, and Irŏny.

1. METĂPHOR (translatio) is when a word is transferred from that to which it properly belongs, to express something to which it is only applied from similitude or resemblance; as, a hard heart; a soft temper; he bridles his anger; a joyful crop; ridet ager, the field smiles, &c. A metaphor is nothing else but a short comparison.

We likewise call that a metaphor, when we substitute one object in the place of another, on account of the close resemblance between them; as when, instead of youth, we say, the morning or spring-time of life; or when, in speaking of a family connected with a common parent, we use the expressions which properly belong to a tree, whose trunk and branches are connected with a common root. When this allusion is carried on through several sentences, or through a whole discourse, and the principal subject kept out of view, so that it can only be discovered by its resemblance to the subject described, it is called an ALLEGORY. An example of this we have in Horace, book I. ode 14. where the republic is described under the allusion of a ship.

An ALLEGORY is only a continued metaphor. This figure is much the same with the Parable, which so often occurs in the sacred scriptures; and with the Fable, such as those of Æsop. The Ænigma or Riddle is also considered as a species of the Allegory; as likewise are many Proverbs (Proverbia or Adagia;) thus, In silvam ligna ferre. Horat.

Metaphors are improper when they are taken from low objects; when they are forced or far fetched; when they are mixed or too far pursued; and when they have not a natural and sensible resemblance; or are not adapted to the subject of discourse, or to the kind of composition, whether poetry or prose.

When a word is very much turned from its proper signification, the figure is called Catachrēsis (abusio;) as, a leaf of paper, of gold, &c.; the empire flourished; parricīda, for any murderer. Vir gregis ipse caper. Virg. Altum ædificant caput. Juv. Hunc vobis deridendum propōno, for trado. Ter. Eurus per Sicŭlas equitāvit undas. Hor.

When a word is taken in two senses in the same phrase, the one proper and the other metaphorical, it is said to be done by Syllepsis, (comprehensio;) as, Galatēa thymo mihi dulcior Hyblæ. Virg. Ego Sardōis videar tibi amarior herbis. Id.

2. METONŸMY (mutatio nominis) is the putting of one name for another. In which sense it includes all other tropes; but it is commonly restricted to the following particulars:

1. When the cause is put for the effect; or the author for his works; as Boum labōres, for corn; Mars, for war; Ceres, for grain or bread; Bacchus, for wine. Virg. Cicero, Virgil, and Horace, for their works.

2. When the effect is put for the cause; as, Pallĭda mors, pale death, because it makes pale; atra cura, &c.

3. The container for what is contained, and sometimes the contrary; as, Hausit patĕram, for vinum. Virg. He loves his bottle, for his drink.

4. The sign for the thing signified; as, The crown, for royal authority; palma or laurus, for victory; Cedant arma togæ, that is, as Cicero himself explains it, bellum concēdat paci.

5. An abstract for the concrete; as, Scelus, for scelestus. Ter. Audacia, for audax. Cic. Vires, for strong men. Hor.

6. The parts of the body for certain passions or sentiments, which were supposed to reside in them; thus, cor, for wisdom or address; as, habet cor; vir cordātus, a man of sense. Plaut. But with us the heart is put for courage or affection, and the head for wisdom; thus, a stout heart, a warm heart..

When we put what follows to express what goes before, or the contrary, this form of expression is called Metalepsis, (transmutatio;) thus, desiderāri, to be desired or regretted, for to be dead, lost, or absent: So, Fuimus Troes, & ingens gloria Dardaniæ, i. e. are no more. Virg. Æn. ii. 325.

3. SYNECDŌCHE (comprehensio or conceptio) is a trope by which a word is made to signify more or less than in its proper sense; as,

1. When a genus is put for a species, or a whole for a part, and the contrary; thus, Mortāles, for homĭnes; summa arbor, for summa pars arbŏris; tectum, the roof, for the whole house. Virg.

2. When a singular is put for a plural, and the contrary; thus, Hostis, miles, pedes, eques, for hostes, &c.

3. When the materials are put for the things made of them; as, Æs or argentum, for money; æra, for vases of brass, trumpets, arms, &c.; ferrum, for a sword.

When a common name is put for a proper name, or the contrary, the figure is called Antonomasia (pronominatio;) as the Philosopher, for Aristotle; the Orator, for Demosthenes or Cicero; the Poet, for Homer or Virgil; the Wise man, for Solomon.

An Antonomasia is often made by a Periphrăsis; as, Pelŏpis parens, for Tantălus; Anŷti reus, for Socrătes; Trojāni belli scriptor, for Homērus; Chirōnis alumnus, for Achilles; Potor Rhodāni, for Gallus. Hor. sometimes with the noun added; as, Fatālis et incestus judex, famōsus hospes, for Paris. Hor.

4. IRŌNY is when one means the contrary of what is said; as, when we say of a bad poet, He is a Virgil; or of a profligate person, Tertius e cœlo cecĭdit Cato.

When any thing is said by way of bitter raillery, or in an insulting manner, it is called a SARCASM; as, Satia te sanguĭne, Cyre. Justin. Hesperiam metĭre jacens. Virg.

When an affirmation is expressed in a negative form, it is called LITŌTES; as, He is no fool, for he is a man of sense; Non humĭlis mulier, for nobĭlis or superba.

When a word has a meaning contrary to its original sense, this contrariety is called ANTIPHRĂSIS; as, auri sacra fames, for execrabĭlis. Virg. Pontus Euxīni falso nomĭne dictus, i. e. hospitālis. Ovid.

When any thing sad or offensive is expressed in more gentle terms, the figure is called EUPHEMISMUS; as, Vitâ functus, for mortuus; conclamāre suos, to give up for lost. Liv. Valeant, for abeant; mactāre or ferīre, for occidĕre; Fecērunt id servi Milōnis, quod suos quisque servos in tali re facĕre voluisset, i. e. Clodium interfecērunt. Cic. This figure is often the same with the Periphrăsis.

The PERIPHRĂSIS, or Circumlocution, is when several words are employed to express what might be expressed in fewer. This is done either from necessity, as in translating from one language into another; or to explain what is obscure, as in definitions; or for the sake of ornament, particularly in poetry, as in the descriptions of evening and morning, &c.

When, after explaining an obscure word or sentence by a periphrasis, one enlarges on the thought of the author, the figure is called a Paraphrase.

When a word imitates the sound of the thing signified, this imitation is called Onomatopœia, (nomĭnis fictio;) as, the whistling of winds, purling of streams, buzz and hum of insects, hiss of serpents, &c. But this figure is not properly a trope.

It is sometimes difficult to ascertain to which of the above-mentioned tropes certain expressions ought to be referred. But in such cases minute exactness is needless. It is sufficient to know in general, that the expression is figurative.

There are a great many tropes peculiar to every language, which cannot be literally expressed in any other. These, therefore, if possible, must be rendered by other figurative expressions equivalent: and if this cannot be done, their meaning should be conveyed in simple language; thus, Interiōre notâ Falerni, with a glass of old Falernian wine: Ad umbilīcum ducĕre, to bring to a conclusion. Horat. These, and other such figurative expressions, cannot be properly explained without understanding the particular customs to which they refer.

2. REPETITION OF WORDS.

Various repetitions of words are employed for the sake of elegance or force, and are therefore also called Figures of words. Rhetoricians have distinguished them by different names, according to the part of the sentence in which they take place.

When the same word is repeated in the beginning of any member of a sentence, it is called ANAPHŌRA; as, Nihilne te nocturnum præsidium palatii, nihil urbis vigiliæ, &c. Cic. Te dulcis conjux, te solo in littŏre secum, Te veniente die, te decedente canēbat. Virg.

When the repetition is made in the end of the member, it is called EPISTRŌPHE, or Conversio; as, Pœnos Popŭlus Romānus justitiâ vicit, armis vicit, liberalitāte vicit. Cic. Sometimes both the former occur in the same sentence, and then it is called SYMPLŎCE, or Complexio; as, Quis legem tulit? Rullus. Quis, &c. Rullus. Cic.

When the same word is repeated in the beginning of the first clause of a sentence, and in the end of the latter, it is called EPANALEPSIS; as, Vidīmus victoriam tuam præliōrum exĭtu terminātum; gladium vaginâ vacuum in urbe non vidīmus. Cic. pro Marcello.

The reverse of the former is called ANADIPLŌSIS, or Reduplicatio; as, Hic tamen vivit: vivit! imo in senātum venit. Cic.

When that, which is placed first in the foregoing member, is repeated last in the following, and the contrary, it is called EPANŎDOS, or Regressio; as, Crudēlis tu quoque mater; Crudēlis mater magis an puer imprŏbus ille? Imprŏbus ille puer, crudēlis tu quoque mater. Virg.

The passionate repetition of the same word in any part of a sentence, is called EPIZEUXIS; as, Excitāte, excitāte eum ab infĕris. Cic. Fuit, fuit ista virtus, &c. Id. Me, me, adsum qui feci, in me convertīte ferrum. Virg. Bella, horrĭda bella. Id. Ibīmus, ibīmus. Hor.

When we proceed from one thing to another, so as to connect by the same word the subsequent part of a sentence with the preceding, it is called CLIMAX, or Gradatio; as, Africāno virtūtem industria, virtus gloriam, gloria æmŭlos comparāvit. Cic.

When the same word is repeated in various cases, moods, genders, numbers, &c. it is called POLYPTŌTON; as, Pleni sunt omnes libri, plenæ sapientûm voces, plena exemplōrum vetustas. Cic. Littŏra littorĭbus contraria, fluctĭbus undas imprĕcor, arma armis. Virg.

To this is usually referred what is called SYNONYMIA, or the using of words of the same import, to express a thing more strongly; as, Non feram, non patiar, non sinam. Cic. Promitto, recipio, spondeo. Id. And also EXPOSITIO, which repeats the same thought in different lights.

When a word is repeated the same in sound, but not in sense, it is called ANTANACLĀSIS; as, Amāri jucundum est, si curētur ne quid insit amāri. Cic. But this is reckoned a defect in style, rather than a beauty. Nearly allied to this figure is the PARONOMASIA, or Agnominatio, when the words only resemble one another in sound; as, Civem bonārum artium, bonārum partium; Consul pravo animo & parvo: de oratōre arātor factus. Cic. Amantes sunt amentes. Ter. This is also called a PUN.

When two or more words are joined in any part of a sentence in the same cases or tenses, it is called HOMOIOPTŌTON, i. e. similiter cadens; as Pollet auctoritāte, circumfluit opĭbus, abundat amīcis. Cic. If the words have only a similar termination, it is called HOMOIOTELEUTON, i. e similiter desinens: as, Non ejusdem est facĕre fortĭter, & vivĕre tuto pŭter. Cic.

3. FIGURES OF THOUGHT.

It is not easy to reduce figures of thought to distinct classes, because the same figure is employed for several different purposes. The principal are the Hyperbŏle, Prosopopœia, Apostrŏphe, Simĭle, Antithĕsis, &c.

1. HYPERBŎLE is the magnifying of a thing above the truth; as, when Virgil, speaking of Polyphēmus, says, Ipse arduus, altaque pulsat sidĕra. So, Contracta pisces æquŏra sentiunt. Hor. When an object is diminished below the truth, it is called Tapeinōsis. The use of extravagant Hyperboles forms what is called Bombast.

2. PROSOPOPŒIA, or Personification, is a figure by which we ascribe life, sentiments, or actions, to inanimate beings, or to abstract qualities; as, Quæ (patria) tecum, Catilina, sic agit, &c. Cic. Virtus sumit aut ponit secūres. Hor. Arbŏre nunc aquas culpante. Id.

3. APOSTRŎPHE, or Address, is when the speaker breaks off from the series of his discourse, and addresses himself to some person present or absent, living or dead, or to inanimate nature, as if endowed with sense and reason. This figure is nearly allied to the former, and therefore often joined with it, as, Trojăque nunc stares, Priamīque arx alta manēres. Virg.

4. SIMĬLE, or Comparison, is a figure by which one thing is illustrated or heightened by comparing it to another: as, Alexander was as bold as a lion.

5. ANTITHĔSIS, or Opposition, is a figure by which things contrary or different are contrasted, to make them appear in the most striking light; as, Hannibal was cunning, but Fabius was cautious. Cæsar beneficiis ac munificentiâ magnus habebātur, integritāte vitæ Cato, &c. Sall. Cat. 54.

6. INTERROGATION, (Græc. Erotēsis,) is a figure whereby we do not simply ask a question, but express some strong feeling or affection of the mind in that form; as, Quousque tandem, &c. Cic. Credĭtis avectos hostes? Virg. Heu! quæ me æquŏra possunt accipĕre. Id. Sometimes an answer is returned, in which case it is called Subjectio; as, Quid ergo? audacissĭmus ego ex omnĭbus? minĭme. Cic. Nearly allied to this is Expostulation, when a person pleads with offenders to return to their duty.

7. EXCLAMATION (Ecphonēsis) is a sudden expression of some passion or emotion; as, O nomen dulce libertātis, &c. Cic. O tempŏra, O mores! Id. O patria! O Divûm domus Ilium! &c. Virg.

8. DESCRIPTION, or Imagery, (Hypotypōsis,) is the painting of any thing in a lively manner, as if done before our eyes. Hence it is also called Vision; as, Videor mihi hanc urbem vidēre, &c. Cic. in Cat. iv..6. Vidēre magnos jam videor duces, Non indecōro pulvĕre sordĭdos. Hor. Here a change of tense is often used, as the present for the past, and conjunctions omitted, &c. Virg. xi. 637, &c.

9. EMPHĂSIS is a particular stress of voice laid on some word in a sentence; as Hannĭbal peto pacem. Liv. Proh! Jupĭter ibit HIC! i. e. Æneas. Virg.

10. EPANORTHŌSIS, or Correction, is the recalling or correcting by the speaker of what he last said; as, Filium habui, ah! quid dixi habēre me? imò habui. Ter.

11. PARALEPSIS, or Omission, is the pretending to omit, or pass by, what one at the same time declares.

12. APARITHMĒSIS, or Enumeration, is the branching out into several parts of what might be expressed in fewer words.

13. SYNATHROISMUS, or Coacervatio, is the crowding of many particulars together; as,

Faces in castra tulissem,
Implêssemque foros flammâ natumque, patremque
Cum genere extinxêm, memet super ipsa dedissem. Virg.

14. Incrementum, or CLIMAX in sense, is the rising of one member above another to the highest; as, Facĭnus est vincīre civem Romānum, scelus verberāre, parricidium necāre. Cic.

When all the circumstances of an object or action are artfully exaggerated, it is called AUXĒSIS, or Amplification. But this is properly not one figure, but the skilful employment of several, chiefly of the Simile and the Climax.

15. TRANSITION (Metabăsis) is an abrupt introduction of a speech; or the passing of a writer suddenly from one subject to another; as, Hor. Od. ii. 13. 13. In strong passion, a change of person is sometimes used; as, Virg. Æn. iv. 365, &c. xi. 406, &c.

16. SUSPENSIO, or Sustentatio, is the keeping of the mind of the hearer long in suspense; to which the Latin inversion of words is often made subservient.

17. CONCESSIO is the yielding of one thing to obtain another; as, Sit fur, sit sacrilĕgus, &c. at est bonus imperātor. Cic. in Verrem v. 1.

PROLEPSIS, Prevention or Anticipation, is the starting and answering of an objection.

ANACOINŌSIS, or Communication, is when the speaker deliberates with the judges or hearers; which is also called Diaporēsis or Addubitatio.

LICENTIA, or the pretending to assume more freedom than is proper, is used for the sake of admonishing, rebuking, and also flattering; as, Vide quam non reformīdem, &c. Cic. pro Ligario.

APOSIOPĒSIS, or Concealment, leaves the sense incomplete; as, Quos ego —— sed præstat motos componĕre fluctus. Virg.

18. SENTENTIA (Gnome) a sentiment, is a general maxim concerning life or manners, which is expressed in various forms; as, Otium sine litĕris mors est. Seneca. Adeò in teněris assuescĕre multum est. Virg. Probĭtas laudātur et alget; Misĕra est magni custodia censŭs; Nobilĭtas sola est atque unĭca virtus. Juv.

As most of these figures are used by orators, and some of them only in certain parts of their speeches, it will be proper for the learner to know the parts into which a regular, formal oration is commonly divided. These are, 1. The Introduction, the Exordium, or Procemium, to gain the good will and attention of the hearers: 2. The Narration or Explication: 3. The argumentative part, which includes Confirmation or proof; and Confutation, or refuting the objections and arguments of an adversary. The sources from which arguments are drawn are called Loci, topics; and are either intrinsic or extrinsic; common or peculiar. 4. The Peroration, Epilogue, or Conclusion

PROSODY.

1. PROSODY is that part of grammar which teaches the proper accent and quantity of syllables, the right pronunciation of words, and the structure of verses.

2. Accent is a peculiar stress of the voice on some syllable in a word, to distinguish it from the others.

3. The quantity of a syllable is the space of time used in pronouncing it.

4. Syllables, with respect to their quantity, are either long, short, or common.

5. A long syllable in pronouncing requires double the time of a short one; as, tĕndĕrĕ.

6. A syllable that is sometimes long, and sometimes short, is common; as the second syllable in volucris.

7. A vowel is said to be long or short by nature, which is always so by custom, or by the use of the poets.

8. In polysyllables, or long words, the last syllable except one is called the Penultima, or, by contraction, the Penult; and the last syllable except two, the Antepenultima, or Antepenult.

9. When the quantity of a syllable is not fixed by some particular rule, it is said to be long or short by authority; that is, according to the usage of the poets. Thus le in lĕgo is said to be short by authority, because it is always made short by the Latin poets.

In most Latin words of one or two syllables, according to our manner of pronouncing, we can hardly distinguish by the ear a long syllable from a short. Thus le in lĕgo and lēgi seem to be sounded equally long; but when we pronounce them in composition, the difference is obvious; thus, perlĕgo, perlēgi; relĕgo, -ĕre; relēgo, -āre, &c.

RULES FOR THE QUANTITY.

The rules of quantity are either General or Special. The former apply to all syllables, the latter only to some certain syllables.

GENERAL RULES.

I. A vowel before another vowel is short; as, Mĕus, alĭus: so nĭhil; h in verve being considered only as a breathing. In like manner in English, crĕate, bĕhave.

Exc. 1. I is long in fīo, fīēbam, &c. unless when followed by r; as, fĭĕri, fĭĕrem; thus,

Omnia jam fīent, fĭĕri quæ posse negābam. Ovid.

Exc. 2. E, having an i before and after it, in the fifth declension, is long; as, speciēi. So is the first syllable in āer, dīus, ēheu, and the penultima in aulāi, terrāi, &c. in Pompēi Cāi, and such like words; but we sometimes find Pompei in two syllables, Hor. Od. ii. 7. 5.

Exc. 3. The first syllable in ohe and Diāna is common; so likewise is the penult of genitives in ius; as, illius, unius, ullius, nullius, &c. to be read long in prose. Alīus, in the genit. is always long, as being contracted for aliius; alterĭus, short.

In Greek words, when a vowel comes before another, no certain rule concerning its quantity can be given:

Sometimes it is short: as, Danăe, Idĕa, Sophĭa, Symphonĭa, Simŏis, Hўădes, Phăon, Deucalĭon, Pygmalĭon, Thebăis, &c.

Often it is long: as, Lycāon, Machāon, Didymāon; Amphīon, Arīon, Ixīon, Pandīon; Năis, Lāis, Achāĭa; Brisēis. Cadmēis; Latōus & Latōis, Myrtōus, Nerēĭus, Priamēĭus; Achelōĭus, Minōĭus; Archelāus, Menelāus. Amphiarāus; Ænēas, Penēus, Epēus, Acrisionēus, Adamantēus, Phœbēus, Gigantēus; Darīus, Basilĭus, Eugenĭus, Bacchĭus; Cassiopēa, Cæsarēa, Chæronēa, Cytherēa, Galatēa, Laodicēa, Medēa, Panthēa. Penelopēa; Clĭo, Enўo, Ēlegĭa, Iphigenĭa, Alexandrĭa, Thalĭa, Antiochĭa, idololatrĭa, litanĭa, politĭa, &c. Läertes, Dēĭphōbus, Dēĭănīra, Trōes herōes, &c.

Sometimes it is common: as, Chorea, platea, Malea, Nereïdes, canopeum, Orion, Geryon, Eos, eōus, &c. So in foreign words, Michael, Israel, Raphael, Abraham, &c.

The accusative of nouns in eus is usually short; as, Orphĕa, Salmonĕa. Capharĕa, &c. but sometimes long; as, Idomenēa, Ilionēa. Virg. Instead of Elegĭa, Cytherēa, we find Elegēĭa, Cythĕrēĭa. Ovid. But the quantity of Greek words cannot properly be understood without the knowledge of Greek.

In English, a vowel before another is also sometimes lengthened; as science, idēa.

II. A vowel before two consonants, or before a double consonant, is long (by position, as it is called;) as, ārma, fāllo, āxis, gāza, mājor; the compounds of jugum excepted; as, bĭjŭgus, quadrĭjŭgus, &c.

When the foregoing word ends in a short vowel, and the following begins with two consonants or a double one, that vowel is sometimes lengthened by position; as,

Ferte citi flammas, date velā, scandite muros. Virg.

A short vowel at the end of a word, when followed by a word beginning with sc, sp, sq, st, is usually lengthened.

¶ A vowel before a mute and a liquid is common; as the middle syllable in volucris, tenebræ; thus,

Et primò similis volŭcrī, mox vera volŭcris. Ovid.
Nox tenĕbras profert, Phœbus fugat inde tenēbras. Id.

But in prose these words are pronounced short. So peragro, pharetra, podagra, chiragra, celebris, latebræ, &c.

To make this rule hold, three things are requisite. 1. The vowel must be naturally short; 2. the mute must go before the liquid; and, 3. be in the same syllable with it. Thus a in patris is made common in verse, because a in pater is naturally short, or always so by custom: but a in matris, acris, is always long, because long by nature or custom in mater and acer. In like manner the penult in salŭbris, ambulācrum, is always long; because they are derived from salus, salūtis, and ambulātum. So a in arte, abluo, &c. is long by position, because the mute and the liquid are in different syllables.

L and r only are considered as liquids in Latin words; m and n do not take place except in Greek words.

III. A contracted syllable is long; as,
Nil, for nihil; mi, for mihi; cōgo, for coăgo; alīus, for aliius; tibīcen, for tibiicen; it, for iit; sōdes, for si audes; nōlo, for non volo; bīgæ, for bijŭgæ; scītĭcet, for scire licet, &c.

IV. A diphthong is always long; as,
Aurum, Cæsar, Eubœa, &c. Only præ in composition before a vowel is commonly short; as, præire, præustus; thus,

Nec totâ tamen ille prior præeunte carinâ. Virg. Æ. 5, 186.
Stipitĭbus duris agĭtur sudibusque præustis. Ib. 7, 524.

But it is sometimes lengthened; as,

——— cùm vacuus domĭno præīret Arĭon. Theb. 6, 519.

SPECIAL RULES.

I. FIRST AND MIDDLE SYLLABLES.

Preterites and Supines of two syllables.

V. Preterites of two syllables lengthen the former syllable; as, Vēni, vīdi, vīci.

Except bĭbi, scĭdi, from scindo, fĭdi from findo, tŭli, dĕdi, and stĕti, which are shortened.

VI. Supines of two syllables lengthen the former syllable; as, Vīsum, cāsum, mōtum.

Except sătum, from sĕro; cĭtum, from cieo; lĭtum, from lĭno; sĭtum, from sĭno; stătum, from sisto; ĭtum, from eo; dătum, from do; rūtum, from the compounds of ruo; quĭtum, from queo; rătus, from reor.

Preterites which double the first Syllable.

VII. Preterites which double the first syllable, have both the first syllables short; as,

Cĕcĭdi, tĕtĭgi, pĕpŭli, pĕpĕri, dĭdĭci, tŭtŭdi: except cĕcīdi, from cædo; pĕpēdi, from pĕdo; and when two consonants intervene; as, fĕfelli, tĕtendi, pĕpendi, mŏmordi, &c.

Other verbs of two syllables in the preterite and supine retain the quantity of the present; except pŏsui, pŏsĭtum, from pōno; pŏtui, from possum; sōlūtum and vōlūtum, from solvo and volvo.

INCREASE OF NOUNS.

A noun is said to increase, when it has more syllables in any of the oblique cases than in the nominative; as, rex, rēgis; sermo, sermōnis; interpres, interprĕtis. Here re, mo, pre, is each called the increase or crement, and so through all the other cases. The last syllable is never esteemed a crement.

Some nouns have a double increase, that is, increase by more syllables than one; as, iter, itinĕris; anceps, ancĭpĭtis.

A noun in the plural is said to increase, when in any case it has more syllables than the genitive singular; as, gener, genĕri, genĕrōrum; regĭbus, sermonĭbus, &c.

Except nouns of the first, fourth, and fifth declensions, which do not increase in the singular number, unless when one vowel comes before another; as, fructus, fructŭi; res, rĕi; and falls under Rule I. These nouns are considered as increasing in the plural, and come under Rule IX.

Nouns of the second declension which increase, shorten the crement; as, tener, tenĕri; vir, vĭri; duumvir, -vĭri; satur, satŭri; except Iber, a Spaniard, Ibēri; and its compound Celtibēri.

CREMENTS OF THE THIRD DECLENSION.

VIII. Nouns of the third declension which increase, make a and o long; e, i, and u short; as,

Pietātis, honōris; mulĭĕris, lapĭdis, murmŭris.

The chief exceptions from this rule are marked under the formation of the genitive of the third declension. But here perhaps it may be proper to be more particular.

A.

Nouns in A shorten ātis in the genitive; as, dogma, -ātis; poēma, -ātis.

O.

O shortens ĭnis, but lengthens ēnis and ōnis; as, Cardo, -ĭnis; Virgo, -ĭnis; Anio, -ēnis; Cicero, -ōnis. Gentile or patrial nouns vary their quantity. Most of them shorten the genitive; as, Macēdo, -ŏnis; Saxo, -ŏnis. So, Lingŏnes, Senŏnes, Teutŏnes, or -ŭni, Vangĭŏnes, Vascŏnes. Some are long; as, Suessiōnes, Vettōnes. Brittones is common; it is shortened by Juvenal, 15, 124, and lengthened by Martial, 11, 21, 9.

I. C. D. L.

I shortens itis; as, Hydrocĕli, -ĭtis. Ec lengthens ecis; as, Halec, -ēcis.

Nouns in D shorten the crement; as, David, -ĭdis; Bogud, -ŭdis.— Ecclesiastical poets often lengthen Davidis.

Masculines in AL shorten alis; as, Sal, sălis; Hannĭbal, -ălis; Hasdrŭbal, -ălis; but neuters lengthen it; as, animal, -ālis.

Sōlis from sol is long; also Hebrew words in el; as, Michael, -ēlis. Other nouns in L shorten the crement; as, Vigil, -ĭlis; consul, -ŭlis.

N.

Nouns in ON vary the crement. Some lengthen it; as, Helĭcon, ōnis; Chiron, -ōnis. Some shorten it; as, Memnon, -ŏnis; Actæon, -ŏnis.

EN shortens inis; as, flumen, -ĭnis; tibĭcen, -ĭnis. Other nouns in N lengthen the penult. AN ānis; as, Titan, -ānis: EN ēnis; as, Siren, -ēnis: IN ĭnis; as, delphin, -ĭnis: YN ȳnis; as, Phorcyn, -ȳnis.

R.

1. Neuters in AR lengthen aris; as, calcar, -āris. Except the following: bacchar, -ăris; jubar, -ăris; nectar, -ăris: Also the adjective par, păris, and its compounds, impar, -āris, dispar, -āris, &c.

2. The following nouns in R lengthen the genitive; Nar, Nāris, the name of a river; fur, fūris; ver, vēris: Also Recimer, -ĕris; Byzer, -ĕris, proper names; and Ser, Sēris; Iber, -ĕris, names of people or states.

3. Greek nouns in TER lengthen teris; as, crater, -ēris; character, -ĕris. Except æther, -ĕris.

4. OR lengthens oris; as, amor, -ōris. Except neuter nouns; as, marmor, -ŏris; æquor, -ŏris: Greek nouns in tor; as, Hector, -ŏris; Actor, -ŏris; rhetor, -ŏris. Also, arbor, -ŏris, and memor, -ŏris.

5. Other nouns in R shorten the genitive; AR ăris, masc.; as, Cæsar, -ăris; Hamilcar, -ăris; lar, lăris. ER ĕris of any gender; as, aĕr, aĕris; mulier, -ĕris; cadāver, -ĕris; iter, anciently itĭner, itinĕris; verbĕris, from the obsolete verber. UR ūris; as, vultur, -ūris; murmur -ūris. YR ўris; as, Martyr, -ўris.

AS.

1. Nouns in AS, which have atis, lengthen the crement: as, pietas, ātis; Mæcēnas, -ātis. Except anas, -ātis.

2. Other nouns in AS shorten the crement: as, Greek nouns having the genitive in ădis, ătis, and ădnis; thus, Pallas, -ădis; artocreas, -ĕdtis; Melas, -ădnis, the name of a river. So vas, vădis; mas, măris. But vas, vāsis is long.

ES.

ES shortens the crement; as, miles, -ĭtis; Ceres, -ĕris; pes, pĕdis.

Except locŭples, -ētis; quies, -ētis; mansues, -ētis; hæres, -ēdis; merces, -ēdis: also Greek nouns; as, lebes, -ētis; Thales, -ētis.

IS.

Nouns in IS shorten the crement; as, lapis, -ĭdis; sanguis, -ĭnis, Phyllis, -ĭdis; cinis, cinĕris.

INCREASE OF VERBS.

A verb is said to increase, when any part has more syllables than the second person singular of the present of the indicative active; as, amas, amāmus, where the second syllable ma is the increase or crement: for the last syllable is never called by that name.

A verb often increases by several syllables; as, amas, amābāmĭni; in which case it is said to have a first, second, or third increase.

X. In the increase of verbs, a, e, and o, are long; i and u short; as,

Amāre, docēre, amātōte; legĭmus, sŭmus, volŭmus.

The poets sometimes shorten dĕdĕrunt and stĕtĕrunt; and lengthen rīmus and rītis, in the future of the subjunctive; as —— transierītis aquas. Ovid. DO, with its compounds, is the only verb of the first conjugation that shortens the first crement, but not the second; as, dăre, dămus, dăbam, &c. circumdăre, -ămus, -ătis, -ăbam, -ăbāmus, -ăbo, -ărem; -āris, -ātur, &c. All the other exceptions from this rule are marked in the formation of the verb.

The first or middle syllables of words which do not come under any of the foregoing rules, are said to be long or short by authority; and their quantity can only be discovered from the usage of the poets, which is the most certain of all rules.

less the letter following make it fall under some general rule, as, ādmitto, percēllo, dēoscŭlor, prŏhibeo.

But from each of these there are many exceptions. Thus i is long when it is varied by cases; as, quīdam, quāvis, tantīdem, eīdem, &c. And when the compounding words may be taken separately; as, ludīmagister, lucrīfacio, sīquis, &c. —or when a contraction is made by Crasis or Syncŏpe; as, trīgæ, for trijŭgæ; ilĭcet, for īre lĭcet, &c.—So in the compounds of dies, as, bīduum, trīduum, meridies, prīdie, postridie; but the second syllable is sometimes shortened in quotidie & *quotidiānus. O is lengthened in the compounds of intro, retro, contro, and quando; as, intrōdūco, intrōmitto, retrōcēdo, retrōgrādus, contrōversus, contrōversia, quandōque, quandōcunque; but quandōquĭdem has the second syllable short. O is also long in aliōquin, cæterōquin, utrōbique: So likewise in Greek words, written with a large o, or ω μέγα; as, geōmetra, Mīnōtaurus, lagōpus.

Obs. 4. A in the former compounding part of a word is long; as, quāre, quāpropter, quācunque ; So, trādo, trādūco, trāno, for transno, &c. Ēădem is short, except in the abl. sing. eādem.

E is short; as, nĕfas, nĕfastus, nĕfandus, nĕfarius, nĕque, nĕqueo ; trĕdĕcim, trĕcenti, ĕquĭdem, sĕlĭbra, valĕdīco, madĕfacio, tepĕfacĭo, patĕfacio, &c. hujuscĕmŏdi, ejuscĕmŏdi—Except sĕdĕcim, sĕmodius, nĕquis, nĕquam, nĕquītia, nĕquando, nĕmo, crĕdo, mĕmet, mĕcum, tĕcum, sĕcum ; venĕficus, vidĕlĭcet.

U also is short; as, dŭcenti, dŭpondium ; quadrŭpes, centŭplum, Trojŭgĕna, cornŭpĕta ; but jŭdĭco is long.—Y likewise in Greek words is short; as, Polўdōrus, Polўdămas, Polўphēmus, Dorўphŏrus.

VERSE.

A VERSE is a certain number of long and short syllables disposed according to rule.

It is so called, because when the number of syllables requisite is completed, we always turn back to the beginning of a new line.

The parts into which we divide a verse, to see if it have its just number of syllables, are called Feet.

A verse is divided into different feet, both to ascertain its measure or number of syllables, and to regulate its pronunciation.

FEET.

Poetic feet are either of two, three, or four syllables. When a single syllable is taken by itself, it is called a Cæsūra, which is commonly a long syllable.

1. Feet of two Syllables.

Spondēus, consists of two long; as, ōmnēs.
Pyrrhichius, two short; as, dĕŭs.
Iambus, a short and a long; as, ămāns.
Trochæus or Chorēus, a long and a short; as, sērvūs.

2. Feet of three Syllables.

Dactўlus, a long and two short; as, scrībĕrĕ.
Anapæstus, two short and a long; as, pĭĕtās.
Amphimăcer, a long, a short, and a long; as, chārĭtās.
Tribrăchys, three short; as, dŏmĭnŭs.

The following are not so much used :

Molossus,	dēlēctānt.	Dispondēus,	ōrātōrēs.
Amphibrăchys,	hŏnōrĕ.	Dijambus,	ămœnĭtās.
Bacchīus,	dōlōrēs.	Choriambus,	pōnĭfĭcēs.
Antibacchīus,	pēllāntŭr.	Dichorēus,	Cānĭtĭlēnd.
		Antispastus,	Ălĕxāndĕr.
3. Feet of four Syllables.		Ionĭcus minor,	prŏpĕrābānt.
Proceleusmatĭcus,	hŏmĭnĭbŭs.	Ionĭcus major,	călcārĭbŭs.

Pæon primus,	tempŏrĭbŭs.	Epitrītus primus,	vŏlŭptātēs.
Pæon secundus,	pŏtĕntĭă.	Epitrītus secundus,	pœnitĕntēs.
Pæon tertius,	ănĭmātŭs.	Epitrītus tertius,	dĭscŏrdĭăs.

SCANNING.

The measuring of verse, or the resolving of it into the several feet of which it is composed, is called Scanning.

When a verse has just the number of feet requisite, it is called Versus Acatalectus or Acatalectĭcus, an Acatalectic verse: if a syllable be wanting, it is called Catalectĭcus; if there be a syllable too much, Hypercatalectĭcus, or Hypermĕter.

The ascertaining whether the verse be complete, defective, or redundant, is called Depositio or Clausŭla.

DIFFERENT KINDS OF VERSE.

1. HEXAMETER.

The Hexamĕter or heroic verse consists of six feet. Of these the fifth is a dactyle, and the sixth a spondee; all the rest may be either dactyles or spondees; as,

Lūdĕrĕ | quæ vĕl- | lēm călă- | mŏ pĕr- | mīsĭt ă- | grēstĭ. Virg.
Infăn- | dūm Rĕ- | gīnă jŭ- | bēs rĕnŏ- | vārĕ dŏ- | lōrĕm. Id.

A regular Hexameter line cannot have more than seventeen syllables, or fewer than thirteen.

Sometimes a spondee is found in the fifth place, whence the verse is called Spondāic; as,

Cără Dĕ- | ūm sŏbŏ- | lēs mă- | gnūm Jŏvĭs | īncrĕ- | mēntūm. Virg.

This verse is used, when any thing grave, slow, large, sad, or the like, is expressed. It commonly has a dactyle in the fourth place, and a word of four syllables in the end.

Sometimes there remains a superfluous syllable at the end. But this syllable must either terminate in a vowel, or in the consonant m, with a vowel before it; so as to be joined with the following verse, which in the present case must always begin with a vowel; as,

Omnĭă | Mĕrcŭrĭ- | ŏ sĭmĭ- | lĭs vŏ- | cēmquĕ cŏ- | lōrēmque.
Et flavos crines——

Those Hexameter verses sound best, which have dactyles and spondees alternately; as,

Ludere, quæ vellem, calamo permisit agresti. Virg.
Pinguis et ingratæ premeretur caseus urbi. Id.

Or which have more dactyles than spondees; as,

Tityre, tu patulæ recubans sub tegmine fagi. Virg.

It is esteemed a great beauty in a hexameter verse, when, by the use of dactyles and spondees, the sound is adapted to the sense; as,

Quadrupedante putrem sonitu quatit ungula campum. Virg.
Illi inter sese magnâ vi brachia tollunt. Id.
Monstrum horrendum, informe, ingens, cui lumen ademptum. Id.
Accipiunt inimicum imbrem, rimisque fatiscunt. Id.

But what deserves particular attention, in scanning hexameter verse, is the CÆSURA.

Cæsūra is when, after a foot is completed, there remains a syllable at the end of a word to begin a new foot; as,

At rē-gīnă gră-vī jām-dudum, &c.

The cæsūra is variously named, according to the different parts of the hexameter verse in which it is found. When it comes after the first foot, or falls on the third half-foot, it is called by a Greek name, Triemiměris: when on the fifth half-foot, or the syllable after the second foot, it is called Penthemiměris: when it happens on the first syllable of the fourth foot, or the seventh half-foot, it is called Hephthemiměris: and when on the ninth half-foot, or the first syllable of the fifth foot, it is called Ennëmiměris.

All these different species of the cæsūra sometimes occur in the same verse; as,

Illĕ lă-tūs nĭvĕ-ūm mōl-lī fŭl-tūs hўă-cīnthō. Virg.

But the most common and beautiful cæsūra is the penthĕmim; on which some lay a particular accent or stress of the voice, in reading a hexameter verse thus composed; whence they call it the cæsūral pause; as,

Tityre, dum rede-O, brevis est via, pasce capellas. Virg.

When the cæsūra falls on a syllable naturally short, it renders it long; as, the last syllable of fultus in the foregoing example.

The chief melody of a hexameter verse in a great measure depends on the proper disposition of the cæsūra. Without this, a line consisting of the number of feet requisite will be little else than mere prose; as,

Rōmæ mœnĭă tĕrrŭĭt ĭmpĭgĕr Hănnĭbăl ărmis. Ennius.

The ancient Romans, in pronouncing verse, paid a particular attention to its melody. They observed not only the quantity and accent of the several syllables, but also the different stops and pauses which the particular turn of the verse required. In modern times we do not fully perceive the melody of Latin verse, because we have now lost the just pronunciation of that language, the people of every country pronouncing it in a manner similar to their own. In reading Latin verse, therefore, we are directed by the same rules which take place with respect to English verse, as has been before observed.

The tone of the voice ought to be chiefly regulated by the sense. All the words should be pronounced fully; and the cadence of the verse ought only to be observed, so far as it corresponds with the natural expression of the words. At the end of each line there should be no fall of the voice, unless the sense requires it; but a small pause, half of that which we usually make at a comma.

2. PENTAMETER.

The Pentaměter verse consists of five feet. Of these the two first are either dactyles or spondees; the third, always a spondee; and the fourth and fifth, an anapæstus; as,

Nātū- | ræ sĕquĭ- | tūr sē- | mĭnă quīs- | quĕ sŭæ. Propert.
Cārmĭnĭ- | bŭs vī- | vēs tĕm- | pŭs ĭn ŏm- | nĕ mĕīs. Ovid.

But this verse is more properly divided into two hemisticks or halves; the former of which consists of two feet, either dactyles or spondees, and a cæsūra; the latter, always of two dactyles and another cæsūra; thus,

Nātū- | ræ sĕquĭ- | tūr | sēmĭnă | quīsquĕ sŭ- | æ.
Cārmĭnĭ- | bŭs vī- | vēs | tĕmpŭs ĭn | ŏmnĕ mĕ- | īs.

The Pentameter usually ends with a dissyllable, but sometimes also with a polysyllable.

3. ASCLEPIADEAN.

The Asclepiadēan verse consists of four feet; namely, a spondee, twice a choriambus, and a pyrrhichius; as,

Mæcē- | nās ătăvīs | ēdĭtĕ rē- | gĭbŭs. Hor. Od. 1, 1, 1.

But this verse may be more properly measured thus: In the first place, a spondee; in the second, a dactyle; then a cæsūra; and after that two dactyles; thus,

Mæcē- | nās ătă- | vīs | ēdĭtĕ | rēgĭbŭs.

4. GLYCONIAN.

The Glyconian verse has three feet, a spondee, a choriambus, and a pyrrhichius; as,

Nāvĭs | quæ tĭbĭ crē- | dĭtŭm. Hor. Od. 1, 3, 5.

Or it may be divided into a spondee and two dactyles; thus,

Nāvĭs | quæ tĭbĭ | crēdĭtŭm.

5. SAPPHIC AND ADONIAN.

The Sapphic verse has five feet, viz. a trochee, a spondee, a dactyle, and two trochees; thus,

Intĕ- | gĕr vī- | tæ, scĕlĕ- | rīsquĕ | pūrūs. Hor. Od. 1, 22, 1.

An Adonian, or Adonic verse consists only of a dactyle and a spondee; as,

Jūpĭtĕr | ūrgĕt. Hor. ibid. v. 20.

6. PHERECRATIAN.

The Pherecratian verse consists of three feet, a spondee, a dactyle, and a spondee; thus,

Nīgrīs | æquōrā | vēntīs. Hor. Od. 1, 5, 7.

7. PHALEUCIAN.

The Phaleucian verse consists of five feet, namely, a spondee, a dactyle, and three trochees; as,

Sūmmūm | nĕc mĕtū- | as dī- | ēm, nĕc | ōptĕs. Martial. 10, 47. f.

8. THE GREATER ALCAIC.

The greater Alcāic, called likewise Dactylic, consists of four feet, a spondee or iambus, iambus and cæsūra, then two dactyles; as,

Vīrtūs | rĕpūl- | sæ | nēscĭă | sōrdĭdæ
Intā- | mĭnā- | tĭs | fulgĕt hŏ- | nōrĭbūs. Hor. Od. 3, 2, 17.

9. ARCHILOCHIAN.

The Archilochian Iambic verse consists of four feet. In the first and third place, it has either a spondee or an iambus; in the second and fourth, always an iambus; and in the end, a cæsūra; as,

Nĕc sū- | mĭt, aūt | pōnīt | sēcū- | rēs. Hor. ibid.

10. THE LESSER ALCAIC.

The lesser Dactylic Alcāic consists of four feet, namely, two dactyles and two trochees; as,

Arbĭtrĭ- | ō pŏpū- | lārĭs | aūræ. Ibid.

Of the above kinds of verse, the first two take their names from the number of feet of which they consist. All the rest derive their names from those by whom they were either first invented, or frequently used.

There are several other kinds of verse, which are named from the feet by which they are most commonly measured; such as the dactylic, trochaic, anapestic, and iambic. The last of these is most frequently used.

11. IAMBIC.

Of Iambic verse there are two kinds. The one consists of four feet, and is called by a Greek name Diméter; the other consists of six feet, and is called Triméter. The reason of these names is, that among the Greeks two feet were considered only as one measure in iambic verse; whereas the Latins measured it by single feet, and therefore called the diméter quaternarius, and the triméter senarius.

Originally this kind of verse was purely iambic, i. e. admitted of no other feet but the iambus; thus,

Diméter, Inär- | sĭt æ- | quō- | sĭus. Hor.
Triméter, Sŭīs | ĕt ĭ- | psă Rō- | mă vī- | rĭbŭs | rŭīt. Id.

But afterwards, both for the sake of ease and variety, different feet were admitted into the uneven or odd places; that is, in the first, third, and fifth places, instead of an iambus, they used a spondee, a dactyle, or an anapæstus, and sometimes a tribrachys. We also find a tribrachys in the even places, i. e. in the second place, and in the fourth; for the last foot must always be an iambus; thus,

Diméter, Cănĭdĭ- | ă trăc- | tăvīt | dăpēs. Hor.
Vīdē- | rĕ prŏpĕ- | rāntēs | dŏmūm. Id.
Triméter, Quŏquō | scĕlēs- | tī rŭī- | tĭs aŭt | cūr dĕx- | tĕrīs. Id.
Pāvīdŭm- | quĕ lĕpŏ- | r' aūt ăd- | vĕnām | lăquĕō | grŭēm. Id.

In comic writers we sometimes find an iambic verse consisting of eight feet, therefore called Tetraméter or Octonarius.

FIGURES IN SCANNING.

The several changes made upon words, to adapt them to the verse, are called Figures in Scanning. The chief of these are the Synalœpha, Ecthlipsis, Synærĕsis, Diærĕsis, Systŏle, and Diastŏle.

1. SYNALŒPHA is the cutting off of a vowel or diphthong, when the next word begins with a vowel; as, to be scanned thus,

Conticuere omnes, intentique ora tenebant. Virg.

Cŏntĭcŭ- | ēr' ŏm- | nēs ĭn- | tēntī- | qu' ōrā tĕ- | nēbānt.

The Synalœpha is sometimes neglected; and seldom takes place in the interjections, ô, heu, ah, proh, væ, vah, hei; as,

O pater, ô hominum, Divûmque æterna potestas. Virg.

Long vowels and diphthongs, when not cut off, are sometimes shortened; as,

Insulæ Ionio in magno, quas dira Celæno. Virg.
Credimus? an, qui amant, ipsi sibi somnia fingunt. Id.
Victor apud rapidum Simoëntа sub Ilio alto. Id.
Ter sunt conati imponere Pelio Ossam. Id.
Glauco et Panopeæ, et Inoo Melicertæ. Id.

2. ECTHLIPSIS is the cutting off of m, with the vowel before it, in the end of a word, because the following word begins with a vowel; as,

O curas hominum! O quantum est in rebus inane! Pers.

thus,

O cū- | rās hŏmĭ- | n', ō quān- | t' ēst īn | rēbŭs ĭn- | ānē.

Sometimes the Synalœpha and Ecthlipsis are found at the end of the verse; as,

Sternitur infelix alieno vulnere, cœlumque
Adspicit, et dulces moriens reminiscitur Argos. Virg.
Jamque iter emensi, turres ac tecta Latinorum
Ardua cernebant juvenes, murosque subibant. Id.

These verses are called Hypermetri, because a syllable remains to be carried to the beginning of the next line; thus, qu' Adspĭcit; r' Ardua.

3. SYNÆRĔSIS is the contraction of two syllables into one, which is likewise called Crasis; as, Phœthon for Phaëthon. So eï in Thesei, Orphei, deinde, Pompei; uï in huic, cui; oï in proinde; ëâ in aureâ; thus,

Notus amor Phædræ, nota est injuria Thesei. Ovid.
Proinde tona eloquio, solitum tibi—Virg.
Filius huic contrà, torquet qui sidera mundi. Id.
Aureâ percussum virgâ, versumque venenis. Id.

So in antĕhac, eadem, alvearia, deest, deĕrit, vehĕmens, anteit, eōdem, alveo, graveolentis, omnia, semianĭmis, semihŏmo, fluviōrum, totius, promontorium, &c. as,

Unâ eâdemque viâ sanguis animusque sequuntur. Virg.
Seu lento fuerint alvearia vimine texta. Id.
Vilis amicorum est annona, bonis ubi quid deest. Hor.
Divitis uber agri, Trojæque opulentia deerit. Virg.
Vehemens et liquidus puroque simillimus amni. Hor.
Te semper anteit dira necessitas. Alcaic. Hor. Od. 1, 35, 17.
Uno eodemque igni, sic nostro Daphnis amore. Virg.

Cum refluit campis, et jam se condidit alveo. Virg.
Inde ubi venêre ad fauces graveolentis Averni. Id.
Bis patriæ cecidêre manus: quin protinus omnia. Id.
Cædit semianimis Rutulorum calcibus arva. Id.
Semihominis Caci facies quam dira tenebat. Id.
Fluviorum rex Eridanus, camposque per omnes. Id.
Magnanimosque duces, totiusque ex ordine gentis. Id.
Inde legit Capreas, promontoriumque Minervæ. Ovid.

To this figure may be referred the changing of i and u into j and v, or pronouncing them in the same syllable with the following vowel; as, in genva, tenvis, arjĕtat, tenvia, abjĕte, pitvīta, parjetĭbus, Nasidjēnus; for genua, tenuis, &c.; as,

Propterea quia corpus aquæ naturaque tenvis. Lucr.
Genva labant, gelido concrevit frigore sanguis. Virg.
Arjetat in portas et duros objice postes. Id.
Velleraque ut foliis depectant tenvia Seres. Id.
Ædificant, sectâque intexunt abjete costas. Id.
Præcipuè sanus, nisi cum pitvita molesta est. Hor.
Parjetĭbusque premunt arctis, et quatuor addunt. Virg.
Ut Nasidjeni juvit te cœna beati? Hor.

4. DIÆRĔSIS divides one syllable into two; as, aulaī, for aulæ; Troïæ, for Trojæ; Persĕus, for Perseus; milŭus, for milvus; solŭit, for solvit; volŭit, for volvit; aqŭæ, sŭetus, sŭasit, Sŭevos, relangŭit, reliqŭas, for aquæ, suetus, &c.; as,

Aulaī in medio libabant pocula Bacchi. Virg.
Stamina non ulli dissolŭenda Deo. Pentam. Tibullus.
Debuerant fusos evolŭisse suos. Id. Ovid.
Quæ calidum faciunt aqŭæ tactum atque vaporem. Lucr.
Cum mihi non tantum furesque feræque sŭetæ. Hor.
Atque alios alii inrident, Veneremque sŭadent. Lucr.
Fundat ab extremo flavos Aquilone Sŭevos. Lucan.
Imposito fratri moribunda relangŭit ore. Ovid.
Reliqŭas tamen esse vias in mente patenteis. Lucr.

5. SYSTŎLE makes a long syllable short; as, the penult in tulērunt; thus,

Matri longa decem tulĕrunt fastidia menses. Virg. E. 4. 61.

6. DIASTŎLE makes a short syllable long; as, the last syllable of amor in the following verse:

Considant, si tantus amōr, et mœnia condant. Virg. Æ. 11. 323.

To the above may be added the following, which, though chiefly used by the poets, often occur in prose; and are called

FIGURES OF DICTION.

1. *Prosthĕsis prefixes a letter or syllable; as, gnavus for navus. In Latin there are but few examples of this, but in Greek they abound; as, ἔσπερ for σπέρ, ὄρωρα for ὤρα.

2. Epenthĕsis† inserts something in the middle; as, rettŭlit for retŭlit, μαχεσσάμενος for μαχεσάμενος.

3. Paragōge‡ adds to the end; as, dicier for dici, τουτονὶ for τοῦτον.

4. Aphærĕsis§ takes away from the beginning; as, conia for ciconia. Of this, also, examples are rare in Latin, but frequent in Greek; as, ᾽ῆ for ἔφη. Il. 1. 219.

5. Syncŏpe‖ takes out something from the middle; as, peccâsse for peccavisse, ἔδαν for ἔδησαν.

6. Apocŏpe¶ takes from the end; as, pecŭlî for peculii, δῶ for δῶμα. Il. 1. 426.

7. *Metathĕsis transposes letters; as, pistris for pristis, ἔδραχον for ἔδαρκον, 2. a. of δέρκω.

8. Antithĕsis†† changes one letter for another; as, faciundum for faciendum, olli for illi, ξύν for σύν.

DIFFERENT KINDS OF POEMS.

Any work composed in verse is called a Poem, (Poēma or Carmen.) Poems are called by various names, from their subject, their form, the manner of treating the subject, and their style.

1. A poem on the celebration of a marriage is called an Epithalamium; on a mournful subject, an Elegy or Lamentation; in praise of the Supreme Being, a Hymn; in praise of any person or thing, a Panegyric or Encomium; on the vices of any one, a Satire or Invective; a poem to be inscribed on a tomb, an Epitaph, &c.

2. A short poem, adapted to the lyre or harp, is called an Ode, whence such compositions are called Lyric poems: a poem in the form of a letter is called an Epistle; a short witty poem, playing on the fancies or conceits which arise from any subject, is called an Epigram; as those of Catullus and Martial. A sharp, unexpected, lively turn of wit in the end of an epigram is called its Point. A poem expressing

* Πρόσθεσις, adjectio; προστίθημι, addo, to prefix.
† Ἐπένθεσις, insertio; ἐπιτίθημι, insĕro in medium, to insert.
‡ Παραγωγὴ, productio; παράγω, prodūco, to lengthen out.
§ Ἀφαίρεσις, ablatio; ἀφαιρέω, auf̆ĕro, to take away.
‖ Συγκοπὴ, from συγκόπτω, concīdo, to cut out.
¶ Ἀποκοπὴ, amputatio; ἀποκόπτω, amputo, to cut off.
 Μετάθεσις, transpositio, the change of places.
†† From ἀντὶ, instead of, and τίθημι, to place.

the moral of any device or picture, is called an EMBLEM. A poem containing an obscure question to be explained, is called an ÆNIGMA or RIDDLE.

When a character is described so that the first letters of each verse, and sometimes the middle and final letters, express the name of the person or thing described, it is called an ACROSTIC; as the following on our Saviour:

I nter cuncta micans I gniti sidera cœl I,
E xpellit tenebras E toto Phœbus ut orb E;
S ic cœcas removet JES VS caliginis umbra S,
V ivificansque simul V ero præcordia mot V,
S olem justitiæ S ese probat esse beati S.

3. From the manner of treating a subject, a poem is either Exegetic, Dramatic, or Mixt.

The Exegetic, where the poet always speaks himself, is of three kinds, Historical, Didactic, or Instructive, (as the Satire or Epistle;) and Descriptive.

Of the Dramatic, the chief kinds are COMEDY, representing the actions of ordinary life, generally with a happy issue; and TRAGEDY, representing the actions and distresses of illustrious personages, commonly with an unhappy issue; to which may be added Pastoral Poems, or BUCOLICS, representing the actions and conversations of shepherds; as most of the eclogues of Virgil.

The Mixt kind is where the poet sometimes speaks in his own person, and sometimes makes other characters to speak. Of this kind is chiefly the EPIC or HEROIC poem, which treats of some one great transaction of some great, illustrious person, with its various circumstances; as the wrath of Achilles in the Iliad of Homer; the settlement of Æneas in Italy in the Æneid of Virgil; the fall of man in the Paradise Lost of Milton, &c.

4. The style of poetry, as of prose, is of three kinds, the simple, ornate, and sublime.

COMBINATION OF VERSES IN POEMS.

In long poems there is commonly but one kind of verse used. Thus Virgil, Lucretius, Horace in his Satires and Epistles, Ovid in his Metamorphōses, Lucan, Silius Italĭcus, Valerius Flaccus, Juvenal, &c. always use the Hexaměter verse: Plautus, Terence, and other writers of Comedy, generally use the Iambic, and sometimes the Trochaic. It is chiefly in shorter poems, particularly those which are called Lyric poems, as the Odes of Horace and the Psalms of Buchanan, that various kinds of verse are combined.

A poem, which has only one kind of verse, is called by a Greek name, MONOCŌLON, sc. poēma or carmen; or MONOCŌLOS, sc. ode; that which has two kinds, DICŌLON; and that which has three kinds of verse, TRICŌLON.

If the same sort of verse return after the second line, it is called DICŌLON DISTRŎPHON;* as when a single Pentamēter is alternately placed after an HEXAMĔTER; which is named Elegĭac verse, (carmen Elegĭăcum,) because it was first applied to mournful subjects; thus,

Flebilis indignos, Elegēia, solve capillos;
Ah! nimis ex vero, nunc tibi nomen erit. Ovid.

This kind of verse is used by Ovid in all his other works except the Metamorphoses; and also for the most part by Tibullus, Propertius, &c.

When a poem consists of two kinds of verse, and after three lines returns to the first, it is called Dicōlon Tristrŏphon; when after four lines, Dicōlon Tetrastrŏphon; as,

Auream quisquis mediocritatem
Diligit, tutus caret obsoleti
Sordibus tecti; caret invidendâ Sobrius aulâ. Horat.

When a poem consists of three kinds of verse, and after three lines always returns to the first, it is called Tricōlon Tristrŏphon; but if it returns after four lines, it is called Tricōlon Tetrastrŏphon; as, when after two greater dactylic Alcaic verses are subjoined an Archilochian iambic and a lesser dactylic Alcaic, which is named Carmen Horatiānum, or Horatian verse, because it is frequently used by Horace; thus,

Virtus recludens immeritis mori
Cœlum, negatâ tentat iter viâ;
Cœtusque vulgares, et udam
Spernit humum fugiente pennâ.

THE VARIOUS COMBINATIONS OF THE DIFFERENT METRES USED BY HORACE.

HORACE uses twenty different species of metre, combining them in nineteen different ways, and of course forming nineteen different stanzas. These are as follow, arranged according to the order of preference given them by the poet:—

No 1. The stanza of four lines. The first two are greater Alcaic,† measured thus: a spondee or iambus, an iambus with a cæsūra, then two dactyles; as,

Vidēs ŭt ălta stĕt nĭvĕ candĭdŭm.
| | | | |

* A Strophe or Stanza includes as many lines as are necessary to show all the different kinds of measure in an ode. It is called Strophe, which in Greek literally means a turning, because at the end of it, you turn back to the same kind of verse with which you began.

† From Alcæus, a famous poet of Lesbos, whom Horace frequently celebrates.

The third line is Archilochian,* measured thus: the first and third feet are spondees or iambi; the second and fourth, iambi, with a cæsūra remaining; as,

Sīlvæ lăbōrāntēs gĕlūque.

The fourth line is lesser Alcaic, measured by two dactyles and two trochees; as,

Flūmĭnă cōnstĭtĕrĭnt ăcūto.

This is called the HORATIAN STANZA, because Horace delighted in it above all others. More than one third of his odes are in this stanza.

No. 2. The stanza of four lines. The first three lines are Sapphic,† measured by a trochee, spondee, dactyle, and then two trochees; as,

Jām sătīs tĕrrīs nĭvīs ătquĕ dīræ.

The fourth line is Adonic, consisting of a dactyle and spondee; as,

Tĕrrŭĭt ŭrbĕm.

No. 3. The stanza of two lines. The first is Glyconic,‡ measured by a spondee, choriambus, and pyrrhichius; as,

Sīc tĕ Dīvă pŏtēns Cўpri.

The second is Asclepiadēan,§ consisting of a spondee, two choriambi, and a pyrrhichius; as,

Sīc frātrēs Hĕlĕnaĕ lūcĭdă sīdĕra.

Or thus,

Sīc frātres Hĕlĕnaĕ lūcĭdă sīdĕră.

No. 4. The stanza of two lines. The first has six iambi, the second has four. But sometimes a spondee, dactyle, anapæst, or tribrăchys, is admitted into the odd places; that is, in the first, third, and fifth. A tribrăchys is also found in the even places. The first ten epodes are in this stanza.

No. 5. The stanza of four lines; three Asclepiads and one Glyconic. See No. 3.

* Invented by Archilŏchus, a poet of Paros.

† Invented by Sappho, the celebrated poetess of Lesbos.

‡ From Glycon, the inventor. § From Asclepias, the inventor.

No. 6. The stanza of four lines. The first two are Asclepiadēan, the third is Pherecratian, consisting of a spondee, dactyle, and spondee; as,

Grātō Pyrrhă sŭb ántrō.

The fourth line is Glyconic, No. 3.

No. 7. The stanza of one line. Asclepiadēan, measured by a spondee, two choriambi, and a pyrrhichius; as,

Mæcēnās ătăvīs ēdītē rēgĭbŭs.

No. 8. The stanza of two lines. A hexaměter, and the last four feet of a hexaměter; as,

Laudabŭnt ălĭī clārăm Rhŏdŏn aŭt Mĭtўlēnēn.
Aŭt Ephĕsŭm bĭmārīsvĕ Cŏrīnthi.

No. 9. The stanza of one line, measured by a spondee, three choriambi, and a pyrrhichius; as,

Tū nē quaesĭĕrīs scīrĕ nĕfas quĕm mĭhĭ quĕm tĭbĭ.

No. 10. The stanza of two lines. The first is hexaměter; the second has four iambi, and sometimes spondees, &c. in the odd places.

No. 11. The stanza of one line, containing six iambi, or other feet in the odd places.

No. 12. The stanza of two lines. The first is measured by a choriambus and bacchīus; the second by three choriambi and a bacchīus.

Lўdĭă dīc pĕr ŏmnēs,
Tē Dĕōs ōrō Sўbărīn cūr prŏpĕrēs ămandō.

Observe, however, in the second line, that the first choriambus is imperfect, having its third syllable long instead of short.*

No 13. The stanza of two lines; the first line hexaměter, the second containing six iambi, admitting other feet in the odd places.

* Attilius, a learned grammarian, remarks, that Horace was guilty of this error from being inexpert in this kind of measure, and that, having once begun it, he chose to persevere in it to the end. Some, however, call the first foot an Epitrītus, others divide it into a trochee and spondee.

No. 14. The stanza of two lines; the first a hexaměter, the second has two dactyles and a cæsūra; as,

Arbŏrĭbūsquĕ cŏmæ.

No. 15. The stanza of three lines. The first is a hexaměter; the second has four iambi, admitting spondees in the odd places; and the third line has two dactyles and a cæsūra, as in the preceding No.

No. 16. The stanza of three lines; the first having six iambi, and the third having four, admitting spondees, &c. as before; the middle line has two dactyles and a cæsūra.

No. 17. The stanza of two lines. The first line contains seven feet, of which the first four are either dactyles or spondees; the last three are trochees; as,

Sōlvĭtūr ācrĭs hĭēms grātā vĭcĕ vērĭs ĕt Fāvōni.

The second line has five iambi and a remaining syllable, admitting spondees as before; as,

Trāhūntquĕ sĭccās măchĭnæ cārīnas.

No. 18. The stanza of two lines. The first has three iambi, preceded by a long syllable; as,

Nōn ĕbŭr'nĕque' aūrĕūm.

The second line has five iambi and a cæsūra, admitting spondees in the odd places.

No. 19. The stanza of three lines. The first two contain three ionics; the third contains four; as,

Mĭsĕrārum' ĕst nĕque' āmōrĭ dărĕ lūdum.

APPENDIX.

Of Punctuation; Capitals; Abbreviations; Division of the Roman Months; Tables of Roman Coins, Weights, and Measures; Golden, Silver, and Brazen Ages of Roman Literature.

THE different divisions of discourse are marked by certain characters called Points.

The points employed for this purpose are the Comma (,), Semicolon (;), Colon (:), Period, Punctum, or full stop (.).

Their names are taken from the different parts of the sentence which they are employed to distinguish.

The Period is a whole sentence complete by itself. The Colon, or member, is a chief constructive part, or greater division of a sentence. The Semicolon, or half member, is a less constructive part, or subdivision, of a sentence or member. The Comma, or segment, is the least constructive part of a sentence, in this way of considering it; for the next subdivision of a sentence would be the resolution of it into Phrases and Words.

To these points may be added the Semiperiod, or less point, followed by a small letter. But this is of much the same use with the Colon, and occurs only in Latin books.

A simple sentence admits only of a full point at the end; because its general meaning cannot be distinguished into parts. It is only in compound sentences that all the different points are to be found.

Points likewise express the different pauses which should be observed in a just pronunciation of discourse. The precise duration of each pause, or note, cannot be defined. It varies according to the different subjects of discourse, and the different turns of human passion and thought. The period requires a pause in duration double of the colon; the colon double of the semicolon; and the semicolon double of the comma.

There are other points, which, together with a certain pause, also denote a different modulation of the voice in correspondence with the sense. These are the Interrogation point (?), the Exclamation or Admiration point (!), and the Parenthĕsis (). The first two generally mark an elevation of the voice, and a pause equal to that of a semicolon, a colon, or a period, as the sense requires. The Parenthĕsis usually requires a moderate depression of the voice, with a pause somewhat greater than a comma. But these rules are liable to many exceptions.

The modulation of the voice in reading, and the various pauses, must always be regulated by the sense.

Besides the points, there are several other marks made use of in books, to denote references and different distinctions, or to point out something remarkable or defective, &c. These are, the Apostrŏphe ('); Asterisk (*); Hyphen (-); Obelisk (†); Double Obelisk (‡); Parallel Lines (‖); Paragraph (¶); Section (§); Quotation (" "); Crotchets [ ]; Brace ({); Ellipsis (. . . or —); Caret (ʌ); which last is only used in writing.

References are often marked by letters and figures.

Capitals or large letters, are used at the beginning of sentences, of verses, and of proper names. Some use them at the beginning of every substantive noun. Adjectives, verbs, and other parts of speech, unless they be emphatical, commonly begin with a small letter.

Capitals, with a point after them, are often put for whole words; thus, A. marks Aulus, C. Caius, D. Decius, or Decĭmus, L. Lucius, M. Marcus, P. Publius, Q. Quintus, or Quinctius, T. Titus. So F. stands for Filius, and N. for Nepos; as M. F. Marci Filius, M. N. Marci Nepos. In like manner, P. C. marks Patres Conscripti; S. C. Senātūs Consultum; P. R. Popŭlus Romānus; S. P. Q. R. Senātus Populusque Romānus; U. C. Urbs Condĭta; S. P. D. Salūtem plurĭmam dicit; D. D. D. Dat, dicat, dedĭcat; D. D. C. Q. Dat, dicat, consecratque; H. S. written corruptly for L. L. S. Sestertius, equal in value to two pounds of brass and a half; the two pounds being marked by L. L. Libra, Libra, and the half by S. Semis. So, in modern books, A. D. marks Anno Domĭni, A. M. Artium Magister, Master of Arts; M. D. *Medicīnæ Doctor; LL. D. Legum Doctor; N. B. Nota benè, &c.

Sometimes a small letter or two is added to the capital; as, Etc. Et cætĕra; Ap. Appius; Cn. Cneius; Op. Opĭter; Sp. Spurius; Ti. Tiberius; Sex. Sextus; Cos. Consul; Coss. Consŭles; Imp. Imperātor; Impp. Imperatōres.

In like manner, in English, Esq. Esquire; Dr. Debtor or Doctor; Acct. Account; MS. Manuscript; MSS. Manuscripts; Do. Ditto; Rt. Hon. Right Honourable, &c.

Small letters are likewise often put as abbreviations of a word; as, i. e. id est; h. e. hoc est, that is; e. g. exempli gratiâ, for example; v. g. verbi gratiâ.

* Two capitals in this way denote the plural number; as, L. D. Legis Doctor; LL. D. Legum Doctor.

Division of the Roman Months.

The Romans divided their months into three parts, by Kalends*, Nones, and Ides. The first day of every month was called the Kalends; the fifth day was called the Nones; and the thirteenth day was called the Ides; except in the months of March, May, July, and October, in which the nones fell upon the seventh day, and the ides on the fifteenth.

In reckoning the days of their months, they counted backwards. Thus, the first day of January was marked Kalendis Januariis or Januarii, or, by contraction, Kal. Jan. The last day of December, Pridie Kalendas Januarias, or Januarii, scil. ante. The day before that, or the 30th day of December, Tertio Kal. Jan. scil. die ante; or Ante diem tertium Kal. Jan. The twenty-ninth day of December, Quarto Kal. Jan. And so on, till they came back to the thirteenth day of December, or to the ides, which were marked Idĭbus Decembrĭbus, or Decembris: the day before the ides, Pridie Idus Dec. scil. ante: the day before that, Tertio Id. Dec. and so back to the nones, or the fifth day of the month, which was marked Nonis Decembrĭbus, or Decembris: the day before the nones, Pridie Non. Dec. &c. and thus through all the months of the year.

> Junius, Aprilis, Septemque, Novemque tricenos;
> Unum plus reliqui; Februus tenet octo viginti;
> At si bissextus fuerit, superadditur unus.
> Tu primam mensis lucem dic esse kalendas.
> Sex Maius, nonas October, Julius, et Mars,
> Quatuor at reliqui; dabit idus quilibet octo.
> Omnes post idus luces dic esse kalendas,
> Nomen sortiri debent a mense sequenti.

Thus, the 14th day of April, June, September, and November, was marked XVIII. Kal. of the following month; the 15th, XVII. Kal. &c. The 14th day of January, August, and December, XIX. Kal. &c. So the 16th day of March, May, July, and October, was marked XVII. Kal. &c. And the 14th day of February, XVI. Kal. Martii or Martias. The names of all the months are used as Substantives or Adjectives, except Aprĭlis, which is used only as a Substantive.

In Leap year, that is, when February has twenty-nine days, which happens every fourth year, both the 24th and the 25th days of that month were marked, Sexto Kalendas Martii, or Martias; and hence this year is called Bissextilis.

* Kalends, or Calends, is derived from Calo, -āre, to call. In the infancy of Rome, a priest summoned the people together in the Capitol, on the first day of the month, or of the new moon, and called over the days that intervened between that and the Nones. In later times the Fasti, or Calendar, used to be put up in public places.

The Nones [Nonæ] are so called, because they are nine days from the Ides. Ides, [Idus] from the obsolete verb Iduare, to divide, because they divide the month nearly equally.

The Romans, counting in the day on which they dated, called the second day before the Kalends, Nones or Ides, tertio, and so on. And, as the Kalends are not the last day of the current month, but the first day of the month following; we must take this additional day into consideration in accommodating our calendar to their dates; according to the following method:

RULE. Add one to the number of the Nones and Ides, and two to the number of days in the month for the Kalends; then subtract the number of the day: e. g. to find the Roman date of the 21st July; to 31, add 2,=33; from this take 21, the day of the month, and the remainder, 12, is the Roman date, 12mo. Kal. Aug.

THE

WITH REFERENCE TO THE PURITY OF THE LANGUAGE.

THE golden age is generally computed from the time of the second Punic war to the latter end of the reign of Augustus Cæsar, and comprehends the oldest authors in the Latin tongue now extant, excepting the fragments of Livius Andronicus; though, for a considerable time after the commencement of this period, the language was but yet forming, and by gradual improvements afterwards arrived at its most perfect state under Augustus.

The silver age is reckoned to have commenced on the death of Augustus, and continued to the end of Trajan's reign.

The brazen age began at the death of Trajan, and lasted till the time that Rome was taken by the Goths, about four hundred and ten years after the birth of Christ.

The iron age commenced from the sacking of Rome abovementioned; after which, the purity and beauty of the Latin tongue declined very much, and many base words were introduced into the language, especially by the ecclesiastical and medical writers, the use of which ought to be carefully avoided by all persons studious of writing in a good Latin style; the surest way of obtaining which is carefully to read, make observations upon, and imitate, the purest Latin writers, especially those who come the nearest to Cicero, to whose valuable writings this language is very much indebted.

THE LATIN WRITERS,

Arranged according to the Ages in which they flourished.

The golden age begins at the time of the second Punic war, and extends to the latter end of the reign of Augustus; extending from the 514th to the 767th year after the foundation of Rome, or the 14th year of our Lord.

The Romans usually computed sums of money by sestertii, or sestertia. Sestertium is the name of a sum, not of a coin. When a numeral adjective is joined with sestertii, it means just so many sesterces; thus, decem sestertii = ten sesterces: but when it is joined with sestertia, it means so many thousand sestertii; thus, decem sestertia = 10,000 sesterces.

* These numbers show how many of each denomination it takes to make one of the next following, nearly.

† Quadrans signifies a quarter of the as; triens, a third; teruncius, three unciæ of brass, (12 of which made an as,) or a silver coin of that value; libella, a diminutive of libra, being equivalent to the as, which originally weighed a pound; sembella, semi-libella; sestertius, semis tertius, or three asses less a half (after the Greek idiom ἥμιαυ τρίτον, for δύο ἥμισυ); quinarius, five asses, called also victoriātus, from the image of Victory, its usual device; denarius, ten asses.

If a numeral adjective of another case is joined with the genitive plural, it denotes so many thousand; as, decem sestertiûm, 10,000 sestertii. If a numeral adverb is joined, it denotes so many hundred thousand; as, decies sestertiûm, ten hundred thousand sestertii. If the numeral adverb stands by itself, the signification is the same.

ADDITIONAL REMARKS ON ROMAN MONEY.

In the preceding tables of money the authority of Dr. Adam, as given in his "Roman Antiquities," has been followed. And perhaps no one could in general be followed with more safety. But on some few points he differs from writers of great respectability. Forcellinus and Eckhel agree in resolving HS, not into LLS, but into IIS; that is, two asses and a half; giving the letters or lines II their usual numerical power. This solution seems much more satisfactory than the former, and is supported by strong probabilities. We find, for example, on ancient coins, HVIR, for DUUMVIR; and an X, standing for ten, has sometimes a mark drawn across it thus, $\frac{\text{V}}{\text{A}}$; as it is frequently found on the denarius, where it evidently stands for ten asses.

The following account of the Roman mode of reckoning by sesterces is taken from a treatise on the subject by Mr. Raper, in the Philosophical Transactions, vol. LXI.

"The Romans reckoned by Asses before they coined silver, after which they kept their accounts in Sesterces. The word Sestertius is an adjective, and signifies two and a half of any substantive to which it refers. In money matters its substantive is either As, or pondus; and Sestertius As is two Asses and a half; Sestertium pondus, two pondĕra and a half [of silver], or 250 Denarii.

"When the Denarius passed for ten Asses, the Sesterce of $2\frac{1}{2}$ Asses was a quarter of it; and the Romans continued to keep their accounts in these Sesterces long after the Denarius passed for sixteen Asses; till, growing rich, they found it more convenient to reckon by quarters of the Denarius, which they called Nummi, and used the words Nummus and Sestertius, indifferently, as synonymous terms, and sometimes both together, as, Sestertius nummus; in which case, the word Sestertius, having lost its original signification, was used as a substantive; for Sestertius nummus was not two Nummi and a half, but a single Nummus of four Asses.

"They called any sum under 2000 Sesterces so many Sestertii, in the masculine gender; 2000 Sesterces they called duo or bina Sestertia, in the neuter; so many quarters making 500 Denarii, which was twice the Sestertium; and they said dena vicēna, &c. Sestertia, till the sum amounted to a thousand Sestertia, which was a million of Sesterces. But, to avoid ambiguity, they did not use the neuter Sestertium in the singular number, when the whole sum amounted to no more than 1000 Sesterces, or one Sestertium.

"They called a million of Sesterces Decies nummûm, or Decies Sestertiûm, for Decies centēna millia nummōrum, or Sestertiōrum (in the masculine gender), omitting centēna millia, for the sake of brevity; they likewise called the same sum Decies Sestertium (in the neuter gender), for Decies centies Sestertium, omitting Centies for the reason above-mentioned; or simply Decies, omitting centēna millia Sestertiûm or centies Sestertium; and with the numeral adverbs Decies, Vicies, Centies, Millies, and the like, either centēna millia, or centies, was always understood."

The learned, while they agree as to the substance of the foregoing rules, and arrive at the same results in applying them to sums of money mentioned in the classics, yet differ widely with respect to the grammatical construction of the word sestertius. Forcellinus* contends, that sestertium is always the contracted genitive plural of the masculine sestertius; that the use of sestertia in the neuter, is confined to the poets, who form the word, by a metaplasm, for the sake of the metre; and that, where it is found in printed editions of prose writers, it has been arbitrarily substituted for the sign HS in the original manuscript, which sign stands in every such instance for sestertiūm, the genitive plural of sestertius.

Eckhel† considers the numeral adverbs decies, &c. as taking the nature of neuter substantives, as in the expressions hoc decies, decies plenum, &c. which occur in ancient authors; and since sestertius is in its nature an adjective (e. g. sestertius pes, sestertius nummus), he regards decies sestertium, decies plenum, &c. as phrases of similar construction. Hence we find the adjective sestertius varied through almost all the cases, as in the following examples: Decem arbusculārum umbram tricies sestertii summā compenses. Val. Max. Bis et vicies millies sestertium donationĭbus Nero effudĕrat. Tac. Sexagies sestertio margarītam mercātus es. Sueton.

TO BE LEARNED BY BEGINNERS.

RULE I. CONSTRUE the nominative case first (with the words thereto belonging, if any;) then the verb; then the word or words governed of the verb; lastly the preposition, (if any,) with the word depending on it.

II. A genitive case is usually construed after another noun, or a verbal adjective.

III. An infinitive mode is generally construed after another verb, or a participle.

IV. An adjective or participle, if no other word depend on it, must be construed before its substantive.

V. If an adjective or participle govern a word after it, it must be construed after its substantive.

VI. In an ablative absolute, construe the participle or adjective last, i. e. after the substantive or word with which it agrees.

VII. If two adjectives or participles agree with the same substantive, they must not be construed one before, and the other after that substantive; but either both before, by Rule IV. or both after, by Rule V.

VIII. Let the relative and its clause be construed as soon as possible after the antecedent.

* The following Rules are from Lyne's Latin Primer.

IX. Certain adverbs and conjunctions are construed before the nominative case and verb; i. e. they are construed first in their own clause or sentence: so is the relative qui; and so are quis the interrogative, quantus, quicunque, and such like words, (with their accompaniments,) in whatever case.

X. When a question is asked, construe the nominative case (unless it be the interrogative quis, quotus, quantus, uter, &c.) after the verb, or else between the English verb and its auxiliary, expressing the auxiliary first.

XI. After the verb sum, a verb passive, and a verb neuter, a nominative case is sometimes construed; but then there is usually another nominative case, expressed or implied, to come before.

XII. An adverb is not to be construed with a substantive, but rather with a verb, or an adjective, or participle.

XIII. After a preposition, constantly look for an accusative, or ablative case.

XIV. The word governed must be construed after (generally immediately after) that word which governs it; except such words as Rule IX. specifies; and even they must be construed after prepositions.

XV. When in a sentence there is no finite verb, but only an infinitive, with a nominative case, expressed or understood, construe such an infinitive like an indicative, or some other finite mode, the nominative being construed in its proper place.

XVI. When there occur an accusative case and an infinitive mode, quod or ut being left out, construe the accusative first, with the word that before it, because it is there virtually a nominative, and should therefore, with its adjuncts, be construed like a nominative before the verb.

XVII. Words in apposition must be construed as near to each other as possible.

XVIII. All correspondent words must be construed as near to each other as possible.

XIX. Generally construe every word in any clause you have entered on after the nominative case, before you proceed to another clause; beginning each clause, as you pass from one to another, with the nominative case and verb, if there be such in it, and finishing it according to Rule I.

XX. An oblique case, unless it be an adjunct to the nominative, should be construed after the verb; and when more obliques than one depend on the same word, construe accusatives before datives, datives before ablatives, and genitives immediately after the words which govern them.

XXI. When sum is put for habeo, the English nominative is expressed in Latin by a dative, and the accusative by a nominative: in this case construe the dative first, like a nominative; then the verb, as if declined from habeo; and then the nominative after the verb, like an accusative.

XXII. By a very common ellipsis, the verb sum may be understood in any mode or tense; when it is so, it must be supplied in construing, as the sense requires.

XXIII. By a most elegant ellipsis, any finite verb may be understood, and inferred by reflection from another verb of like import, actually expressed within the period.

XXIV. Adjectives are often elegantly used as adverbs; and are then joined with verbs in the construction, and rendered adverbially.

THE

POSITION OF WORDS

IN LATIN COMPOSITION.

THE great mystery of the position of words in the Latin tongue lies principally in these two points, viz.

1. That the word governed be placed before the word which governs it.

2. That the word agreeing be placed after the word with which it agrees.

These two may be termed the maxims of position; and from them result various rules, which may be conveniently divided into two classes, viz.

1. Rules resulting from the government of words.

2. Rules resulting from the agreement of words.

To which add a third class, viz.

3. Miscellaneous rules, not reducible to either of the two classes foregoing.

RULES OF POSITION.

CLASS [redacted] 21

RULES RESULTING FROM THE GOVERNMENT OF WORDS.

RULE I. A VERB in the infinitive mode (if it be governed) is usually placed before the word which governs it.

II. A noun in an oblique case is commonly placed before the word which governs it; whether that word be a verb, or another noun-substantive, adjective, or participle.

III. Dependent clauses, as well as single words, are placed before the principal finite verb, on which such clauses do mainly depend.

IV. The finite verb is commonly placed last in its own clause.

V. Prepositions usually precede the cases governed by them.

CLASS [redacted]

RULES RESULTING FROM THE AGREEMENT OF WORDS.

VI. First Concord. The finite verb is usually placed after its nominative case, sometimes at the distance of many words.

VII. Second Concord. The adjective or participle is commonly placed after the substantive with which it agrees.

VIII. Third Concord. The relative is commonly placed after the antecedent with which it agrees.

IX. Third Concord. The relative is placed as near to the antecedent as possible.

CLASS [redacted]

MISCELLANEOUS RULES.

X. Adverbs. Adverbs are placed before rather than after the words to which they belong.

XI. Adverbs. Adverbs are in general placed immediately before the words to which they belong; no extraneous words coming between.

XII. Igĭtur, autem, enim, etiam, are very seldom placed first in a clause or sentence. The enclitics, que, ne, ve, are never placed first.

XIII. Tamen is very [illegible] and elega[illegible] pla[illegible] [illegible]he first, second, or third word of the clause in which [illegible]

XIV. Connected words should go together; that is, they may not be separated from one another by words that are extraneous, and have no relation to them.

XV. Cadence. The cadence, or concluding part of a clause or sentence, should very seldom consist of monosyllables.

XVI. So far as other rules and perspicuity will allow, in the arrangement and choice of words, when the foregoing ends with a vowel, let the next begin with a consonant; and vice versâ.

XVII. In general a redundancy of short words must be avoided.

XVIII. In general a redundancy of long words must be avoided.

XIX. In general there must be no redundancy of long measures.

XX. In general there must be no redundancy of short measures.

XXI. The last syllables of the foregoing word must not be the same as the first syllables of the word following.

XXII. Many words, which bear the same quantity, which begin alike or end alike, or which have the same characteristic letter in declension or conjugation, (many such words,) may not come together.

HILLIARD, GRAY, LITTLE, AND WILKINS

HAVE RECENTLY PUBLISHED,

VIRGIL, for the Use of Schools, with English Notes, a Key for Scanning the most difficult Verses, and Questions on the Subjects of the Text and the Notes, with a copious Index; by B. A. GOULD, Principal of the Public Latin School of Boston.

EXTRACTS FROM THE NORTH AMERICAN REVIEW, FOR JULY, 1836.

"We have the utmost confidence in the correctness of the text of the edition of Virgil now before us."—"We have discovered no typographical error, and no inconsistency in the orthography."

"The notes are various in their kind, and not among the least frequent or useful are those of a philological character. The editor will not be accused of superfluity or prolixness in this part of his work; and his reasons for brevity in such as every person of similar experience will accept without hesitation."—"We rejoice to find this edition of Virgil excluding the order of construction and the interpretation, which has so long disfigured our school Virgil and other Latin Poets."

It is found by experience, that boys, taught to study without the artificial aid of interpretations, or of orders of construction, never feel the want of them, and read Horace and Juvenal with as much facility as they do Cicero and Tacitus.

This work is published on a fine paper, and a beautiful type, and is altogether far superior to any other edition of Virgil in use in our schools.

Also, by the same Editor, SELECTIONS FROM OVID, with English Notes and Questions.

Likewise, [in press,] HORACE, with English Notes, for the Use of Schools and Colleges on the same plan with the Virgil and Ovid, and by the same Editor.
